SUBSCRIPTION INFORMATION

The print version of the Job Information List is published four times during the academic year—in October, December, February, and April. Listings are solicited from two- and four-year colleges and universities for all issues. The cost of a print-only or online-only subscription is $35 in the United States and Canada and $47 elsewhere. The cost of a subscription to both online and print versions is $55 in the United States and Canada and $67 elsewhere. The List is sent by first-class mail to subscribers in the United States and Canada and by airmail to all other areas; delivery should be shortly after the publication dates listed below. Please note, however, that these are projected dates only and are subject to change without notice. A subscription form is available at www.mla.org.

October issue	19 October 2000
December issue	15 November 2000
February issue	16 February 2001
April issue	16 April 2001

Further inquiries should be directed to Roy Chustek, Editor, Job Information List, MLA, 26 Broadway, New York, NY 10004 (646 576-5133; roy.chustek@mla.org).

ACCESSING THE ELECTRONIC JIL

An online version of the Job Information List is available for searching by individuals who have subscribed to the electronic JIL as well as by job seekers in ADE- and ADFL-member departments. A user name and password are required to search the database. To find your user name and password, follow these directions:

If you are an individual subscriber: If you already have a user name and password, use them. If you do not, locate the address label on the back cover of your Job Information List. Your current online user name is the number located in the upper right-hand side of the address label. Your password is your zip code or the first five letters of your country (capitalized) if you live outside the United States. This user name and password will give you initial access to the electronic JIL. The online JIL can be found at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org); follow the Job Information link to the JIL page, where you will find information on how to search the JIL. You have the option to change your user name and password whenever you choose by going to the JIL page, clicking on either of the "Search" buttons, giving your current user name and password at the prompt, and then clicking the "Subscriber Information" button at the top of the search form and following the instructions for changing your user name and password.

If you are a job seeker in an ADE- or ADFL-member department: Graduate students and faculty members in departments that are current paid members of ADE or ADFL have access to the online JIL as a benefit of their department's ADE or ADFL membership. You must access the JIL through the ADE or ADFL home pages (www.adefl.org; www.adfl.org). Information on how to access the online JIL on this basis is available from your department chair.

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

The October List contains information on vacancies from departments of English, Comparative Literature, and Linguistics in US and Canadian colleges and universities, as well as some number of overseas institutions and nonacademic enterprises. The listings describe approximately 975 definite or possible positions.

Guide for Using the Job Information List

US and Canadian Departments

The main body of the List, arranged in alphabetical order by state, contains information on definite or possible vacancies, comments on notices published in past issues (e.g., that a previously announced position has been filled), and notices from departments that expect no vacancies but would nevertheless like to keep résumés on file.

Read through this section item by item to see which departments would welcome your letter of application or inquiry at this time. Send letters only to departments expressing an interest in a person with your qualifications. If a notice states that no vacancies are expected but that the department would like to maintain a file of prospective candidates, you must decide in each case whether it is worthwhile to write.

Comparative Literature and Linguistics and ESL Sections

Notices in these fields have been separated out from the main body of the issue and placed under the appropriate heading, with occasional cross-referencing to items in the main body of the List that might also be of interest. Candidates should read through the main body carefully, however, since the cross-referencing is not exhaustive.

Additional Entries

Notices in this section arrived after the deadline for the main state sections but in time to be included in an appendix.

Departments Reporting No Vacancies

A list of departments reporting no vacancies can be found on the Job List page at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org). The departments on this list are indicating that they have no openings for the remainder of 2000–01 or for 2001–02. Do not waste your time and the department's time by writing; if an opening should occur unexpectedly, the department will report this in the next List. The only "no-vacancy" departments to which you should write are those in the main body of this issue where the notice has stated that letters or credentials will be kept on file.

General Advice for Candidates

Be sure that your dossier (transcript, letters of recommendation, and other material) is ready to be sent out by your placement bureau to any department that requests it. Prepare and duplicate a one-page vita sheet to enclose with any letters of application or inquiry. In your letter of application, it is probably wise to express a willingness to be interviewed at the department's convenience. Professional meetings provide a convenient opportunity for such interviews (see list of upcoming meetings below).

