ACCESSING THE ELECTRONIC JIL

An online version of the Job Information List is now available for searching by JIL subscribers as well as by job seekers in ADE- and ADFL-member departments. A user name and password are required to search the database. To find your user name and password, follow these directions:

If you are an individual subscriber: If you already have a user name and password, use them. If you do not, locate the address label on the back cover of your Job Information List. Your current online user name is the number located in the upper right-hand side of the address label. Your password is your zip code or the first five letters of your country (capitalized) if you live outside the United States. This user name and password will give you initial access to the electronic JIL. The online JIL can be found at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org); follow the Job Information link to the JIL page, where you will find information on how to search the JIL. You have the option to change your user name and password whenever you choose by going to the JIL page, clicking on either of the "Search" buttons, giving your current user name and password at the prompt, and then clicking the "Subscriber Information" button at the top of the search form and following the instructions for changing your user name and password.

If you are a job seeker in an ADE- or ADFL-member department: Graduate students and faculty members in departments that are current paid members of ADE or ADFL have access to the online JIL as a benefit of their department's ADE or ADFL membership. You must access the JIL through the ADE or ADFL home pages (www.adefl.org; www.adfl.org). Information on how to access the online JIL on this basis is available from your department chair.

SUBSCRIPTION INFORMATION

The Job Information List is published four times during the academic year—in October, December, February, and April. Listings are solicited from two- and four-year colleges and universities for all issues. The cost of a subscription is $30.00 in the United States and Canada and $42.00 elsewhere. The List is sent by first-class mail to subscribers in the United States and Canada and by airmail to all other areas; delivery should be shortly after the publication dates listed below. Please note, however, that these are projected dates only and are subject to change without notice.

|----------------|------------------|
| October issue | 16 October 1998 |
| December issue | 13 November 1998 |
| February issue | 14 February 1999 |
| April issue | 15 April 1999 |

Further inquiries should be directed to Roy Chustek, Editor, Job Information List, MLA, 10 Astor Place, New York, NY 10003 (212 614-6321; roy.chustek@mla.org).

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

The October List contains information on vacancies from departments of English, Comparative Literature, and Linguistics in US and Canadian colleges and universities, as well as some number of overseas institutions and nonacademic enterprises. The listings describe approximately 875 definite or possible positions.

Guide for Using the Job Information List

US and Canadian Departments

The main body of the List, arranged in alphabetical order by state, contains information on definite or possible vacancies, comments on notices published in past issues (e.g., that a previously announced position has been filled), and notices from departments that expect no vacancies but would nevertheless like to keep résumés on file.

Read through this section item by item to see which departments would welcome your letter of application or inquiry at this time. Send letters only to departments expressing an interest in a person with your qualifications. If a notice states that no vacancies are expected but that the department would like to maintain a file of prospective candidates, you must decide in each case whether it is worthwhile to write.

Comparative Literature and Linguistics and ESL Sections

Notices in these fields have been separated out from the main body of the issue and placed under the appropriate heading, with occasional cross-referencing to items in the main body of the List that might also be of interest. Candidates should read through the main body carefully, however, since the cross-referencing is not exhaustive.

Departments Reporting No Vacancies

A list of departments reporting no vacancies can be found on the Job List page at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org). The departments on this list are indicating that they have no openings for the remainder of 1998–99 or for 1999–2000. Do not waste your time and the department's time by writing; if an opening should occur unexpectedly, the department will report this in the next List. The only "no-vacancy" departments to which you should write are those in the main body of this issue where the notice has stated that letters or credentials will be kept on file.

General Advice for Candidates

Be sure that your dossier (transcript, letters of recommendation, and other material) is ready to be sent out by your placement bureau to any department that requests it. Prepare and duplicate a one-page vita sheet to enclose with any letters of application or inquiry. In your letter of application, it is probably wise to express a willingness to be interviewed at the department's convenience. Professional meetings provide a convenient opportunity for such interviews (see list of upcoming meetings below).

While it is important to begin to search for a position immediately, you should be aware that hiring goes on all year. Surveys indicate that only about half of all English and foreign language departments have begun recruiting by the end of December and that the majority of departments do not complete the recruiting process until spring, in some cases until summer.

Bear in mind that the candidate who has not limited his or her search for a new position to a particular geographical area or kind of institution is most likely to find a position. Do not discount the small colleges where one often has the opportunity to teach a wide selection of courses to students of varied backgrounds.

Notice on Tenure Policies

The Modern Language Association recommends that department administrators and their representatives inform candidates before or during the interview about prospects for tenure in the specific position under consideration and about the tenure policies and practices in their departments and institutions. If the information is not offered, candidates are urged to inquire about these policies.

Acknowledgment of Applications

Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

Professional Meetings

In addition to the MLA convention (27–30 December 1998, San Francisco), candidates in English, foreign languages, comparative literature, and linguistics may be interested in the following regional meetings.

For Job Openings

Chronicle of Higher Education. Published weekly (except in August and December). In addition to listing openings under such categories as "English," "Women's Studies," or "Writing," many two- and four-year institutions take out large ads that include all their available positions. The Chronicle also lists openings in administration, at foundations and associations, and occasionally in private secondary schools.

MLA Job Information List. Published four times a year. Four-year institutions are more likely than two-year colleges to list openings here.

