ACCESSING THE ELECTRONIC JIL

An online version of the Job Information List is now available for searching by JIL subscribers as well as by job seekers in ADE- and ADFL-member departments. A user name and password are required to search the database. To find your user name and password, follow these directions:

If you are an individual subscriber: If you already have a user name and password, use them. If you do not, locate the address label on the back cover of your Job Information List. Your current online user name is the number located in the upper right-hand side of the address label. Your password is your zip code or the first five letters of your country (capitalized) if you live outside the United States. This user name and password will give you initial access to the electronic JIL. The online JIL can be found at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org); follow the Job Information link to the JIL page, where you will find information on how to search the JIL. You have the option to change your user name and password whenever you choose by going to the JIL page, clicking on either of the "Search" buttons, giving your current user name and password at the prompt, and then clicking the "Subscriber Information" button at the top of the search form and following the instructions for changing your user name and password.

If you are a job seeker in an ADE- or ADFL-member department: Graduate students and faculty members in departments that are current paid members of ADE or ADFL have access to the online JIL as a benefit of their department's ADE or ADFL membership. You must access the JIL through the ADE or ADFL home pages (www.adefl.org; www.adfl.org). Information on how to access the online JIL on this basis is available from your department chair.

SUBSCRIPTION INFORMATION

The print version of the Job Information List is published four times during the academic year—in October, December, February, and April. Listings are solicited from two- and four-year colleges and universities for all issues. The cost of a subscription is $35.00 in the United States and Canada and $47.00 elsewhere. The List is sent by first-class mail to subscribers in the United States and Canada and by airmail to all other areas; delivery should be shortly after the publication dates listed below. Please note, however, that these are projected dates only and are subject to change without notice.

October issue	18 October 1999
December issue	15 November 1999
February issue	18 February 2000
April issue	14 April 2000

Further inquiries should be directed to Roy Chustek, Editor, Job Information List, MLA, 10 Astor Place, New York, NY 10003 (212 614-6321; roy.chustek@mla.org).

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

The October List contains information on vacancies from departments of English, Comparative Literature, and Linguistics in US and Canadian colleges and universities, as well as some number of overseas institutions and nonacademic enterprises. The listings describe approximately 900 definite or possible positions.

Guide for Using the Job Information List

US and Canadian Departments

The main body of the List, arranged in alphabetical order by state, contains information on definite or possible vacancies, comments on notices published in past issues (e.g., that a previously announced position has been filled), and notices from departments that expect no vacancies but would nevertheless like to keep résumés on file.

Read through this section item by item to see which departments would welcome your letter of application or inquiry at this time. Send letters only to departments expressing an interest in a person with your qualifications. If a notice states that no vacancies are expected but that the department would like to maintain a file of prospective candidates, you must decide in each case whether it is worthwhile to write.

Comparative Literature and Linguistics and ESL Sections

Notices in these fields have been separated out from the main body of the issue and placed under the appropriate heading, with occasional cross-referencing to items in the main body of the List that might also be of interest. Candidates should read through the main body carefully, however, since the cross-referencing is not exhaustive.

Departments Reporting No Vacancies

A list of departments reporting no vacancies can be found on the Job List page at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org). The departments on this list are indicating that they have no openings for the remainder of 1999–2000 or for 2000–2001. Do not waste your time and the department's time by writing; if an opening should occur unexpectedly, the department will report this in the next List. The only "no-vacancy" departments to which you should write are those in the main body of this issue where the notice has stated that letters or credentials will be kept on file.

General Advice for Candidates

Be sure that your dossier (transcript, letters of recommendation, and other material) is ready to be sent out by your placement bureau to any department that requests it. Prepare and duplicate a one-page vita sheet to enclose with any letters of application or inquiry. In your letter of application, it is probably wise to express a willingness to be interviewed at the department's convenience. Professional meetings provide a convenient opportunity for such interviews (see list of upcoming meetings below).

While it is important to begin to search for a position immediately, you should be aware that hiring goes on all year. Surveys indicate that only about half of all English and foreign language departments have begun recruiting by the end of December and that the majority of departments do not complete the recruiting process until spring, in some cases until summer.

Bear in mind that the candidate who has not limited his or her search for a new position to a particular geographical area or kind of institution is most likely to find a position. Do not discount the small colleges where one often has the opportunity to teach a wide selection of courses to students of varied backgrounds.

Notice on Tenure Policies

The Modern Language Association recommends that department administrators and their representatives inform candidates before or during the interview about prospects for tenure in the specific position under consideration and about the tenure policies and practices in their departments and institutions. If the information is not offered, candidates are urged to inquire about these policies.

Acknowledgment of Applications

Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

For Job Openings

Chronicle of Higher Education. Published weekly (except in August and December). In addition to listing openings under such categories as "English," "Women's Studies," or "Writing," many two- and four-year institutions take out large ads that include all their available positions. The Chronicle also lists openings in administration, at foundations and associations, and occasionally in private secondary schools.

MLA Job Information List. Published four times a year. Four-year institutions are more likely than two-year colleges to list openings here.

ADVICE TO SEARCH COMMITTEE MEMBERS AND JOB SEEKERS ON FACULTY RECRUITMENT AND HIRING

Prepared by the MLA Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities

I. General Principles

1. Everyone in the profession benefits when job searches go well. Timely, open communication can ensure an atmosphere of collegiality between departments and candidates, even when the job market is tight or institutional circumstances are uncertain. Departments help to create such an atmosphere when they recognize how vulnerable candidates may feel during a job search; candidates help when they recognize that departments may be affected by institutional policies largely beyond their control. Problems arising during a job search may lead to impressions that damage individuals or institutions; however, professional conduct by all parties involved in a job search may prevent such problems and can only be beneficial to all.

2. All job candidates should be treated equitably. Throughout any search for new faculty members, departments should adhere to nondiscrimination and affirmative action guidelines, taking particular care not to discriminate on the basis of race, ethnic or national origin, religion, disability, age, gender, or sexual orientation. The principles of confidentiality should be respected by all parties.

II. Advertising and Initial Screening

1. Advertisements for an opening should be as specific as possible about the availability of the opening (definite, likely, or possible), the type of appointment (tenure-track or non-tenure-track), minimum degree requirements, field(s) of expertise, minimum teaching experience, and any other requirements or criteria.

2. Applicants should be allowed ample time to respond to advertisements of openings, and deadlines for applications should be specified whenever possible. Normally, applications should be accepted for at least twenty-one days after the announced publication date for a given issue of the Job Information List (about 15 October, 15 November, 15 February, and 15 April). Care should be taken to inform applicants of the department's projected timetable for making decisions about interviews at the MLA convention, and applicants should be kept informed of their status following the initial screening.

3. Applications submitted in response to announcements should be acknowledged promptly and courteously in writing (if possible, within two weeks), and care should be taken to inform applicants of their status following the initial screening. Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

III. Preparing Applications

1. The candidate should prepare a dossier, including a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcript(s), and letters of recommendation, by the end of September, before the October issue of the Job Information List. It is the candidate's responsibility to make sure that all requested materials are supplied.