While it is important to begin to search for a position immediately, you should be aware that hiring goes on all year. Surveys indicate that only about half of all English and foreign language departments have begun recruiting by the end of December and that the majority of departments do not complete the recruiting process until spring, in some cases until summer.

Bear in mind that the candidate who has not limited his or her search for a new position to a particular geographical area or kind of institution is most likely to find a position. Do not discount the small colleges where one often has the opportunity to teach a wide selection of courses to students of varied backgrounds.

Notice on Tenure Policies

The Modern Language Association recommends that department administrators and their representatives inform candidates before or during the interview about prospects for tenure in the specific position under consideration and about the tenure policies and practices in their departments and institutions. If the information is not offered, candidates are urged to inquire about these policies.

Acknowledgment of Applications

Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

MLA Policy on the Reimbursement of Job Seekers

The following policies were recommended by the Delegate Assembly in December 1999 and approved by the MLA Executive Council in February 2000.

It is MLA policy that:

- Departments that require that job applicants send their application materials by express carrier reimburse those applicants for the cost of such shipment; and
- Departments that require multiple copies of writing samples and other application materials from job applicants reimburse applicants for the cost of duplicating their writing samples and other materials; and

- Departments that require books will return them to the applicant; and
- Departments that invite job applicants for on-campus interviews reimburse those applicants who accept such invitations for the costs of travel and accommodations incurred when visiting the campus for interviews.

For Job Openings

Chronicle of Higher Education. Published weekly (except in August and December). In addition to listing openings under such categories as "English," "Women's Studies," or "Writing," many two- and four-year institutions take out large ads that include all their available positions. The Chronicle also lists openings in administration, at foundations and associations, and occasionally in private secondary schools.

MLA Job Information List. Published four times a year. Four-year institutions are more likely than two-year colleges to list openings here.

ADVICE TO SEARCH COMMITTEE MEMBERS AND JOB SEEKERS ON FACULTY RECRUITMENT AND HIRING

Prepared by the MLA Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities

I. General Principles

1. Everyone in the profession benefits when job searches go well. Timely, open communication can ensure an atmosphere of collegiality between departments and candidates, even when the job market is tight or institutional circumstances are uncertain. Departments help to create such an atmosphere when they recognize how vulnerable candidates may feel during a job search; candidates help when they recognize that departments may be affected by institutional policies largely beyond their control. Problems arising during a job search may lead to impressions that damage individuals or institutions; however, professional conduct by all parties involved in a job search may prevent such problems and can only be beneficial to all.

2. All job candidates should be treated equitably. Throughout any search for new faculty members, departments should adhere to nondiscrimination and affirmative action guidelines, taking particular care not to discriminate on the basis of race, ethnic or national origin, religion, disability, age, gender, or sexual orientation. The principles of confidentiality should be respected by all parties.

II. Advertising and Initial Screening

1. Advertisements for an opening should be as specific as possible about the availability of the opening (definite, likely, or possible), the type of appointment (tenure-track or non-tenure-track), minimum degree requirements, field(s) of expertise, minimum teaching experience, and any other requirements or criteria.

2. Applicants should be allowed ample time to respond to advertisements of openings, and deadlines for applications should be specified whenever possible. Normally, applications should be accepted for at least twenty-one days after the announced publication date for a given issue of the Job Information List (about 15 October, 15 November, 15 February, and 15 April). Care should be taken to inform applicants of the department's projected timetable for making decisions about interviews at the MLA convention, and applicants should be kept informed of their status following the initial screening.

3. Applications submitted in response to announcements should be acknowledged promptly and courteously in writing (if possible, within two weeks), and care should be taken to inform applicants of their status following the initial screening. Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

III. Preparing Applications

1. The candidate should prepare a dossier, including a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcript(s), and letters of recommendation, by the end of September, before the October issue of the Job Information List. It is the candidate's responsibility to make sure that all requested materials are supplied.

2. For the purpose of initial screening, a letter of application and dossier should normally suffice. To save all parties time and money, the committee recommends that departments request writing samples and other material only after a preliminary list of candidates has been chosen.