ADVICE TO SEARCH COMMITTEE MEMBERS AND JOB SEEKERS ON FACULTY RECRUITMENT AND HIRING

Prepared by the MLA Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities

I. General Principles

1. Everyone in the profession benefits when job searches go well. Timely, open communication can ensure an atmosphere of collegiality between departments and candidates, even when the job market is tight or institutional circumstances are uncertain. Departments help to create such an atmosphere when they recognize how vulnerable candidates may feel during a job search; candidates help when they recognize that departments may be affected by institutional policies largely beyond their control. Problems arising during a job search may lead to impressions that damage individuals or institutions; however, professional conduct by all parties involved in a job search may prevent such problems and can only be beneficial to all.

2. All job candidates should be treated equitably. Throughout any search for new faculty members, departments should adhere to nondiscrimination and affirmative action guidelines, taking particular care not to discriminate on the basis of race, ethnic or national origin, religion, disability, age, gender, or sexual orientation. The principles of confidentiality should be respected by all parties.

II. Advertising and Initial Screening

1. Advertisements for an opening should be as specific as possible about the availability of the opening (definite, likely, or possible), the type of appointment (tenure-track or non-tenure-track), minimum degree requirements, field(s) of expertise, minimum teaching experience, and any other requirements or criteria.

2. Applicants should be allowed ample time to respond to advertisements of openings, and deadlines for applications should be specified whenever possible. Normally, applications should be accepted for at least twenty-one days after the announced publication date for a given issue of the Job Information List (about 15 October, 15 November, 15 February, and 15 April). Care should be taken to inform applicants of the department's projected timetable for making decisions about interviews at the MLA convention, and applicants should be kept informed of their status following the initial screening.

3. Applications submitted in response to announcements should be acknowledged promptly and courteously in writing (if possible, within two weeks), and care should be taken to inform applicants of their status following the initial screening. Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

III. Preparing Applications

1. The candidate should prepare a dossier, including a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcript(s), and letters of recommendation, by the end of September, before the October issue of the Job Information List. It is the candidate's responsibility to make sure that all requested materials are supplied.

2. For the purpose of initial screening, a letter of application and dossier should normally suffice. To save all parties time and money, the committee recommends that departments request writing samples and other material only after a preliminary list of candidates has been chosen.

IV. Setting Up MLA Interviews

1. Candidates should realize that the department advertising in the Job Information List normally expects candidates to attend the MLA convention for screening interviews. Candidates who do not attend the convention may therefore be at a disadvantage. In such cases a telephone interview may be an appropriate alternative. Departments and candidates should realize that convention attendance is generally the most efficient and least expensive way to conduct interviews. Departments should make every effort to be represented at the convention by at least one member of the search committee.

2. Departments need to be able to reach candidates quickly between 1 and 24 December. Candidates who travel in December should supply departments with complete itineraries including telephone numbers. Because of the expenses related to convention attendance, departments should notify all candidates, including those not invited for interviews, of their status as early as possible.

3. Candidates applying from outside North America should have a contact in the United States to receive mail and messages. Since few departments have resources to bring candidates to on-campus interviews from outside North America, candidates who reside abroad should determine arrangements for any on-campus interviews during MLA convention interviews.

4. To be sure that candidates can get the information they need to keep interview appointments at the convention, a department chair or search committee chair should stop by the job center soon after checking into a hotel, fill out the appropriate forms, and then check the “Who’s Where” listing for accuracy.

5. Departments need to be sure candidates know where the interview is taking place. The Job Information Center is set up to provide this information. If you plan to use the convention interview area, you need to sign in with the Job Information Center and hand in your schedule. If you are interviewing in a hotel room, remember that the hotel switchboard personnel are not authorized to disclose room numbers. You can register your room number and a list of interviewees with the Job Information Center, so that your room number will be given out only to the candidates with whom your department has set up appointments. Departments scheduled to begin interviewing on the first afternoon of the convention may need to arrive the day before, to avoid missing appointments because of travel delays or delays in checking into hotels.

6. Departments and candidates should plan realistically and adhere closely to schedules. When arranging interviews, candidates should leave as much time as possible between appointments, keeping in mind that they may have to deal with crowded elevators, slow meal service, or delayed shuttle buses. Departments should remember that interviews that run late may prevent candidates from keeping other appointments and that one instance of lateness can multiply into a whole series of missed or delayed interviews.

7. Whether held on or off campus, in person or by telephone, interviews should be conducted in a professional manner, permitting candidates adequate opportunity to explain and demonstrate their qualifications. Candidates and departments should review “Dos and Don’ts for Interviews,” by Herbert Lederer, revised in 1995 by CAF-PRR and reprinted each October in the Job Information List.

8. Interviewers should make every effort to accommodate candidates with disabilities.

V. Interviewing on Campus

1. Departments inviting candidates for on-campus interviews should pay candidates’ expenses, following standard institutional policies for travel reimbursement. Candidates should be told approximately how many others are being invited for on-campus interviews.

2. On-campus interviews represent a large investment of time and money for departments; therefore, candidates should not accept on-campus interviews if they are not seriously interested in the position. Before traveling to a campus, candidates should thoroughly research the department’s faculty and programs. Candidates should find out what salary range and teaching load have been established for the position and should decide in advance what their own minimum requirements are. It is important that candidates also determine in advance whether their decisions may be influenced by special circumstances that should be communicated to the chair.

3. A department that invites a candidate to interview on its campus has an obligation to (a) arrange the logistics of the candidate’s stay (local transportation, lodging—including disability accommodations, meals); (b) set up interviews with faculty members and administrators; (c) provide a tour of the campus and its facilities; (d) provide adequate information about the department, the university, and the community; (e) plan social activities for the candidate; and (f) inform the candidate of the procedures and timetable for reimbursement.