2. For the purpose of initial screening, a letter of application and dossier should normally suffice. To save all parties time and money, the committee recommends that departments request writing samples and other material only after a preliminary list of candidates has been chosen.

IV. Setting Up MLA Interviews

1. Candidates should realize that the department advertising in the Job Information List normally expects candidates to attend the MLA convention for screening interviews. Candidates who do not attend the convention may therefore be at a disadvantage. In such cases a telephone interview may be an appropriate alternative. Departments and candidates should realize that convention attendance is generally the most efficient and least expensive way to conduct interviews. Departments should make every effort to be represented at the convention by at least one member of the search committee.

2. Departments need to be able to reach candidates quickly between 1 and 24 December. Candidates who travel in December should supply departments with complete itineraries including telephone numbers. Because of the expenses related to convention attendance, departments should notify all candidates, including those not invited for interviews, of their status as early as possible.

3. Candidates applying from outside North America should have a contact in the United States to receive mail and messages. Since few departments have resources to bring candidates to on-campus interviews from outside North America, candidates who reside abroad should determine arrangements for any on-campus interviews during MLA convention interviews.

4. To be sure that candidates can get the information they need to keep interview appointments at the convention, a department chair or search committee chair should stop by the job center soon after checking into a hotel, fill out the appropriate forms, and then check the “Who’s Where” listing for accuracy.

5. Departments need to be sure candidates know where the interview is taking place. The Job Information Center is set up to provide this information. If you plan to use the convention interview area, you need to sign in with the Job Information Center and hand in your schedule. If you are interviewing in a hotel room, remember that the hotel switchboard personnel are not authorized to disclose room numbers. You can register your room number and a list of interviewees with the Job Information Center, so that your room number will be given out only to the candidates with whom your department has set up appointments. Departments scheduled to begin interviewing on the first afternoon of the convention may need to arrive the day before, to avoid missing appointments because of travel delays or delays in checking into hotels.

6. Departments and candidates should plan realistically and adhere closely to schedules. When arranging interviews, candidates should leave as much time as possible between appointments, keeping in mind that they may have to deal with crowded elevators, slow meal service, or delayed shuttle buses. Departments should remember that interviews that run late may prevent candidates from keeping other appointments and that one instance of lateness can multiply into a whole series of missed or delayed interviews.

7. Whether held on or off campus, in person or by telephone, interviews should be conducted in a professional manner, permitting candidates adequate opportunity to explain and demonstrate their qualifications. Candidates and departments should review “Dos and Don’ts for Interviews,” by Herbert Lederer, revised in 1995 by CAF-PRR and reprinted each October in the Job Information List.

8. Interviewers should make every effort to accommodate candidates with disabilities.

V. Interviewing on Campus

1. Departments inviting candidates for on-campus interviews should pay candidates’ expenses, following standard institutional policies for travel reimbursement. Candidates should be told approximately how many others are being invited for on-campus interviews.

2. On-campus interviews represent a large investment of time and money for departments; therefore, candidates should not accept on-campus interviews if they are not seriously interested in the position. Before traveling to a campus, candidates should thoroughly research the department’s faculty and programs. Candidates should find out what salary range and teaching load have been established for the position and should decide in advance what their own minimum requirements are. It is important that candidates also determine in advance whether their decisions may be influenced by special circumstances that should be communicated to the chair.

3. A department that invites a candidate to interview on its campus has an obligation to (a) arrange the logistics of the candidate’s stay (local transportation, lodging—including disability accommodations, meals); (b) set up interviews with faculty members and administrators; (c) provide a tour of the campus and its facilities; (d) provide adequate information about the department, the university, and the community; (e) plan social activities for the candidate; and (f) inform the candidate of the procedures and timetable for reimbursement.

4. Members of departments and search committees should not discuss other candidates with a visiting candidate.

VI. Negotiating an Offer

1. To minimize misunderstanding and anxiety during negotiations about offers, departments should establish ground rules in advance and let candidates know what these are before any offers are made. Departments should communicate with candidates regularly and openly about the status of the search process. All parties should be aware that, especially in times of fiscal uncertainty, circumstances beyond the institution’s control may delay or disrupt the hiring process.

2. No candidate should be required before 22 January to give a final answer to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. After 22 January, candidates should normally be allowed two weeks to give a final answer to a formal offer.

The committee welcomes comments and suggestions from members. Direct correspondence to Staff Liaison, Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities, MLA, 10 Astor Place, New York, NY 10003-6981.

CHECKLIST FOR JOB SEEKERS

The MLA Committee on Careers offers this checklist as an aid for first-time job seekers and as a guide for graduate departments about ways they can facilitate the placement of their graduates. As an association, the MLA has a vital interest in establishing procedures and practices that make the job search as effective and professional as possible.

Prepreparation

- ☐ Have you completed your dissertation? If not, do you have a realistic schedule for completing it?
- ☐ Have you defined the kind(s) of institution(s) where you would like to teach?
- ☐ Have you informed yourself about the job market? Have you consulted, for example, the Job Information List, the Chronicle of Higher Education, and the ADE Bulletin or ADFL Bulletin about the job situation?
- ☐ Have you spoken to recently hired faculty members about their experiences in the job market?
- ☐ Have you been realistic in defining the kinds of specialized courses you are qualified to teach? Have you articulated what you have to offer as a scholar and a teacher? What are the limits of the jobs for which you really qualify?
- ☐ Have you spoken to one or more of the following persons about the job search: your department placement officer, your department graduate adviser, your dissertation adviser, your department placement committee, other faculty members who know you well and who have shown interest in your work?
- ☐ Have you requested from your department or placement office standardized forms for your letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you requested letters from three to five faculty members who feel positively about you and who know your course work, dissertation, and teaching?
- ☐ Have you given your referees sufficient information about your record and at least several weeks to prepare their letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you estimated the costs of the job search? Although costs will vary, it is reasonable to expect to spend at least $700 for travel, lodging, food, and incidentals when attending the MLA convention. Remember too that you will have duplicating and postage expenses, fees charged by the placement office for sending your dossier, long-distance phone charges, and expenses for purchase or rental of a telephone answering machine to receive calls before and after the convention. Although you should expect to be reimbursed for travel to on-campus interviews, you will probably have to pay airfare in advance. It is a good idea to establish credit and acquire a credit card if possible. When you are called for an on-campus interview, be sure to ask whether your expenses will be reimbursed.

- ☐ Have you requested a mock interview? If your department does not regularly schedule mock interviews for job candidates, have you discussed with several faculty members the kinds of questions you can expect to be asked and issues to be discussed?
- ☐ Have you considered requesting disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

The MLA Convention

- ☐ Have you planned your interview schedule for the MLA convention, making sure that you have allowed enough time to get from one hotel to another?
- ☐ Do you have the information you need about the school and the department to which you have applied (e.g., course offerings, college and university requirements, faculty members)?
- ☐ Have you reviewed the list of “dos and don’ts” for interviewees?