IV. Setting Up MLA Interviews

1. Candidates should realize that the department advertising in the Job Information List normally expects candidates to attend the MLA convention for screening interviews. Candidates who do not attend the convention may therefore be at a disadvantage. In such cases a telephone interview may be an appropriate alternative. Departments and candidates should realize that convention attendance is generally the most efficient and least expensive way to conduct interviews. Departments should make every effort to be represented at the convention by at least one member of the search committee.

2. Departments need to be able to reach candidates quickly between 1 and 24 December. Candidates who travel in December should supply departments with complete itineraries including telephone numbers. Because of the expenses related to convention attendance, departments should notify all candidates, including those not invited for interviews, of their status as early as possible.

3. Candidates applying from outside North America should have a contact in the United States to receive mail and messages. Since few departments have resources to bring candidates to on-campus interviews from outside North America, candidates who reside abroad should determine arrangements for any on-campus interviews during MLA convention interviews.

4. To be sure that candidates can get the information they need to keep interview appointments at the convention, a department chair or search committee chair should stop by the job center soon after checking into a hotel, fill out the appropriate forms, and then check the “Who’s Where” listing for accuracy.

5. Departments need to be sure candidates know where the interview is taking place. The Job Information Center is set up to provide this information. If you plan to use the convention interview area, you need to sign in with the Job Information Center and hand in your schedule. If you are interviewing in a hotel room, remember that the hotel switchboard personnel are not authorized to disclose room numbers. You can register your room number and a list of interviewees with the Job Information Center, so that your room number will be given out only to the candidates with whom your department has set up appointments. Departments scheduled to begin interviewing on the first afternoon of the convention may need to arrive the day before, to avoid missing appointments because of travel delays or delays in checking into hotels.

6. Departments and candidates should plan realistically and adhere closely to schedules. When arranging interviews, candidates should leave as much time as possible between appointments, keeping in mind that they may have to deal with crowded elevators, slow meal service, or delayed shuttle buses. Departments should remember that interviews that run late may prevent candidates from keeping other appointments and that one instance of lateness can multiply into a whole series of missed or delayed interviews.

7. Whether held on or off campus, in person or by telephone, interviews should be conducted in a professional manner, permitting candidates adequate opportunity to explain and demonstrate their qualifications. Candidates and departments should review “Dos and Don’ts for Interviews,” by Herbert Lederer, revised in 1995 by CAF-PRR and reprinted each October in the Job Information List.

8. Interviewers should make every effort to accommodate candidates with disabilities.

V. Interviewing on Campus

1. Departments inviting candidates for on-campus interviews should pay candidates’ expenses, following standard institutional policies for travel reimbursement. Candidates should be told approximately how many others are being invited for on-campus interviews.

2. On-campus interviews represent a large investment of time and money for departments; therefore, candidates should not accept on-campus interviews if they are not seriously interested in the position. Before traveling to a campus, candidates should thoroughly research the department’s faculty and programs. Candidates should find out what salary range and teaching load have been established for the position and should decide in advance what their own minimum requirements are. It is important that candidates also determine in advance whether their decisions may be influenced by special circumstances that should be communicated to the chair.

3. A department that invites a candidate to interview on its campus has an obligation to (a) arrange the logistics of the candidate’s stay (local transportation, lodging—including disability accommodations, meals); (b) set up interviews with faculty members and administrators; (c) provide a tour of the campus and its facilities; (d) provide adequate information about the department, the university, and the community; (e) plan social activities for the candidate; and (f) inform the candidate of the procedures and timetable for reimbursement.

4. Members of departments and search committees should not discuss other candidates with a visiting candidate.

VI. Negotiating an Offer

1. To minimize misunderstanding and anxiety during negotiations about offers, departments should establish ground rules in advance and let candidates know what these are before any offers are made. Departments should communicate with candidates regularly and openly about the status of the search process. All parties should be aware that, especially in times of fiscal uncertainty, circumstances beyond the institution’s control may delay or disrupt the hiring process.

2. No candidate should be required before 22 January to give a final answer to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. After 22 January, candidates should normally be allowed two weeks to give a final answer to a formal offer.