4. Members of departments and search committees should not discuss other candidates with a visiting candidate.

VI. Negotiating an Offer

1. To minimize misunderstanding and anxiety during negotiations about offers, departments should establish ground rules in advance and let candidates know what these are before any offers are made. Departments should communicate with candidates regularly and openly about the status of the search process. All parties should be aware that, especially in times of fiscal uncertainty, circumstances beyond the institution’s control may delay or disrupt the hiring process.

2. No candidate should be required before 22 January to give a final answer to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. After 22 January, candidates should normally be allowed two weeks to give a final answer to a formal offer.

The committee welcomes comments and suggestions from members. Direct correspondence to Staff Liaison, Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities, MLA, 10 Astor Place, New York, NY 10003-6981.

CHECKLIST FOR JOB SEEKERS

The MLA Committee on Careers offers this checklist as an aid for first-time job seekers and as a guide for graduate departments about ways they can facilitate the placement of their graduates. As an association, the MLA has a vital interest in establishing procedures and practices that make the job search as effective and professional as possible.

Prepreparation

- ☐ Have you completed your dissertation? If not, do you have a realistic schedule for completing it?
- ☐ Have you defined the kind(s) of institution(s) where you would like to teach?
- ☐ Have you informed yourself about the job market? Have you consulted, for example, the Job Information List, the Chronicle of Higher Education, and the ADE Bulletin or ADFL Bulletin about the job situation?
- ☐ Have you spoken to recently hired faculty members about their experiences in the job market?
- ☐ Have you been realistic in defining the kinds of specialized courses you are qualified to teach? Have you articulated what you have to offer as a scholar and a teacher? What are the limits of the jobs for which you really qualify?
- ☐ Have you spoken to one or more of the following persons about the job search: your department placement officer, your department graduate adviser, your dissertation adviser, your department placement committee, other faculty members who know you well and who have shown interest in your work?
- ☐ Have you requested from your department or placement office standardized forms for your letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you requested letters from three to five faculty members who feel positively about you and who know your course work, dissertation, and teaching?
- ☐ Have you given your referees sufficient information about your record and at least several weeks to prepare their letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you estimated the costs of the job search? Although costs will vary, it is reasonable to expect to spend at least $700 for travel, lodging, food, and incidentals when attending the MLA convention. Remember too that you will have duplicating and postage expenses, fees charged by the placement office for sending your dossier, long-distance phone charges, and expenses for purchase or rental of a telephone answering machine to receive calls before and after the convention. Although you should expect to be reimbursed for travel to on-campus interviews, you will probably have to pay airfare in advance. It is a good idea to establish credit and acquire a credit card if possible. When you are called for an on-campus interview, be sure to ask whether your expenses will be reimbursed.

- ☐ Have you requested a mock interview? If your department does not regularly schedule mock interviews for job candidates, have you discussed with several faculty members the kinds of questions you can expect to be asked and issues to be discussed?
- ☐ Have you considered requesting disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

The MLA Convention

- ☐ Have you planned your interview schedule for the MLA convention, making sure that you have allowed enough time to get from one hotel to another?
- ☐ Do you have the information you need about the school and the department to which you have applied (e.g., course offerings, college and university requirements, faculty members)?
- ☐ Have you reviewed the list of “do’s and don’ts” for interviewees?

The On-Campus Interview

- ☐ Have you determined beforehand the schedule of your visit and the meetings you will be asked to take part in? Have you asked the department to add things to your itinerary (e.g., a tour of the library, a meeting with students) that were not originally scheduled?
- ☐ Have you inquired in advance of your trip whether you will be reimbursed for expenses you incur for the on-campus interview? Have you done careful research beforehand about the faculty and curriculum of the school you will be visiting?
- ☐ Will you be required to make a formal presentation to faculty and/or students while on campus? If so, have you carefully prepared this presentation? Are you prepared to discuss your dissertation in detail?
- ☐ Have you received all the information you will need in order to make a decision if offered a job—information about salary, fringe benefits, moving expenses, tenure policies, any other terms of the contract, and the amount of time you will have to consider the offer?
- ☐ Have you informed the department of any necessary disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

After an Offer Is Made

- ☐ Are you well informed about the general financial health of the college or university, its enrollment trends, its support for the humanities, the distribution of majors, and the faculty members in your discipline?
- ☐ Are you clear about what your own teaching responsibilities will be? Do you know what your course load and approximate class sizes will be?
- ☐ Do your research interests have a clear place in the department? Have you asked about support for your research, including the availability of grants, sabbatical and released time?
- ☐ Do you know the criteria and procedures for tenure and promotion?
- ☐ Do you have an informed opinion about the advantages and disadvantages of living in the city or town where the college or university is located? Have you asked, for example, about housing, the cost of living, cultural and social opportunities, local politics, and public schools?
- ☐ You should not be required to respond before 22 January to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. If you receive an offer between 22 January and the middle of the summer, you should be allowed two weeks to make a decision. But once you have definitely made up your mind about an offer, you should accept or reject it immediately: keep in mind that other candidates will be affected by your decision.