The On-Campus Interview

- ☐ Have you determined beforehand the schedule of your visit and the meetings you will be asked to take part in? Have you asked the department to add things to your itinerary (e.g., a tour of the library, a meeting with students) that were not originally scheduled?
- ☐ Have you inquired in advance of your trip whether you will be reimbursed for expenses you incur for the on-campus interview? Have you done careful research beforehand about the faculty and curriculum of the school you will be visiting?
- ☐ Will you be required to make a formal presentation to faculty and/or students while on campus? If so, have you carefully prepared this presentation? Are you prepared to discuss your dissertation in detail?
- ☐ Have you received all the information you will need in order to make a decision if offered a job—information about salary, fringe benefits, moving expenses, tenure policies, any other terms of the contract, and the amount of time you will have to consider the offer?
- ☐ Have you informed the department of any necessary disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

After an Offer Is Made

- ❑ Are you well informed about the general financial health of the college or university, its enrollment trends, its support for the humanities, the distribution of majors, and the faculty members in your discipline?
- ❑ Are you clear about what your own teaching responsibilities will be? Do you know what your course load and approximate class sizes will be?
- ❑ Do your research interests have a clear place in the department? Have you asked about support for your research, including the availability of grants, sabbatical and released time?
- ❑ Do you know the criteria and procedures for tenure and promotion?
- ❑ Do you have an informed opinion about the advantages and disadvantages of living in the city or town where the college or university is located? Have you asked, for example, about housing, the cost of living, cultural and social opportunities, local politics, and public schools?
- ❑ You should not be required to respond before 22 January to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. If you receive an offer between 22 January and the middle of the summer, you should be allowed two weeks to make a decision. But once you have definitely made up your mind about an offer, you should accept or reject it immediately: keep in mind that other candidates will be affected by your decision.

Things to Remember If You Don't Get an Offer

- ❑ The hiring season is not over in January; only the first wave has passed by then.
- ❑ While many offers are made in January, an offer in February does not necessarily mean that you are a second choice. It may mean that the department has had to wait a month to reconvene its search committee or receive final approval for funding.
- ❑ You may be on the market too early. The department may not have been convinced that you will actually finish your dissertation by the time specified.
- ❑ You may have pinned your hopes on too narrow a selection of schools.
- ❑ You can still inquire about your status at places where you have interviewed. You may still be on their lists.
- ❑ New jobs open up after the MLA convention. Keep reading the Job Information List through the summer supplement and consult the advertisements in the Chronicle of Higher Education and other professional publications.
- ❑ There will be another job market next year. Start preparing for it now. The current search will have given you valuable experience.

DOS AND DON'TS

FOR MLA CONVENTION INTERVIEWS

by Herbert Lederer, University of Connecticut with revisions by Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities, 1995.

The job interview is an event that has caused sufficient anxiety for both interviewer and interviewee to prompt a number of publications dealing with the topic. In recent years, concern about discrimination in the hiring process has led to a heightened awareness of the possibility of discriminatory intent in the questions asked by interviewers. In order to facilitate the conduct of interviews arranged through the MLA Job Information Service, guidelines have been developed for both interviewers and job candidates.

The Interviewer

Do

Schedule interviews at reasonable times and allow for adequate time
Leave time between interviews for notes
Read all the information your department has requested in advance
Ensure freedom from interruption
Introduce other department members present
Establish and maintain a pleasant atmosphere
Be polite and courteous
Try to put candidate at ease
Be aware of your own biases
Ask specific questions
Elicit all relevant information
Maintain eye contact
Ask appropriate questions; explore areas such as education, experience, special interests or skills, familiarity with textbooks, teaching methods, professional organizations, future expectations
Discuss candidate's attitude toward teaching and research in language and literature
Elicit candidate's interest in specific job
Provide candidate with clear picture of job
Explain operation of school and department
Describe working conditions (course load, other duties, salary, fringes, etc.)
Allow time for candidate's questions
Listen attentively
Ask follow-up questions for clarification or further detail
Inform candidate of probable time of decision
Ask candidate's permission to take notes
Be on time
Follow the Americans with Disabilities Act guidelines in meeting requests for accommodations

Don't

Interview more than one candidate at a time
Conduct major portion of interview during a meal
Ask questions about age, marital status, children, religion, medical or disability status, sexual orientation, or national origin
Display boredom
Doodle
Produce stress intentionally
Argue with candidate
Appear hostile to candidate
Be patronizing
Ask for information already in dossier
Ask leading questions
Ask yes-no questions if they can be avoided
Get off on tangents
Do all the talking
Describe job in negative terms
Oversell position
Downgrade other institutions or candidates
Tape-record or videotape
Require candidates to come to campus at their own expense
Make job offer until all interviews are concluded
Assume that the candidate's home institution makes him/her unsuitable for you

The Candidate

Do

Review job specifications
Inform yourself thoroughly about department and institution
Prepare questions you want to ask (about, for example, teaching load, class size, number of majors, range of courses you will teach, library resources, etc.)
Analyze your own strengths and weaknesses
Request of your department some practice interviewing
Familiarize yourself with widely used texts
If possible, allow yourself an hour between interviews
Be prepared to discuss approaches to languages and literature teaching
Think about courses you would like to teach
Be aware of nervousness
Come on time and follow all the usual protocols of politeness
Be polite and courteous
Watch body language (your own and interviewer's)
Project interest and enthusiasm, speak up clearly, listen attentively, and avoid using terms such as "you know," "like," etc.
Keep eye contact with interviewer
Be prepared for aggressive questions
Answer openly, directly, and honestly
Be specific both in answers and in your own questions
Inform institution if you receive and/or accept an offer elsewhere
Try to demonstrate your language ability
Bring out your strong points
Talk about special features in your background, skills, experience, interests, and goals
Summarize your qualifications for the job
Find out when decisions will be made
Write follow-up thank-you letter
Be aware that it is your right to request specific accommodations to make the interview possible

Don't

Be laconic or loquacious
Be either apologetic or arrogant
Appear opinionated or contentious
Argue with interviewer
Let yourself be intimidated
Volunteer negative information
Downgrade other candidates, jobs, or institutions
Get off the track or ramble
Overstay your welcome
Ask about salary in a convention interview

BY THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

Note: The following list and accompanying explanatory note are reprinted from Academe by permission of the American Association of University Professors and in accordance with the action of the MLA Delegate Assembly.

Investigations by the American Association of University Professors of the administrations of the institutions listed below show that, as evidenced by a past violation, they are not observing the generally recognized principles of academic freedom and tenure endorsed by this Association, the Association of American Colleges and Universities, and more than 150 other professional and educational organizations. The 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure may be found in the May-June 1990 issue of Academe.