The committee welcomes comments and suggestions from members. Direct correspondence to Staff Liaison, Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities, MLA, 26 Broadway, New York, NY 10004-1789.

CHECKLIST FOR JOB SEEKERS

The MLA Committee on Careers offers this checklist as an aid for first-time job seekers and as a guide for graduate departments about ways they can facilitate the placement of their graduates. As an association, the MLA has a vital interest in establishing procedures and practices that make the job search as effective and professional as possible.

Prepreparation

- ☐ Have you completed your dissertation? If not, do you have a realistic schedule for completing it?
- ☐ Have you defined the kind(s) of institution(s) where you would like to teach?
- ☐ Have you informed yourself about the job market? Have you consulted, for example, the Job Information List, the Chronicle of Higher Education, and the ADE Bulletin or ADFL Bulletin about the job situation?
- ☐ Have you spoken to recently hired faculty members about their experiences in the job market?
- ☐ Have you been realistic in defining the kinds of specialized courses you are qualified to teach? Have you articulated what you have to offer as a scholar and a teacher? What are the limits of the jobs for which you really qualify?
- ☐ Have you spoken to one or more of the following persons about the job search: your department placement officer, your department graduate adviser, your dissertation adviser, your department placement committee, other faculty members who know you well and who have shown interest in your work?
- ☐ Have you requested from your department or placement office standardized forms for your letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you requested letters from three to five faculty members who feel positively about you and who know your course work, dissertation, and teaching?
- ☐ Have you given your referees sufficient information about your record and at least several weeks to prepare their letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you estimated the costs of the job search? Although costs will vary, it is reasonable to expect to spend at least $700 for travel, lodging, food, and incidentals when attending the MLA convention. Remember too that you will have duplicating and postage expenses, fees charged by the placement office for sending your dossier, long-distance phone charges, and expenses for purchase or rental of a telephone answering machine to receive calls before and after the convention. Although you should expect to be reimbursed for travel to on-campus interviews, you will probably have to pay airfare in advance. It is a good idea to establish credit and acquire a credit card if possible. When you are called for an on-campus interview, be sure to ask whether your expenses will be reimbursed.

- ☐ Have you requested a mock interview? If your department does not regularly schedule mock interviews for job candidates, have you discussed with several faculty members the kinds of questions you can expect to be asked and issues to be discussed?
- ☐ Have you considered requesting disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

The MLA Convention

- ☐ Have you planned your interview schedule for the MLA convention, making sure that you have allowed enough time to get from one hotel to another?
- ☐ Do you have the information you need about the school and the department to which you have applied (e.g., course offerings, college and university requirements, faculty members)?
- ☐ Have you reviewed the list of “dos and don’ts” for interviewees?

The On-Campus Interview

- ☐ Have you determined beforehand the schedule of your visit and the meetings you will be asked to take part in? Have you asked the department to add things to your itinerary (e.g., a tour of the library, a meeting with students) that were not originally scheduled?
- ☐ Have you inquired in advance of your trip whether you will be reimbursed for expenses you incur for the on-campus interview? Have you done careful research beforehand about the faculty and curriculum of the school you will be visiting?
- ☐ Will you be required to make a formal presentation to faculty and/or students while on campus? If so, have you carefully prepared this presentation? Are you prepared to discuss your dissertation in detail?
- ☐ Have you received all the information you will need in order to make a decision if offered a job—information about salary, fringe benefits, moving expenses, tenure policies, any other terms of the contract, and the amount of time you will have to consider the offer?
- ☐ Have you informed the department of any necessary disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

After an Offer Is Made

- ❑ Are you well informed about the general financial health of the college or university, its enrollment trends, its support for the humanities, the distribution of majors, and the faculty members in your discipline?
- ❑ Are you clear about what your own teaching responsibilities will be? Do you know what your course load and approximate class sizes will be?
- ❑ Do your research interests have a clear place in the department? Have you asked about support for your research, including the availability of grants, sabbatical and released time?
- ❑ Do you know the criteria and procedures for tenure and promotion?
- ❑ Do you have an informed opinion about the advantages and disadvantages of living in the city or town where the college or university is located? Have you asked, for example, about housing, the cost of living, cultural and social opportunities, local politics, and public schools?
- ❑ You should not be required to respond before 22 January to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. If you receive an offer between 22 January and the middle of the summer, you should be allowed two weeks to make a decision. But once you have definitely made up your mind about an offer, you should accept or reject it immediately: keep in mind that other candidates will be affected by your decision.