Things to Remember If You Don't Get an Offer

- ☐ The hiring season is not over in January; only the first wave has passed by then.
- ☐ While many offers are made in January, an offer in February does not necessarily mean that you are a second choice. It may mean that the department has had to wait a month to reconvene its search committee or receive final approval for funding.
- ☐ You may be on the market too early. The department may not have been convinced that you will actually finish your dissertation by the time specified.
- ☐ You may have pinned your hopes on too narrow a selection of schools.
- ☐ You can still inquire about your status at places where you have interviewed. You may still be on their lists.
- ☐ New jobs open up after the MLA convention. Keep reading the Job Information List through the summer supplement and consult the advertisements in the Chronicle of Higher Education and other professional publications.
- ☐ There will be another job market next year. Start preparing for it now. The current search will have given you valuable experience.

DOS AND DON'TS

FOR MLA CONVENTION INTERVIEWS

by Herbert Lederer, University of Connecticut with revisions by Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities, 1995.

The job interview is an event that has caused sufficient anxiety for both interviewer and interviewee to prompt a number of publications dealing with the topic. In recent years, concern about discrimination in the hiring process has led to a heightened awareness of the possibility of discriminatory intent in the questions asked by interviewers. In order to facilitate the conduct of interviews arranged through the MLA Job Information Service, guidelines have been developed for both interviewers and job candidates.

The Interviewer

Do

Schedule interviews at reasonable times and allow for adequate time
Leave time between interviews for notes
Read all the information your department has requested in advance
Ensure freedom from interruption
Introduce other department members present
Establish and maintain a pleasant atmosphere
Be polite and courteous
Try to put candidate at ease
Be aware of your own biases
Ask specific questions
Elicit all relevant information
Maintain eye contact
Ask appropriate questions; explore areas such as education, experience, special interests or skills, familiarity with textbooks, teaching methods, professional organizations, future expectations
Discuss candidate's attitude toward teaching and research in language and literature
Elicit candidate's interest in specific job
Provide candidate with clear picture of job
Explain operation of school and department
Describe working conditions (course load, other duties, salary, fringes, etc.)
Allow time for candidate's questions
Listen attentively
Ask follow-up questions for clarification or further detail
Inform candidate of probable time of decision
Ask candidate's permission to take notes
Be on time
Ask candidates whether accommodations are needed to make the interview accessible

Don't

Interview more than one candidate at a time
Conduct major portion of interview during a meal
Ask questions about age, marital status, children, religion, medical or disability status, sexual orientation, or national origin
Display boredom
Doodle
Produce stress intentionally
Argue with candidate
Appear hostile to candidate
Be patronizing
Ask for information already in dossier
Ask leading questions
Ask yes-no questions if they can be avoided
Get off on tangents
Do all the talking
Describe job in negative terms
Oversell position
Downgrade other institutions or candidates
Tape-record or videotape
Require candidates to come to campus at their own expense
Make job offer until all interviews are concluded
Assume that the candidate's home institution makes him/her unsuitable for you

The Candidate

Do

Review job specifications
Inform yourself thoroughly about department and institution
Prepare questions you want to ask (about, for example, teaching load, class size, number of majors, range of courses you will teach, library resources, etc.)
Analyze your own strengths and weaknesses
Request of your department some practice interviewing
Familiarize yourself with widely used texts
If possible, allow yourself an hour between interviews
Be prepared to discuss approaches to languages and literature teaching
Think about courses you would like to teach
Be aware of nervousness
Come on time and follow all the usual protocols of politeness
Be polite and courteous
Watch body language (your own and interviewer's)
Project interest and enthusiasm, speak up clearly, listen attentively, and avoid using terms such as "you know," "like," etc.
Keep eye contact with interviewer
Be prepared for aggressive questions
Answer openly, directly, and honestly
Be specific both in answers and in your own questions
Inform institution if you receive and/or accept an offer elsewhere
Try to demonstrate your language ability
Bring out your strong points
Talk about special features in your background, skills, experience, interests, and goals
Summarize your qualifications for the job
Find out when decisions will be made
Write follow-up thank-you letter
Be aware that it is your right to request specific accommodations to make the interview possible

Don't

Be laconic or loquacious
Be either apologetic or arrogant
Appear opinionated or contentious
Argue with interviewer
Let yourself be intimidated
Volunteer negative information
Downgrade other candidates, jobs, or institutions
Get off the track or ramble
Overstay your welcome
Ask about salary in a convention interview

LIST OF ADMINISTRATIONS CENSURED

BY THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

Note: The following list and accompanying explanatory note are reprinted from Academe by permission of the American Association of University Professors and in accordance with the action of the MLA Delegate Assembly.

Investigations by the American Association of University Professors of the administrations of the institutions listed below show that, as evidenced by a past violation, they are not observing the generally recognized principles of academic freedom and tenure endorsed by this Association, the Association of American Colleges and Universities, and more than 150 other professional and educational organizations. The 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure may be found in the May-June 1990 issue of Academe.

This list is published for the purpose of informing Association members, the profession at large, and the public that unsatisfactory conditions of academic freedom and tenure have been found to prevail at these institutions. Names are placed on or removed from this censure list by vote of the Association's Annual Meeting.

Placing the name of an institution on this list does not mean that censure is visited either upon the whole of the institution or upon the faculty, but specifically upon its present administration. The term "administration" includes the administrative officers and the governing board of the institution. This censure does not affect the eligibility of nonmembers for membership in the Association, nor does it affect the individual rights of members at the institution in question.