This list is published for the purpose of informing Association members, the profession at large, and the public that unsatisfactory conditions of academic freedom and tenure have been found to prevail at these institutions. Names are placed on or removed from this censure list by vote of the Association's Annual Meeting.

Placing the name of an institution on this list does not mean that censure is visited either upon the whole of the institution or upon the faculty, but specifically upon its present administration. The term "administration" includes the administrative officers and the governing board of the institution. This censure does not affect the eligibility of nonmembers for membership in the Association, nor does it affect the individual rights of members at the institution in question.

Members of the Association have often considered it to be their duty, in order to indicate their support of the principles violated, to refrain from accepting appointment to an institution so long as it remains on the censure list. Since circumstances differ widely from case to case, the Association does not assert that such an unqualified obligation exists for its members; it does urge that, before accepting appointments, they seek information on present conditions of academic freedom and tenure from the Association's Washington office and prospective departmental colleagues. The Association leaves it to the discretion of the individual, possessed of the facts, to make the proper decision.

The censured administrations, with dates of censuring, are listed below. Reports were published as indicated by the Bulletin or Academe citations in parentheses following each listing. Reference should also be made to "Developments Relating to Censure by the Association" and to the "Report of Committee A," each of which appears annually in Academe.

MLA STATEMENT ON THE USE OF PART-TIME AND FULL-TIME ADJUNCT FACULTY

The following statement on the use of part-time and full-time adjunct faculty members was developed by an ad hoc committee of the Association of Departments of English and adopted by the MLA Executive Council in February 1994.

The expansion of the adjunct ranks in language and literature departments over the past two decades threatens the integrity of the profession and instructional programs. The practice of hiring numerous adjunct faculty members year after year to teach courses required of large numbers of undergraduates undermines professional and educational standards and academic freedom. Although adjunct appointments can add significant dimensions to curricula and some individuals prefer to accept only adjunct appointments because of other commitments, few adjunct appointments are made for educationally sound reasons. Indeed, the primary motivation for most of these appointments is to reduce the cost of instruction.

Adjunct faculty members fall into two groups: part-time instructors and non-tenure-track full-time instructors. The first group includes both instructors who are clearly temporary members of a department and instructors who teach from year to year and become virtually permanent. Members of the second group have full teaching loads but, as non-tenure-track faculty members, lack the institutional commitment given to their tenure-track colleagues. Graduate students are distinct from both groups.

The conditions under which most adjunct teachers are employed define them as nonprofessionals. Often they are hired quickly, as last-minute replacements. They receive little recognition or respect for their contributions to their departments; almost always they are paid inequitably and receive no fringe benefits.

Excessive reliance on an adjunct faculty can damage individual faculty members, students, institutions, and the profession. For the sake of an institution's economic welfare, adjunct faculty members are often denied the security that adequate salary, health insurance, and professional status can provide. The institution, in turn, suffers through the creation of a two-tiered system in which faculty members have different responsibilities and expectations.

In the light of these concerns, the MLA urges college and university administrators to make new and concerted efforts to eliminate excessive and irresponsible adjunct faculty appointments, to improve employment conditions for essential adjunct faculty members, and to recognize the professional status and important contributions of such teachers.

The MLA offers the following guidelines for the employment of faculty members.

Guidelines

1. Each department should establish an appropriate limit on the number of adjunct faculty members in relation to the number of tenured or tenure-track faculty members and of graduate students serving as apprentice teachers. The norm in a department should be the tenured or tenure-track position. As tenured faculty members retire, they should be replaced by tenure-track faculty members. Departments that routinely assign a large part of undergraduate instruction to adjunct faculty members should reconsider their staffing practices.

2. All adjunct faculty members should be treated as professionals. Each department should develop a set of guidelines for adjunct faculty employment. These guidelines may vary from institution to institution but should address the following concerns:

- a. Adjunct faculty members should be hired, reviewed, and given teaching assignments according to processes comparable to those established for the tenured or tenure-track faculty members.
- b. They should be given mailboxes, office space, and clerical support.
- c. They should receive adequate introduction to their teaching assignments, departments, and institutions.
- d. They should be paid equitable prorated salaries and should receive basic benefits such as health insurance.
- e. They should be eligible for incentives that foster professional development, including merit raises and funds for research and travel.
- f. As appropriate, they should participate in determining departmental and institutional policies.

<http://WWW.AS.UA.EDU/ENGLISH>

The Program in Creative Writing at the University of Alabama announces an extension of its search and invites applications for an Associate or advanced Assistant Professor to teach fiction writing in a thriving MFA program beginning Fall 2000. We are seeking a fiction writer of national reputation with significant book publication and substantial teaching experience for this permanent position. The MFA is the preferred degree. Expertise in the writing of other genres is desirable but not required. Typically the teaching load for a productive faculty member is two classes per semester. Salary and rank will be commensurate with experience. We currently enroll about 200 undergraduates in creative writing and some 60 MFA students. The writing program has excellent support from the English department and the university. The faculty in the Program in Creative Writing is comprised of two poets (Robin Behn and Bruce Smith) and three fiction writers (Michael Martone, Sandy Huss, and the person to be hired). An endowed chair brings two more writers a year to campus, each for a semester in residence, and the endowed Bankhead and Visiting Writers' Series annually sponsors a dozen or more readings and short residencies. Alabama is home to both a campus literary magazine and the nationally known Black Warrior Review. About 95% of our MFA students, who come from all over the United States, enjoy fellowships or teaching assistantships, and many are publishing well.

Review of applications continues until this position is filled. Priority for MLA convention interviews will be given to those applications received by November 16, 1999. Send letter, vita, dossier and writing samples to Michael Martone, Search Committee Chair, Department of English, University of Alabama, P.O. Box 870244, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0244. The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

U of Mobile

Humanities, PO Box 13220 Mobile AL 36663

Assistant Professor of English

315

The Department of Humanities of the University of Mobile requests applications for a full-time tenure-track position in English at the rank of assistant professor, to begin in August 2000. Ph.D. in hand by that time preferred; readiness to defend during the fall of 2000 expected. We seek a colleague who is committed to teaching excellence and is familiar with and sympathetic toward the mission of a small, church-affiliated liberal-arts university. He or she should be a generalist in inclination but have preparation and interest in teaching courses in composition/rhetoric and British (Romantic through contemporary) and Anglophone literature. 4/4 teaching load; all full-time faculty teach at least one section of freshman English each semester. Other responsibilities include student advising, some committee work, and the maintaining of regular office hours. Salary: mid-20s.

The University of Mobile (founded 1963) is a liberal-arts university affiliated with the Alabama Baptist State Convention. The area of English consists of five full-time members and two with split appointments. We serve a campus of approximately 2,000 students, who take a year each of freshman English and literature as part of the core curriculum.