Things to Remember If You Don't Get an Offer

- ❑ The hiring season is not over in January; only the first wave has passed by then.
- ❑ While many offers are made in January, an offer in February does not necessarily mean that you are a second choice. It may mean that the department has had to wait a month to reconvene its search committee or receive final approval for funding.
- ❑ You may be on the market too early. The department may not have been convinced that you will actually finish your dissertation by the time specified.
- ❑ You may have pinned your hopes on too narrow a selection of schools.
- ❑ You can still inquire about your status at places where you have interviewed. You may still be on their lists.
- ❑ New jobs open up after the MLA convention. Keep reading the Job Information List through the summer supplement and consult the advertisements in the Chronicle of Higher Education and other professional publications.
- ❑ There will be another job market next year. Start preparing for it now. The current search will have given you valuable experience.

DOS AND DON'TS

FOR MLA CONVENTION INTERVIEWS

by Herbert Lederer, University of Connecticut

with revisions by Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities, 1995

The job interview is an event that has caused sufficient anxiety for both interviewer and interviewee to prompt a number of publications dealing with the topic. In recent years, concern about discrimination in the hiring process has led to a heightened awareness of the possibility of discriminatory intent in the questions asked by interviewers. In order to facilitate the conduct of interviews arranged through the MLA Job Information Service, guidelines have been developed for both interviewers and job candidates.

The Interviewer

Do

Schedule interviews at reasonable times and allow for adequate time
Leave time between interviews for notes
Read all the information your department has requested in advance
Ensure freedom from interruption
Introduce other department members present
Establish and maintain a pleasant atmosphere
Be polite and courteous
Try to put candidate at ease
Be aware of your own biases
Ask specific questions
Elicit all relevant information
Maintain eye contact
Ask appropriate questions; explore areas such as education, experience, special interests or skills, familiarity with textbooks, teaching methods, professional organizations, future expectations
Discuss candidate's attitude toward teaching and research in language and literature
Elicit candidate's interest in specific job
Provide candidate with clear picture of job
Explain operation of school and department
Describe working conditions (course load, other duties, salary, fringes, etc.)
Allow time for candidate's questions
Listen attentively
Ask follow-up questions for clarification or further detail
Inform candidate of probable time of decision
Ask candidate's permission to take notes
Be on time
Follow the Americans with Disabilities Act guidelines in meeting requests for accommodations

Don't

Interview more than one candidate at a time
Conduct major portion of interview during a meal
Ask questions about age, marital status, children, religion, medical or disability status, sexual orientation, or national origin
Display boredom
Doodle
Produce stress intentionally
Argue with candidate
Appear hostile to candidate
Be patronizing
Ask for information already in dossier
Ask leading questions
Ask yes-no questions if they can be avoided
Get off on tangents
Do all the talking
Describe job in negative terms
Oversell position
Downgrade other institutions or candidates
Tape-record or videotape
Require candidates to come to campus at their own expense
Make job offer until all interviews are concluded
Assume that the candidate's home institution makes him/her unsuitable for you

The Candidate

Do

Review job specifications
Inform yourself thoroughly about department and institution
Prepare questions you want to ask (about, for example, teaching load, class size, number of majors, range of courses you will teach, library resources, etc.)
Analyze your own strengths and weaknesses
Request of your department some practice interviewing
Familiarize yourself with widely used texts
If possible, allow yourself an hour between interviews
Be prepared to discuss approaches to languages and literature teaching
Think about courses you would like to teach
Be aware of nervousness
Come on time and follow all the usual protocols of politeness
Be polite and courteous
Watch body language (your own and interviewer's)
Project interest and enthusiasm, speak up clearly, listen attentively, and avoid using terms such as "you know," "like," etc.
Keep eye contact with interviewer
Be prepared for aggressive questions
Answer openly, directly, and honestly
Be specific both in answers and in your own questions
Inform institution if you receive and/or accept an offer elsewhere
Try to demonstrate your language ability
Bring out your strong points
Talk about special features in your background, skills, experience, interests, and goals
Summarize your qualifications for the job
Find out when decisions will be made
Write follow-up thank-you letter
Be aware that it is your right to request specific accommodations to make the interview possible