Members of the Association have often considered it to be their duty, in order to indicate their support of the principles violated, to refrain from accepting appointment to an institution so long as it remains on the censure list. Since circumstances differ widely from case to case, the Association does not assert that such an unqualified obligation exists for its members; it does urge that, before accepting appointments, they seek information on present conditions of academic freedom and tenure from the Association's Washington office and prospective departmental colleagues. The Association leaves it to the discretion of the individual, possessed of the facts, to make the proper decision.

The censured administrations, with dates of censuring, are listed below. Reports were published as indicated by the Bulletin or Academe citations in parentheses following each listing. Reference should also be made to "Developments Relating to Censure by the Association" and to the "Report of Committee A," each of which appears annually in Academe.

MLA STATEMENT ON THE USE OF PART-TIME AND FULL-TIME ADJUNCT FACULTY

The following statement on the use of part-time and full-time adjunct faculty members was developed by an ad hoc committee of the Association of Departments of English and adopted by the MLA Executive Council in February 1994.

The expansion of the adjunct ranks in language and literature departments over the past two decades threatens the integrity of the profession and instructional programs. The practice of hiring numerous adjunct faculty members year after year to teach courses required of large numbers of undergraduates undermines professional and educational standards and academic freedom. Although adjunct appointments can add significant dimensions to curricula and some individuals prefer to accept only adjunct appointments because of other commitments, few adjunct appointments are made for educationally sound reasons. Indeed, the primary motivation for most of these appointments is to reduce the cost of instruction.

Adjunct faculty members fall into two groups: part-time instructors and non-tenure-track full-time instructors. The first group includes both instructors who are clearly temporary members of a department and instructors who teach from year to year and become virtually permanent. Members of the second group have full teaching loads but, as non-tenure-track faculty members, lack the institutional commitment given to their tenure-track colleagues. Graduate students are distinct from both groups.

The conditions under which most adjunct teachers are employed define them as nonprofessionals. Often they are hired quickly, as last-minute replacements. They receive little recognition or respect for their contributions to their departments; almost always they are paid inequitably and receive no fringe benefits.

Excessive reliance on an adjunct faculty can damage individual faculty members, students, institutions, and the profession. For the sake of an institution's economic welfare, adjunct faculty members are often denied the security that adequate salary, health insurance, and professional status can provide. The institution, in turn, suffers through the creation of a two-tiered system in which faculty members have different responsibilities and expectations.

In the light of these concerns, the MLA urges college and university administrators to make new and concerted efforts to eliminate excessive and irresponsible adjunct faculty appointments, to improve employment conditions for essential adjunct faculty members, and to recognize the professional status and important contributions of such teachers.

The MLA offers the following guidelines for the employment of faculty members.

Guidelines

1. Each department should establish an appropriate limit on the number of adjunct faculty members in relation to the number of tenured or tenure-track faculty members and of graduate students serving as apprentice teachers. The norm in a department should be the tenured or tenure-track position. As tenured faculty members retire, they should be replaced by tenure-track faculty members. Departments that routinely assign a large part of undergraduate instruction to adjunct faculty members should reconsider their staffing practices.

2. All adjunct faculty members should be treated as professionals. Each department should develop a set of guidelines for adjunct faculty employment. These guidelines may vary from institution to institution but should address the following concerns:

- a. Adjunct faculty members should be hired, reviewed, and given teaching assignments according to processes comparable to those established for the tenured or tenure-track faculty members.
- b. They should be given mailboxes, office space, and clerical support.
- c. They should receive adequate introduction to their teaching assignments, departments, and institutions.
- d. They should be paid equitable prorated salaries and should receive basic benefits such as health insurance.
- e. They should be eligible for incentives that foster professional development, including merit raises and funds for research and travel.
- f. As appropriate, they should participate in determining departmental and institutional policies.

Asst/Assoc Professor in Creative Writing

The Program in Creative Writing at the University of Alabama invites applications for an Associate or advanced Assistant Professor to teach fiction writing in a thriving MFA program beginning Fall 1999. We are seeking a fiction writer of national reputation with significant book publication and substantial teaching experience for this permanent position. The MFA is the preferred degree. Expertise in the writing of other genres is desirable but not required. Typically the teaching load for a productive faculty member is two classes per semester. Salary and rank will be commensurate with experience. We currently enroll about 200 undergraduates in creative writing and some 60 MFA students. The writing program has excellent support from the English Department and the University. The faculty in the Program in Creative Writing is comprised of two poets (Robin Behn and Bruce Smith) and three fiction writers (Michael Martone, Sandy Huss, and the person to be hired). An endowed chair brings two more writers a year to campus, each for a semester in residence, and the endowed Bankhead Visiting Writer's Series annually sponsors a dozen or more readings and short residencies. Alabama is home to both a campus literary magazine and the nationally known BLACK WARRIOR REVIEW. About 95% of our MFA students, who come from all over the United States, enjoy fellowships or teaching assistantships, and many are publishing well. About 130,000 people live in Tuscaloosa County, 19,000 of whom are students at the university. Situated on the Black Warrior River, Tuscaloosa enjoys a mild climate and very reasonable living costs. We are about fifty miles west of Birmingham and within a half-day's drive of Atlanta, New Orleans, the Smokey Mountains, and the Gulf Coast. There is a strong sense of community among the writers here. Review of applications will begin September 20, 1998, and continue until the position is filled. Priority for MLA interviews will be given to those applications received by November 16. Send letter and vita to: Michael Martone, Search Committee Chair, Department of English, University of Alabama, P.O. Box 870244, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0244. Do not send a dossier or books unless we request them. The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action employer.