Applicants should send a letter expressing interest and which includes a statement describing their approach to teaching, a vita with at least 3 references, and supporting materials which supply evidence of their work as teachers: for example, recent student and/or mentor evaluations; sample syllabi; an evaluated student paper; etc. Send all materials (and, if you wish, a self-addressed stamped postcard for acknowledgment of receipt of materials) to: Job Search Committee, Department of Humanities, University of Mobile, P.O. Box 13220, Mobile, AL 36663-0220. No applications by e-mail will be accepted; address e-mail inquiries to johnbuaas@usa.net. Deadline: November 15. Our MLA plans are uncertain at this time; we will announce plans to interview in Chicago in the December JIL.

We seek to fill a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in British Literature to 1700, specialization in the Renaissance preferred, expertise in poetry is desirable. Candidate should have a strong interest and experience in the teaching of writing. A secondary interest in Women's Studies or creative writing is desirable.

Roosevelt's school structure allows for a high degree of interdisciplinarity. All faculty are expected to teach and develop courses in the interdisciplinary core curriculum in addition to undergraduate and graduate courses in their fields. The standard teaching load is seven courses per year on semesters, with an average class size of 17. True to its founding heritage in support of tolerance and in opposition to discrimination, Roosevelt University maintains a principled commitment to diversity in both its faculty and its student body. Therefore, we encourage applicants from traditionally under-represented groups. We are a vibrant metropolitan institution with two campuses, one in downtown Chicago, the other in the northwest suburbs. Faculty generally teach at both.

Minimum qualifications: Ph.D. in hand by 15 August 2000; scholarly potential required. We will interview at MLA and will make every effort to respond promptly to all applications. To apply, send a letter and CV only to Susan Weininger, Director of the School of Liberal Studies, Roosevelt University, 430 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60605-1394. Applications postmarked by November 1 will receive fullest consideration.

Saint Mary's C of Maryland

English, St Mary's City MD 20686

Assistant Professor of English

St. Mary's College of Maryland is seeking an assistant professor for a tenure-track position beginning in the fall of 2000. Because all members of the English Department share in the responsibilities of teaching courses in both composition and literature, we seek a colleague committed to the liberal arts and excellent teaching who has both the ability and desire to teach our introductory and college-wide requirement courses. We especially seek candidates with training and experience in rhetoric and composition. Literary field of specialization is open, although we are interested in someone who can add to our college-wide cross-disciplinary studies programs, such as environmental studies and women's studies. A Ph.D. is required. Preference will be given to candidates with successful teaching experience and a desire to teach basic writing courses.

St. Mary's College of Maryland is a public liberal arts college located 70 miles southeast of Washington, D.C. on the St. Mary's River. A Carnegie Baccalaureate I institution with a Phi Beta Kappa chapter, St. Mary's College has been designated as the state's public honors college. Admission to the college is highly selective: the class of 2003 has an average SAT of 1233 and a GPA of 3.4. The diverse and coeducational student body of 1700 completes a rigorous and unique curriculum, culminating in a year-long senior project. The student-faculty ratio is 13-1. A comprehensive program of support is provided for faculty, including professional travel, internal grants for research and teaching, paid pre-tenure leaves, and sabbaticals for tenured faculty. The quality of life is enhanced by the beauty and recreational opportunities of the Chesapeake Bay region and close proximity to the amenities of Washington, D.C., Baltimore and Richmond.

Please send letter of application, vita, dossier and a short writing sample to Michael S. Glaser, English Department Chair, St. Mary's College of Maryland, St. Mary's City, MD 20686. For full consideration, please submit application materials by November 1, 1999. Applications will be reviewed until a selection is made. Harvard U

Expository Writing, 8 Prescott St Cambridge MA 02138

Preceptor in Expository Writing 1457

The Expository Writing Program at Harvard University hires several preceptors each year. Preceptors teach two sections per semester (fifteen students per section) on an academic topic developed by the preceptor. The salary for the 2000-2001 year will be around $32,000. With summer school teaching, a preceptor can earn as much as $37,500. Contracts are for one year, renewable for five years. Preceptors must have college teaching experience and should have publications. Please send a CV and a letter describing in detail how you teach expository writing—what you think are the most important things for students to learn and how you go about teaching those matters. Include on your CV the names and telephone numbers of those who know something of your teaching. We may ask you later for a writing sample and letters of recommendation. All applications are due November 15. Send materials to Dr. Nancy Sommers, Sosland Director of Expository Writing, 8 Prescott Street, Cambridge, MA 02138. We encourage applications from women and minorities. EOE/AA.

The Department of English in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, welcomes applications for three positions to begin 8/28/00. Though we welcome applicants with specialties in any field, we are especially interested in applicants whose work is interdisciplinary and focuses on such issues as race, sexuality, material cultures, and empire. We particularly invite applicants in periods from medieval to 1900. Within this time frame, we seek those in British, American, Anglophone literatures, cultures, languages, or linguistics or some combination of these. These will be full-time, nine-month, tenure-track positions at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning or advanced. Only those applicants with a demonstrated promise of excellence in research and teaching will be considered. Ph.D. or a terminal degree in English or related field by 8/23/00 is required; or equivalent qualifications such as having an established, national/international professional literary career. Applicants should send a letter of application and curriculum vitae to: Chair of the Search Committee, Department of English, University of Minnesota, 207 Lind Hall, 207 Church Street S.E., Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455. After preliminary consideration is completed, additional information will be requested from candidates to be considered further. Applications must be postmarked no later than November 12, 1999. Those postmarked after that date will not be accepted. The University of Minnesota is committed to the policy that all persons shall have equal access to its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, or sexual orientation.

Mercantile Library Endowed Professorship in Transportation Studies 453
<http://www.umsl.edu/~english>

The University of Missouri-St. Louis invites nominations and applications for the Mercantile Library Endowed Professorship in Transportation Studies. "Transportation Studies" is broadly conceived to encompass the aesthetic, social, and economic dimensions of transportation and westward expansion in the United States in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The University is particularly interested in identifying candidates with a demonstrated capacity for interdisciplinary scholarship and with research interests compatible with the Mercantile Library's collections.

The St. Louis Mercantile Library moved to the UM-St. Louis campus during the summer of 1998. It was established in 1846 as the first library west of the Mississippi. The core collection of 210,000 volumes covers Western Americana, world travel and exploration, the history of the natural sciences, and the history of technology. The Barriger Collection focuses on American railroad history and includes 40,000 books, primary manuscript documents, and photographs. The Pott Waterways Collection of 2,500 books and an extensive number of photographs covers United States river and inland waterways histories. In addition, the St. Louis Mercantile Library's special collections house various research collections, including the archives of the Mercantile Library, the clipping and photo files (morgue) of the St. Louis Globe Democrat newspaper, historical newspapers, rare book and art collections, and original manuscripts.

UM-St. Louis is a public, urban, land grant institution committed to basic and applied research, teaching, and service. Located on an attractive suburban campus in the state's largest metropolitan area, the university is the region's public research institution. Current enrollment is 16,000.