Don't

Be laconic or loquacious
Be either apologetic or arrogant
Appear opinionated or contentious
Argue with interviewer
Let yourself be intimidated
Volunteer negative information
Downgrade other candidates, jobs, or institutions
Get off the track or ramble
Overstay your welcome
Ask about salary in a convention interview

LIST OF ADMINISTRATIONS CENSURED

BY THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

Note: The following list and accompanying explanatory note are reprinted from Academe by permission of the American Association of University Professors and in accordance with the action of the MLA Delegate Assembly.

Investigations by the American Association of University Professors of the administrations of the institutions listed below show that, as evidenced by a past violation, they are not observing the generally recognized principles of academic freedom and tenure endorsed by this Association, the Association of American Colleges and Universities, and more than 150 other professional and educational organizations. The 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure may be found in the May-June 1990 issue of Academe.

This list is published for the purpose of informing Association members, the profession at large, and the public that unsatisfactory conditions of academic freedom and tenure have been found to prevail at these institutions. Names are placed on or removed from this censure list by vote of the Association's Annual Meeting.

Placing the name of an institution on this list does not mean that censure is visited either upon the whole of the institution or upon the faculty, but specifically upon its present administration. The term "administration" includes the administrative officers and the governing board of the institution. This censure does not affect the eligibility of nonmembers for membership in the Association, nor does it affect the individual rights of members at the institution in question.

Members of the Association have often considered it to be their duty, in order to indicate their support of the principles violated, to refrain from accepting appointment to an institution so long as it remains on the censure list. Since circumstances differ widely from case to case, the Association does not assert that such an unqualified obligation exists for its members; it does urge that, before accepting appointments, they seek information on present conditions of academic freedom and tenure from the Association's Washington office and prospective departmental colleagues. The Association leaves it to the discretion of the individual, possessed of the facts, to make the proper decision.

The censured administrations, with dates of censuring, are listed below. Reports were published as indicated by the Bulletin or Academe citations in parentheses following each listing. Reference should also be made to "Developments Relating to Censure by the Association" and to the "Report of Committee A," each of which appears annually in Academe.

MLA STATEMENT ON THE USE OF PART-TIME AND FULL-TIME ADJUNCT FACULTY

The following statement on the use of part-time and full-time adjunct faculty members was developed by an ad hoc committee of the Association of Departments of English and adopted by the MLA Executive Council in February 1994.

The expansion of the adjunct ranks in language and literature departments over the past two decades threatens the integrity of the profession and instructional programs. The practice of hiring numerous adjunct faculty members year after year to teach courses required of large numbers of undergraduates undermines professional and educational standards and academic freedom. Although adjunct appointments can add significant dimensions to curricula and some individuals prefer to accept only adjunct appointments because of other commitments, few adjunct appointments are made for educationally sound reasons. Indeed, the primary motivation for most of these appointments is to reduce the cost of instruction.

Adjunct faculty members fall into two groups: part-time instructors and non-tenure-track full-time instructors. The first group includes both instructors who are clearly temporary members of a department and instructors who teach from year to year and become virtually permanent. Members of the second group have full teaching loads but, as non-tenure-track faculty members, lack the institutional commitment given to their tenure-track colleagues. Graduate students are distinct from both groups.

The conditions under which most adjunct teachers are employed define them as nonprofessionals. Often they are hired quickly, as last-minute replacements. They receive little recognition or respect for their contributions to their departments; almost always they are paid inequitably and receive no fringe benefits.

Excessive reliance on an adjunct faculty can damage individual faculty members, students, institutions, and the profession. For the sake of an institution's economic welfare, adjunct faculty members are often denied the security that adequate salary, health insurance, and professional status can provide. The institution, in turn, suffers through the creation of a two-tiered system in which faculty members have different responsibilities and expectations.