Andrew W. Mellon Post-doctoral Fellowship

The UCLA Humanities Consortium invites applications for 3 Andrew W. Mellon post-doctoral fellowships in the humanities. The tenure of the fellowships is 2 years, with teaching required in the second year only, and a yearly stipend of $33,000. Applications will be considered from candidates who have earned the Ph.D. within the last 4 years, in any field of the humanities and social sciences. The Consortium anticipates appointing 1 fellow in each of 3 historical periods: Medieval-Renaissance; 17th-18th Century; 19th-20th Century.

The theme of the fellowship program for 1999-2000 is: Sacred and Profane. From medieval canon law to Enlightenment skepticism to 20th-Century anthropology, sacred and profane have been elementary categories not only of religious life, but of social life in general. How cultures define-or blur-the shifting boundaries between sacred and profane things is a central but often unexamined question in many areas of scholarly inquiry. Equally important is the historical continuity of such categories within given societies. How have the vehicles of these categories, when subverted, been replaced by other means? What happens to the relationship of sacred and profane in the rise of European scientism, especially in the face of its primitive others? How do these categories continue to shape social passions as we enter the next millennium?

All applications, including a cover letter, statement of scholarly project, and cv, should be sent by Feb. 1 to: Prof. Vincent P. Pecora, Director, Humanities Consortium-Mellon Fellowship Program, 310 Royce Hall, University of California, Los Angeles, CA 90095.

Professor of Film Studies

The Program in Film Studies at the University of California, Irvine, invites applications and nominations for a senior, tenured position beginning July 1, 1999. Film Studies is the fourth largest undergraduate major in the School of Humanities and has offered a graduate emphasis in the Art History Ph.D. Program since 1997. We are pleased to announce that, commencing in the fall of 1999, a new Ph.D. Program in Visual Studies will be offered jointly by Film Studies and the Department of Art History. QUALIFICATIONS: Scholarly expertise in film theory, history, and visual studies. Applicants should be nationally and internationally recognized, with strong publication, teaching, and administrative records. APPLICATIONS: Statement of current research and teaching interests, and curriculum vitae. Send materials to Professor Anne Friedberg, Chair, Search Committee, University of California-Irvine, Program in Film Studies, HIB 235, Irvine, CA 92697-2435. UC-Irvine is located in the Southern California region, approximately halfway between Los Angeles and San Diego, and offers easy access to diverse museums, archives, and research collections. The campus is home to the Humanities Film and Video Center, a state-of-the-art theater showcasing innovative film and video programs. The School of Humanities boasts the internationally-recognized Critical Theory Institute and UCI is also the host campus to the University of California systemwide Humanities Research Institute. Further inquiries may be addressed to Professor Friedberg by e-mail at afriedbe@uci.edu. Proof of US citizenship or eligibility for US employment will be required prior to employment (Immigration Reform Act of 1986). APPLICATION DEADLINE: DECEMBER 7, 1998. Assistant Professor

The Women's Studies Program at the University of California, Davis, invites applications for a tenure-track professor at the Assistant Professor-level rank, effective July 1, 1999. Responsibilities will include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses, serving on dissertation committees, and community and department service. UC Davis seeks candidates with a strong promise of scholarly productivity and a strong commitment to excellence in teaching. A Ph.D. and teaching experience are required. Publications are also required, commensurate with rank.

We seek a scholar who explores key dimensions of gender in relation to colonialism, nationalism, postcoloniality, and globalization, and who links issues of colonialism, imperialism, and Third World Nationalism on the one hand, and of race, ethnicity, gender, and multiculturalism on the other, and who attempts to place these often ghettoized histories and discourses in productive relation to each other. Rather than segregating historical periods and geographical regions into neatly fenced-off areas of expertise, such a scholar would explore their interconnectedness through gender studies. This scholar will help to cement our prominence in gender and global studies.

Please send a letter of application, CV, sample of written work, and a list of referees to Professor Belinda Robnett, Women's Studies Program, University of California, Davis, CA, 95616. The position is open until filled. To ensure consideration, all materials should be postmarked no later than December 1, 1998.

Georgia Tech's School of Literature, Communication, and Culture (LCC) is engaged in rethinking the role of humanities education in an increasingly technological, multicultural environment. LCC offers a master's degree in Information Design and Technology, a bachelor's degree in Science, Technology, and Culture, and a minor in Performance Studies. The school co-sponsors interdisciplinary minors in Women, Science, and Technology and African-American Studies. In addition the School provides humanities and communication courses for all undergraduates. LCC's Center for New Media Education and Research supports theoretical and applied research in new media and offers continuing and executive education through its certificate programs in multimedia development and web design.

In keeping both with our current programs and with the possible development of a Ph.D. program, we seek to fill two (2) tenured positions at the rank of Associate or Full Professor. Applicants should share LCC's commitment to interdisciplinary work at the theoretical and applied levels, as well as to the incorporation of digital technology into humanities education. We are especially interested in considering candidates with experience in the design and production of new media. Women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply. Send letter and CV to Professor Richard Grusin, Chair, School of Literature, Communication, and Culture, Atlanta, GA 30332-0165. Applications should be postmarked by October 31.

Mercer U

English, Macon Georgia 31207

Instructor/Assistant Professor

00311

Tenure-track instructor or assistant professor to begin August, 1999. Qualifications: for instructor, ABD, for assistant professor, PhD; for both, evidence of strong promise of excellence in teaching and scholarly work. Area of speciality open; we do seek in this and future appointments to strengthen the department in African-American literature, women's and gender studies, modern drama, and modern fiction. All department members teach a year-long seminar required of entering students. Some also elect to teach in interdisciplinary programs, including a Great Books sequence, an option some students choose to fulfill general education requirements.