We seek an established scholar with recognized achievements in research and evidence of excellence in teaching. He or she should qualify for a tenured appointment as a Full Professor. While an historical emphasis in research related to westward expansion is expected, the successful applicant will be associated with the newly established Center for Transportation Studies and will be tenured in one or more of the following departments: Anthropology, Art and Art History, Economics, English, History, or Political Science. The successful candidate will receive summer research support through an eleven-month contract with the University. Initial review of applications will begin in October, 1999. The position has a starting date of August, 2000. Letters of interest should summarize qualifications and relevant experience, and should include a complete resume as well as names, addresses, telephone numbers and e-mail addresses of five references. Preliminary inquiries should be addressed to Professor Mark A. Burkholder (314) 516-5680; email: hisburk@jinx.umsu.edu. Nominations and applications should be sent to Professor Mark A. Burkholder, Chair of Search Committee, Department of History, University of Missouri-St. Louis, 8001 Natural Bridge Road, St. Louis, MO 63121-4499. EOE, AA, WMA.

<http://artsci.wustl.edu/~afas>

Post-Doctoral Fellowship for African-American Scholars. Every year Washington University seeks two African American scholars to be in residence here for one year (with possibility of a one year renewal) as post-doctoral fellows. The scholars will be provided with office space and computer equipment to do their work. They will be given a reduced teaching load (one-course per semester instead of the normal full-time load of two). Fellows are asked to teach courses related to their scholarly specialty. They are expected to contribute to the intellectual life of the university by giving two public lectures during their stay as well as interact with faculty and students. Symposia on topics of special interest to the fellow can be arranged. Intellectual and cultural interaction with the larger St. Louis community is encouraged. We seek African-Americans who specialize in either the African or African American aspect of their field and who are no more than three years beyond the completion of the Ph.D. The applicant must have successfully completed a thesis defense by July 1, 2000. The fellowship stipend is $34,000 with a $2,000 travel fund to be used by Fellows to attend academic conferences. Applications should include a letter of interest, three letters of reference, and a vita to Search Committee, African & Afro-American Studies, Washington University, CB 1109, 1 Brookings Drive, St. Louis, MO 63130-4899. The search committee will continue to review applications until the position is filled, but priority will be given to applications received by January 15, 2000.

<http://www.sunysb.edu/humanities>

Applications are invited for two (2) Visiting Humanities Institute Fellowships in the 2000-2001 academic year, one for each semester. Founded in 1987, the HISB has three main missions: to stimulate new modes of interdisciplinary research within the humanities and social sciences; to build bridges between the human sciences and the medical, technical and natural sciences; and to reach out to the local community through public lectures and film series. HISB sponsors Resident Fellows and Two-day Distinguished Visiting Lecturers, organizes symposia and conferences, and works with community groups on programs of broader interest. Scholars with interdisciplinary research projects in theoretical, historical or philosophical aspects in humanities disciplines are invited to apply. During 2000-2001, HISB will be focusing on issues surrounding Culture and Globalization, and Utopia and Technology. Individuals engaged in interdisciplinary research in these areas are particularly encouraged to apply. HISB feels the Fellowship will appeal to sabbaticants interested in working in a stimulating intellectual environment. Each Fellowship carries a stipend of $15,000.00. Some travel and housing expenses may be covered. HISB will provide office space, university affiliation, library privileges and other office resources. Fellows are expected to work in residence at the HISB for the duration of the award, reside in the Stony Brook area, teach a graduate course in his/her area of expertise, deliver a public presentation and an one-day advanced seminar. Applicants must hold a doctorate or the equivalent in experience, research and publications. International applications are encouraged. Visa documents, if required, are the responsibility of the applicant. There is no application form. Letters of application should include a rationale for working with HISB, a CV, 1-2 page abstract, and a detailed description of the research project. This should be accompanied by a cover page listing the applicant's name, institutional name and affiliation or indication of independent scholar status, contact info and semester for consideration. Five (5) copies should be submitted, arranged in this order: cover page, rationale, CV, abstract, and project description. Three (3) confidential letters of reference should be sent directly to the HISB before the deadline. Incomplete applications will not be considered. Applications will be accepted thru February 15, 2000. Applications should be mailed to HISB c/o Fellowship Applications. Applications sent by fax or e-mail will not be accepted. HISB will acknowledge the receipt of a complete application if a self-addressed stamped postcard is sent with the proposal, which will be returned after the application and three letters of recommendation have been received.

Kenyon Dissertation Fellowships, Office of the Provost Gambier OH 43022

Kenyon College Dissertation Fellow

1445

Kenyon College Dissertation/Teaching Fellowship for Minority Scholars One of the challenges confronting small liberal arts colleges in the United States at the closing of the twentieth century is how to increase the relatively small number of minority faculty teaching at such institutions. Creating a diverse and representative group of teachers benefits students, faculty, and administrators alike, by enriching the nature of the education experience for all. We recognize, though, that young scholars who are members of underrepresented groups frequently choose to pursue their careers as teachers and scholars at research universities rather than at small liberal arts colleges. In order to encourage such scholars to consider college rather than university teaching, Kenyon College offers the Kenyon College Dissertation/Teaching Fellowship for Minority Scholars. The program aims at minority scholars in the final stages of their doctoral work who need only to finish the dissertation to complete requirements for the Ph.D. We hope the experience of living and working for a year at Kenyon will encourage these fellows to consider this or some other liberal arts college as a place to begin their careers as teachers and scholars. Kenyon will provide a stipend of $30,000, plus health benefits, housing, and a small moving allowance. The College will also provide an allowance to cover travel to conferences or for consultation with the dissertation director. Kenyon will assist the Fellow in finding college housing. The Fellow will be provided an office, a networked computer, and secretarial support services. Faculty colleagues at Kenyon recognize and embrace the opportunity to welcome and mentor new faculty members. The Kenyon Fellow is expected to write the dissertation and to teach one course each semester, usually in the Fellow's general research areas. Fellows are also expected to offer a College lecture or Departmental seminar on the dissertation topic each term. Kenyon College assumes that the Fellow will participate in the intellectual life of his/her home department, as well as in the broader cultural life of the College. Our primary expectation, however, and the main focus of this fellowship is the completion of the dissertation. Eligibility to apply for the Kenyon College Dissertation Fellowship for Minority Scholars is limited to: Citizens or nationals of the United States at the time of application. Members of the following minority groups: Alaskan Natives (Eskimo or Aleut), Native American Indians, Black/African Americans, Mexican Americans/Chicano, Native Pacific Islanders (Polynesian or Micronesian), Puerto Ricans Individuals, who are enrolled in a research-based PhD program in one of the following fields: African/African, American Studies, Anthropology, Art History, Asian Studies, Biology, Economics, English, History, Humanities, International Studies, Modern Languages and Literature, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Religion, Sociology, and Women's and Gender Studies. Individuals who aspire to a teaching and research career. Persons who have not yet earned a doctoral degree at any time and in any field. Please send a letter of application, vita, and three letters of references (including the dissertation advisor) to the Office of the Associate Provost, Kenyon College, Gambier, OH 43022. The Search Committee will begin consideration of the dossiers on December 1, 1999. Kenyon College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and in particular, encourages the applications of women and minority candidates.