In the light of these concerns, the MLA urges college and university administrators to make new and concerted efforts to eliminate excessive and irresponsible adjunct faculty appointments, to improve employment conditions for essential adjunct faculty members, and to recognize the professional status and important contributions of such teachers.

The MLA offers the following guidelines for the employment of faculty members.

Guidelines

1. Each department should establish an appropriate limit on the number of adjunct faculty members in relation to the number of tenured or tenure-track faculty members and of graduate students serving as apprentice teachers. The norm in a department should be the tenured or tenure-track position. As tenured faculty members retire, they should be replaced by tenure-track faculty members. Departments that routinely assign a large part of undergraduate instruction to adjunct faculty members should reconsider their staffing practices.

2. All adjunct faculty members should be treated as professionals. Each department should develop a set of guidelines for adjunct faculty employment. These guidelines may vary from institution to institution but should address the following concerns:

- a. Adjunct faculty members should be hired, reviewed, and given teaching assignments according to processes comparable to those established for the tenured or tenure-track faculty members.
- b. They should be given mailboxes, office space, and clerical support.
- c. They should receive adequate introduction to their teaching assignments, departments, and institutions.
- d. They should be paid equitable prorated salaries and should receive basic benefits such as health insurance.
- e. They should be eligible for incentives that foster professional development, including merit raises and funds for research and travel.
- f. As appropriate, they should participate in determining departmental and institutional policies.

U of California, Santa Barbara

Office of Academic Personnel, Santa Barbara CA 93106-7080

Director of Writing Program

1162

<http://www.writing.ucsb.edu>

The University of California, Santa Barbara seeks nominations and applications for the Director of the Writing Program, effective July 1, 2001. The Writing Program is an independent unit within the College of Letters and Science that offers approximately 350 undergraduate courses yearly at both lower- and upper-division levels. Some freshman composition sections are linked to general education courses across the disciplines. Numerous upper-division writing courses are discipline specific. The Program offers an innovative Minor in Professional and Technical Writing and is working to integrate writing courses more fully with other interdisciplinary curricular developments on campus. A related doctoral program in Language, Literacy, and Composition is offered in the Graduate School of Education.

Writing Program courses are taught by 30-35 lecturers, most of whom are full time on 1- to 3-year contracts, and an equal number of graduate student teaching assistants recruited across campus. The Director, who normally teaches half-time, supervises faculty recruitment, hiring, and evaluation; plans and staffs course offerings; manages an annual budget of about $1,800,000; oversees the Program office; and represents the Program across campus. The Director reports to the Dean of Humanities and Fine Arts.

We seek a senior scholar and teacher with a distinguished record who has the vision and the leadership skills to further the development of an independent, teaching-centered undergraduate writing program dedicated to writing across the disciplines. Appointment in either a tenured faculty position or a Lecturer with Security of Employment position is possible, depending on the candidate's teaching experience and scholarly research. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. A doctorate is preferred. Candidates should have experience in teaching, administration, and program development. Experience in obtaining extramural funding desirable.

Further information about the Program is available at www.writing.ucsb.edu.

Candidates should submit a letter of application detailing experience and areas of academic interest, a current vita, and the names (with numbers and e-mail addresses) of 3-5 references. Additional materials may be requested at a later date. Review of candidates will begin on November 10, 2000 and will continue until the position is filled.

Send applications to: Writing Program Search Committee, c/o David Marshall, Dean of Humanities and Fine Arts, University of California, Santa Barbara, Santa Barbara, CA 93106. The University of California, Santa Barbara is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