The College of Liberal Arts, the historic core of Mercer University, is a selective residential institution serving nearly 1,900 students and enrolling 1,450 undergraduate majors on the University's main campus in Macon. The University and College draw on a rich Baptist heritage, offering challenging educational programs in a community committed to academic freedom and to diversity within both the student body and the faculty. Women and minority candidates are very strongly encouraged to apply. To be considered, applicants must provide a letter, official transcripts of all graduate work completed, a current c.v., and three confidential letters of reference sent directly to Kenneth Hammond, Chair, English Department, Mercer University, Macon, GA 31207.

Materials should be postmarked o.o.b. November 7, 1998. Review of credentials will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. MLA interviews are possible; finalists will be invited for campus interviews. Mercer University is an EEO/AA employer.

Emphasis on the Renaissance through 17th century. We seek excellent teachers and versatile faculty members with a broad array of teaching interests in addition to their primary specialization. The successful candidate will be comfortable teaching courses ranging from basic writing to the graduate (Master's) level to a diverse group of students in a vibrant metropolitan environment. Roosevelt's School structure allows for a high degree of interdisciplinarity. The School of Liberal Studies is filling two positions and one of the successful candidates will have a strong secondary interest and/or training in women's studies. Part of this person's teaching load will occur in this program, which currently includes an undergraduate minor and a Master's degree. Both successful candidates will show a strong interest in composition.

The standard Roosevelt teaching load is seven courses per year, with an average class size of about 15. We have two campuses, one in downtown Chicago, the second in the northwest suburbs. Faculty generally teach at both, though they are primarily attached to one.

Minimum qualifications: Ph.D. in hand by 15 August 1999; solid scholarly potential essential.

Deadline: Letter, CV and dossier should be postmarked no later than 13 November to receive full consideration. We will interview at MLA and will make every effort to respond promptly to all applications. Roosevelt University, true to its founding heritage of principled commitment to toleration and principled opposition to discrimination, is an equal employment opportunity institution.

Direct credentials to D. J. Trela, Director, School of Liberal Studies, Roosevelt University, 430 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, IL 60605-1394.

Associate or Full Professor

The Women's Studies Program at Mount Holyoke College, the oldest continuing liberal arts college for women in the country, seeks a full-time tenurable Associate Professor of Women's Studies (applicants at the rank of Professor are welcomed), beginning fall 1999.

Mount Holyoke has reaffirmed its mission as a women's college and its commitment to diversity at all levels of the institution. Women's Studies, a collaborative interdisciplinary program, is strongly committed to fostering connections between campus and community and to constructing a vigorous intellectual community of feminist scholars, activists and teachers at Mount Holyoke and its neighboring colleges. We seek a scholar who is prepared to chair the program for an initial 3-5 year term and who is able to offer imaginative leadership in Women's Studies both within and beyond the program itself. Qualifications for this position include an outstanding record of scholarly achievement, proven administrative ability, demonstrated excellence in teaching, and experience working with students of diverse backgrounds. Area of specialization open. Particular interest in scholars focused on cross-cultural or international areas of study and/or race, ethnicity, sexuality.

No later than November 30, 1998, applicants should send a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a letter presenting (1) their specific qualifications for the position; (2) their ideas about the critical issues facing Women's Studies programs in the next decade; and, (3) their view of the goals and significance of women's education today.

Apply to Julie Inness, Chair, Women's Studies Search Committee, Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, MA 01075 (e-mail: jinness@mtholyoke.edu).

Mount Holyoke is committed to fostering cultural diversity and multicultural awareness in its faculty, staff and students and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Women and people of color are especially encouraged to apply. www.mtholyoke.edu

The Department of Rhetoric of the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, invites applications for a tenure-track position in the area of Writing in Science and Technology and Writing Across the Curriculum. The Rhetoric Department offers a B.S. and an M.S. in scientific and technical communication and an M.A. and Ph.D. in rhetoric and scientific and technical communication. The Department is looking for a teacher and scholar who will be able to provide leadership in developing writing intensive courses within the College of Agriculture, Food, and Environmental Sciences (COAFES) and would help modify Rhetoric undergraduate courses to suit the needs of COAFES majors as the University institutes a new writing intensive (writing across the curriculum) requirement. The successful candidate would also be able to develop a teaching assistant (TA) training program for TAs to support writing intensive courses in science and technology, would carry out research on communication in scientific and technical disciplines and workplaces, and would support the Rhetoric graduate programs in the area of pedagogy.

Qualifications: Minimum: Ph.D. in hand by 15 August 1999 in rhetoric, technical communication, English, speech communication or related field; knowledge of writing in science and technology; evidence of leadership ability in writing across the curriculum; evidence of successful teaching and potential as a publishing scholar or researcher. Desired: Ability to contribute to existing and to develop new courses in scientific and technical communication to undergraduate and graduate programs within the department.

Application Procedure: Send letter of application with a statement of career goals, a curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference to: Mary M. Lay, Chair, Search Committee, Department of Rhetoric, University of Minnesota, 64 Classroom Office Bldg., 1994 Buford Ave., St. Paul, MN 55108-6122.

Application must be postmarked by November 9, 1998. We cannot accept late applications.