Assistant Professor or higher of African American Literature

<http://www.oberlin.edu>

The Department of African American Studies at Oberlin College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty appointment in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Appointment to this position will be for a term of four years, beginning Fall Semester 2000 and will carry the rank of Assistant Professor or higher. We seek a broadly trained teacher and scholar of African American Literature. A knowledge of and teaching ability in African, and West Indian or Caribbean literatures will be desirable.

The incumbent will teach courses in African American literature, covering the historical origin of black writing in North America from the 18th century to the present, including the folk oral literature of the black masses, such as songs, lore, tales and the like, as a complement to the written literature (5 courses/year). It is hoped that at least one course will be taught in African literature. The courses are expected to range from beginning to advanced levels.

The incumbent is expected to have demonstrated professional competence and research in literature, criticism and/or theory. She or he will also be expected to participate in the full range of faculty responsibilities including academic advising, departmental and college committee service and sustained scholarly research.

Among the qualifications required for appointment is the Ph.D. degree (in hand or expected by first semester of academic year 2000). Candidates must demonstrate interest and potential excellence in undergraduate teaching. Successful teaching experience at the college level is desirable. To be assured of consideration, letters of application, including a Curriculum Vitae, graduate academic transcripts, and at least three letters of reference should be sent to Professor and Chair of African American Studies, Dr. James Millette, Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio 44074, by November 15, 1999. Application materials received after that date may be considered until the position is filled. Salary will depend on qualifications and experience.

<http://english.cmu.edu>

The Department of English at Carnegie Mellon seeks a Senior Lecturer in Rhetoric and Cultural Studies to direct and teach in its First-Year, university-wide English program. Our Department has strengths and depth in Rhetoric and Composition, Literary and Cultural Studies, and Creative Writing. Our First-Year class, called Interpretation and Argument, reflects these strengths and features an integrated approach to critical reading and writing that draws upon the disciplines of cultural studies and rhetoric. Candidates should also have career interests in teaching, curriculum design, and administration. The 3/2 teaching load will normally be in Interpretation and Argument, but some advanced and graduate courses may also be offered. Administering the program includes managing a teaching seminar, mentoring graduate student instructors of the course, designing the curriculum, assessing the results, and representing the curriculum to various constituencies throughout the university. The Lecturer track parallels the tenure track. Lectureships are faculty positions that provide full faculty benefits, annual salary raises, and advancement opportunities (to Principal Lecturer) comparable to those on the tenure track. First contract is for 3 years; subsequent contracts are for 5 years. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in hand by August of 2000. Salary commensurate with experience. Documentation of teaching philosophy and experience (e.g., course syllabi, course evaluations) should be included beyond the vita. Deadline for applications is November 15.

Assistant Professor

<http://www.uwtc.washington.edu>

We are looking for a tenure-track assistant professor, to begin in Autumn 2000, specializing in rhetorical theory and practice. We seek expertise in both traditional rhetoric and rhetoric in the context of digital media. Although the department is seeking individuals at the assistant professor rank, an appointment may be made at the rank of associate professor or professor if the circumstances and qualifications of the individual warrant it.

The successful candidate will teach a graduate course in rhetoric and will supervise master's theses and, ultimately, doctoral dissertations. This individual will also teach a new lower-division course, Science and Engineering Writing for Lay and Technical Audiences. The yearly teaching load (four courses on the quarter system) also includes two upper-division courses. These may be courses in our current undergraduate curriculum (see www.uwtc.washington.edu), but we also welcome ideas for new courses as well as other educational innovations.

The position requires a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline, evidence of highly effective teaching, a promising research program (preferably with completed publications), hands-on skill with computers and digital media, a broad understanding of technical communication as a profession, and a willingness to pursue funded research opportunities. The TC Department is one of the nation's largest and most distinguished. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. The Seattle area offers many exciting opportunities for working with local business and industry and non-profit organizations. There are also many opportunities for research collaboration across the UW campus.

Send (1) a detailed resume, (2) a personal statement on research and teaching goals, and (3) a list of names of references (minimum three) with their contact information to Prof. David K. Farkas, Chair, Search Committee, Department of Technical Communication, College of Engineering, University of Washington, 14 Loew Hall, Box 352195, Seattle, WA 98195-2195. For best consideration, application materials should be received by November 30. Inquiries: David Farkas: farkas@u.washington.edu or (206) 685-8659.

<http://www.uwindsor.ca/english/enghome.htm>

Applications are invited for a position in Creative Writing and Canadian Literature, at the rank of Associate or Full Professor, to commence 1 July 2000. The appointee will teach courses in both creative writing and Canadian literature at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and will be involved in the various activities associated with our Creative Writing programme. Our programme provides an academic degree combining English studies and Creative Writing, at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. It features a highly active visiting readers programme and residency programmes, as well as innovative training for students in publishing, editing, and hypertext writing. We also benefit from our close relationship with acclaimed programmes in dramatic art, music, visual art, and media studies, and we encourage interdisciplinary and cross-generic work in both creative writing and cultural studies. We seek a candidate whose creative work will complement our established strengths in poetry and fiction, and who will benefit from our uniquely interdisciplinary environment. Candidates should have a superior record of creative publication and achievement appropriate for an appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or higher, a Ph.D. or its equivalent, and a record of effective teaching and workshoping. Candidates should have academic expertise in Canadian literature and cultures. A background in cultural theory, post-colonial studies, or Native literatures is desirable; additional experience in publishing and editing, or in hypertext applications in creative writing, is an asset. The University of Windsor is committed to employment equity and welcomes applications from Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, and members of visible minorities. Applications from women are particularly encouraged. In accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, this advertisement is directed in the first instance to Canadian citizens and permanent residents. Candidates should send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a sample of their creative work, and evidence of effective teaching, and should arrange to have three letters of reference sent directly to Dr Katherine M. <http://WWW.AS.UA.EDU/ENGLISH>

The Department of English at the University of Alabama invites applications for two tenure-track assistant professor positions starting in August of 2000, for linguists who can participate in our established M.A.-TESOL Program, our new Ph.D. concentration in applied linguistics (discourse, culture and English language studies), and who can also offer undergraduate linguistics courses (in particular, an introduction to linguistics and a history of English). Duties include teaching, research, and service; our M.A.-TESOL faculty work closely with our colleagues in UA's English Language Institute. A Ph.D. in Applied Linguistics/Linguistics is required, with strengths in some combination from the areas of second language writing, classroom-oriented research, language teaching methodology, second language acquisition theory, and socio-historical approaches to the history of English. For one of the positions, preference will be given to candidates with strengths in the area of second language writing, and an interest in working with our faculty in rhetoric and composition. For the other position, preference will be given to candidates with strengths in the structure and history of the English language. Preference will be given for both positions to candidates who see research opportunities in (1) our large freshman composition program with separate sections for non-native English speakers, (2) UA's independently-administered intensive English Language Institute with a large internal program and a number of external programs each year, and (3) UA's well-developed self-instructional language program (Critical Languages). Competence in at least one other language and international teaching experience are highly desirable. Send letter of application, c.v., names of three references, and any representative publications to Professor Catherine E. Davies, Director of the M.A.-TESOL Program, Department of English, Box 870244, University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0244. Search will remain open until position is filled; however, review of applications will begin immediately. Interviews will be held at the MLA. Faculty Chair for MFA in Writing