Assistant Professor of Children's Literature and Culture 00717

Pending budgetary approval, we anticipate a tenure-track position to begin Fall Term, 1999. We are looking for candidates engaged in theoretically informed work which articulates the cultures and literatures of childhood with other areas of literary and cultural studies. The successful candidate will teach primarily in an innovative and interdisciplinary program in children's literature, but will also teach in other areas of the English curriculum, including composition, and participate in our graduate program in Cultural and Critical Studies. Special attention will be given to candidates whose scholarly projects in the field of children and culture are relevant to the theoretical and pedagogical issues of other areas in English Studies, such as literary history and/or theory, global English, period and area studies, literacy and composition, and film and media. Candidates should be interested in working on program organization and development. Course load: normally 4/yr. Salaries competitive. Tenure awarded for excellence in teaching, research, publication, and service. PhD required by 9/1/99.

We particularly seek candidates whose work addresses issues in minority and gender studies and we encourage applications from minorities and women. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer.

Send letter with CV by November 1. E-mail is available for additional information only: barth@imap.pitt.edu. David Bartholomae, Chair, Department of English, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15260.

Director of the Walter Chapin Simpson Center for the Humanities

The Walter Chapin Simpson Center for the Humanities invites applications for the position of Director. The Director will hold a tenured faculty appointment (Professor or Associate Professor) in an academic department in addition to serving in this 50% administrative position in the Center. The Center has been in operation for approximately ten years. It has recently received a major private gift and a substantial increase in internal funding, giving it an operations budget of about $750K per year. The new director will be expected to design and implement activities integrating research, teaching, and public programs. The initial appointment is for a five-year term, with the possibility of renewal for a second term. A full-time professional Associate Director oversees the staff and the daily operations of the Center. The Director provides the intellectual leadership for the Center, interacts with the Executive Board, staff, faculty, and students, and coordinates efforts toward public outreach. The Director should hold the Ph.D. degree (or similar professional qualifications) in some field or discipline in the humanities or the arts. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Prospective candidates should submit a letter of application, a current resume or vita, and the names of at least three referees. Additional materials may be requested at a later date. Applications should be submitted by November 1, 1998. Late Submissions may be considered in special circumstances. Employment to begin not later than autumn 1999.

Interested applicants can find additional information about the Walter Chapin Simpson Center for the Humanities, including the names of members of the Search Committee, at the following World Wide Web site: <http://weber.u.washington.edu/~uwch>. Liberal Studies, Bothell Washington 98021

Assistant Professor in American Studies

00074

The University of Washington, Bothell announces the availability of a tenure-track assistant professor position in American Studies within our upper-division Liberal Studies program.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach and to conduct research in at least one of the following areas: nineteenth century culture and literature; late nineteenth and early twentieth century culture and literature; race, immigration, and ethnicity. Training in literary and historical analysis is required. Competence in other disciplinary perspectives and/or in various theoretical approaches is desirable. The appointee will be expected to teach broadly within our Liberal Studies options in American Studies and in Culture, Literature, and the Arts and to contribute significantly to our growing institution committed to interdisciplinary inquiry. Appointment will begin September 1999. The teaching load is two courses per quarter. The Ph.D. is required by date of appointment.

In its ninth year of operation, the Bothell campus of the University of Washington is an innovative institution located 18 miles north of the Seattle campus. Bothell faculty members and students benefit from many of the resources of the three-campus University of Washington while working within a smaller institution experiencing dynamic growth. Please refer to our web site for additional information about the campus and the Liberal Studies Program at <http://weber.u.washington.edu/~uwbweb/>.

Please submit a letter addressing your teaching and research accomplishments, and a copy of your curriculum vitae. Also, arrange to have three letters of reference sent to the search committee at the following address. Send all application materials to: Professor Jeanne Heuving, American Studies Search, Liberal Studies Program, University of Washington, Bothell, 22011 26 Ave SE, Bothell, WA 98021-4900.

Priority will be given to applications received by November 6, 1998. Please indicate whether you will be available for an interview at this year's American Studies Conference to be held in Seattle. Position availability depends on final budgetary approval. We are building a multicultural faculty and strongly encourage women, racial/ethnic minorities, and disabled persons to apply. Job Clinic on Nonacademic Careers, New York New York 10003

Job Clinic on Nonacademic Careers

A job clinic for MLA members interested in employment outside the academy will be held at the 1998 convention in San Francisco. The clinic will be conducted by Howard Figler, career consultant, author (The Complete Job Search Handbook), and former director of the University of Texas Career Center. The workshop, consisting of three sessions, will begin at 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, 26 December, the day before the formal opening of the convention, and conclude at 12:00 noon on Monday, 28 December. Conflict with other sessions should be limited.

The job clinic is designed to help participants learn to identify career options and marketable skills, prepare effective letters of application and resumes, locate jobs, and improve interviewing and negotiation skills. It is especially recommended for those considering nonacademic professional careers.

The first job clinic was held at the 1984 convention. Response over the years has been enthusiastic. One participant praised a previous clinic for being "very well organized, reasonably priced." Another observed, "I feel that I now have a concrete picture of available opportunities and practical approaches to the job search. Dr. Figler really helped rebuild my confidence and change my frame of mind to a more positive attitude. I especially appreciated that Dr. Figler's own background and the slant given to the seminar were pertinent to my own specific situation as an academic in transition."

The cost is $205. Participants must be registered for the convention. Since enrollment is limited, those interested should write as soon as possible to the Job Information Service at the MLA office.