<http://www.ccac-art.edu>

POSITION SUMMARY: CCAC seeks a Faculty Chair for a new MFA in Writing program, a full-time, tenure track position. The Faculty Chair will help build and guide a new writing program that undertakes to engage a national audience. Through a flexible combination of assignments the Faculty Chair will oversee the daily administration of the program and teach workshops or seminars in his/her strength. Other responsibilities of the Faculty Chair will include coordinating the ongoing recruitment of faculty and students, continuing the development of the curriculum, and providing vision for the evolving program. PROGRAM DESCRIPTION: California College of Arts and Crafts is a large, independent school of art, design, and architecture, with a long-established English program whose faculty members are oriented toward writing rather than scholarship or criticism. In Fall, 2000 CCAC will add three new graduate programs to its nationally recognized program in the Fine Arts: MFA in Writing, MFA in Design, MFA in Visual Criticism. The MFA in Writing, already substantially designed, will enroll 25-30 students when fully operating, and will admit its first class of 15 students Fall, 2000. It incorporates a discipline-based, innovative curriculum to allow students to take advantage of the many opportunities afforded by a lively, often interdisciplinary, creative environment. The program is based on a flexible faculty structure that will include permanent faculty and visiting faculty from the Bay Area and across the country. MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: A successful candidate must be a writer with a strong publication history and national presence, who has significant college teaching or comparable educational experience. The candidate must have an MFA in Writing or an equivalent professional degree, as well as an understanding of and respect for the visual arts. A successful candidate must also desire the challenge of building a writing program within the unique, creative environment of an art, design, and architecture school, where writing students work in the company of vital, committed artists sharing similar values and goals. ORGANIZATION: Founded in 1907 at the height of the Arts and Crafts movement, CCAC is the largest regionally accredited, independent school of art and design in the western United States. Noted for the interdisciplinary nature and breadth of its programs, CCAC is organized around three principal academic units: Fine Arts, Design and Architecture. With campuses in Oakland and San Francisco, CCAC currently has an enrollment of approximately 1,200 full-time students. SALARY: Commensurate with background and experience, including a comprehensive benefits package. APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS: Applicants are invited to submit a letter of interest, resume, two or three writing excerpts, and the names of three references. The search committee will begin reviewing applications Dec. 1 and continue until the position is filled. Please submit materials to: CCAC, HR, Job #1348, 5212 Broadway, Oakland, CA 94618-1487. fax (510) 594-3681. CCAC is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes applications from individuals who will contribute to its diversity.

<http://http://www.ohio.edu>

We invite applications and nominations for the position of Department Chair. We seek a productive scholar and outstanding teacher with proven administrative experience to lead an active and energetic department. Ohio University, founded in 1804 and the oldest university west of the Allegheny Mountains, is a state-assisted institution of 25,000 (19,000 on the main campus in Athens, a classic college town) and is ranked as a Research II university by the Carnegie Commission on Education. Alden Library houses almost 3 million bound volumes and is a member of the prestigious Association of Research Libraries. The department has 40 tenure track faculty, 400 undergraduate majors, and 60 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The graduate program offers tracks in literary history, creative writing, and composition and rhetoric with a concentrated effort to braid those three strands together in course work and colloquia. The department prides itself on its congeniality and the collegial interaction of faculty involved in each of the department's major tracks. The department has hired 16 new faculty in the past five years and anticipates a similar hiring pattern in the next few years. The department has long been noted for its outstanding teaching with 12 of our members having been awarded outstanding teaching honors by the college and university. We currently have three active Distinguished Professors, and our faculty have won Guggenheim, Rockefeller, Wallace and senior and junior NEH awards as well as Fulbright Lectureships. We publish four journals: The Ohio Review (a nationally recognized literary journal), The Milton Quarterly (a leading contributor to Milton Studies), Quarter after Eight (a widely-distributed journal of contemporary writing published by our graduate students), and Sphere (the undergraduate literary journal). The program in creative writing sponsors an annual Spring Literary Festival which brings award-winning novelists, poets, and essayists to campus each spring for an intensive celebration of the written and spoken word. The successful applicant must have a teaching and scholarly record which would warrant an appointment as full professor; should demonstrate a commitment to promoting and encouraging undergraduate and graduate instruction and scholarly activity; and should present evidence of leadership and administrative potential including organizational, personnel, budgetary, and planning skills. A strong sense of humor and a commitment to shared governance are additional assets. Salary is commensurate with qualifications. The position will begin July 1, 2000. To apply, submit a letter of application, including a brief statement of philosophy and goals of academic leadership, a detailed C.V. (including a complete bibliography), three letters of recommendation (specifically addressing qualifications for this position), and the names, addresses, e-mail addresses, and telephone numbers of four additional colleagues the search committee might contact should we want to pursue your candidacy. The Feminist Press

At the City University of New York, 365 Fifth Avenue New York NY 10016

Publisher/Director of the Feminist Press at the City University of New York 33

The Feminist Press, a not-for-profit organization, seeks a distinguished academic (or academic now working in publishing) to continue the special mission-driven work of a research, education, and publishing house entering its 30th year. The mission of the Press is to bring the lost history and literary culture of women into secondary, college, and graduate school classrooms and to the reading public. The publisher/director is the chief architect of this mission. The successful candidate for publisher/director will have: the vision to develop, deepen, and broaden the mission of the Press; excellent literary taste; extensive writing and editorial skills and experience; a record of success in grant proposals, reports, and managing funded projects; knowledge of and a network within interdisciplinary women's studies, ethnic studies, and similar fields; the ability to prepare and manage budgets; the ability to lead and work cooperatively with a small unionized staff; the ability to write and speak publicly as an advocate for the Press both in the USA and abroad; knowledge of the management of contracts and royalties, and of editorial, marketing, and production costs and procedures will be advantageous. This is a 12-month position with full benefits and with a salary competitive for the director of a small press. With academic credentials, the publisher/director may be eligible for an affiliation with a doctoral program at the Graduate School and University Center of CUNY. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and the names/addresses of three references. Deadline: November 15, 1999. All inquiries should be addressed to: Beerd Brecher, Institutional Advancement Programs, Inc., 65 Main Street, Tuckahoe, NY 10707. The Feminist Press is an EEO/AA/IRCA/ADA employer.