<http://www.ihc.ucsb.edu>

The University of California, Santa Barbara invites applications and nominations for the position of Director of the UCSB Interdisciplinary Humanities Center, effective July 1, 2001. Founded in 1987, the IHC sponsors conferences, seminars, and lectures, and supports research projects and team-taught courses. It seeks to broaden the traditional definition of the humanities by encouraging dialogues between the humanities and the arts, the social sciences, and the sciences. In addition, the Center hosts well-attended public programs that link the university campus to the Santa Barbara community. Through a combination of internal funding, endowments, and private donations, the IHC has an annual budget of about $350,000 and a permanent staff of three, including an Associate Director. The Director holds a 50% administrative appointment and a faculty appointment as a tenured professor in an academic department. We seek an innovative scholar with an ambitious and inclusive vision of the humanities and the arts in both the university and the public sphere. Qualifications include scholarly distinction commensurate with a senior professorship, interdisciplinary research interests, a record of intellectual leadership and program development, administrative skills, and the ability to raise philanthropic and extramural funds. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The Director reports to the Dean of Humanities and Fine Arts. Candidates should submit a letter of application, a current vita, and the names (with numbers and e-mail addresses) of 3-5 references. Additional materials may be requested at a later date. Doris Betts Distinguished Professorship

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

The Department of English and the Creative Writing Program announce the Doris Betts Distinguished Professorship, named in honor of Doris Waugh Betts, Alumni Distinguished Professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, in recognition of her outstanding contributions to the teaching of creative writing and literature, her skillful mentoring of undergraduates, and her substantial body of critically acclaimed fiction. The Betts Professor will become a senior member of the Department of English and the Creative Writing Program at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Established in the mid-1960's, the Creative Writing Program offers an unusually comprehensive sequence of courses for undergraduates. Nine full-time faculty teach small workshops (10-20 students, depending on level) in poetry, fiction, creative non-fiction, scriptwriting, and children's writing. Alumni of the Program include Robert Morgan, Leon Rooke, Russell Banks, Lawrence Naumoff, Jill McCorkle, Randall Kenan, and Lily King (1999 winner of a Barnes and Noble Discovery Award).

The Department of English invites applications from candidates who have established strong literary reputations, primarily as fiction writers, at the national and/or international level. Substantial and ongoing publication is required. College teaching experience is mandatory, as is a commitment to the teaching of undergraduates and the mentoring of young writers. The Betts Professor will take an active part in the life and development of the Creative Writing Program.

Terms of Appointment: Competitive salary consistent with that of endowed professorships at comparable universities. Research and travel fund. 2-2 teaching load, primarily undergraduate classes (4 courses/year). Applicants for the Betts Professorship should send: a letter of application; a current curriculum vita; copies of recent books and other relevant publications; copies of reviews of recent books, and; a minimum of three letters of reference.

Mail applications and supporting materials to: Professor William L. Andrews, Chair, Department of English, Greenlaw Hall, CB# 3520, UNC-Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3520. Deadline for applications is November 15, 2000.

Open Rank Position in Linguistics 257

The Department of Linguistics, Rice University, is seeking to fill a tenured or tenure-track position in linguistics at the level of assistant, associate or full professor beginning fall, 2001. The Ph. D. is required. The Department of Linguistics at Rice has a strongly functionalist, usage-based orientation. The Department adopts an integrative approach that is sensitive to language and its many contexts: discourse, social, cognitive, historical, etc. We emphasize language description and typology, generalizing from personal fieldwork experience. Fieldwork on a non-Indo-European language and an interest in language description and its implications are essential. Rice University is a private, selective institution with undergraduate and graduate strengths in science, engineering, the social sciences and the humanities. Rice places strong emphasis on research and excellence in classroom teaching. We expect the successful candidate to share the orientation of the Department and to have an outstanding record in those areas. In addition, the candidate should have demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses. The normal course load is six hours per semester. Interviews will be held in January, 2001 at the LSA meeting in Washington, D. C. For full consideration, applications including cover letter, CV, three names of references, and one representative article must be received by November 15, 2000. Reply to: Faculty Search, Department of Linguistics MS23, Rice University, 6100 Main St., Houston, TX 77005. E-mail: ling@ruf.rice.edu. AA/EOE.

Chair and Professor, Department of English

<http://www-as.phy.ohiou.edu/Departments/English/>

Ohio University College of Arts and Sciences Department of English We invite applications and nominations for the position of Department Chair. We seek a productive scholar and outstanding teacher with proven administrative experience to lead an active and energetic department. Ohio University, founded in 1804 and the oldest university west of the Allegheny Mountains, is a state-assisted institution of 25,000 (19,000 on the main campus in Athens, a classic college town) and is ranked as a Research II university by the Carnegie Commission on Education. Alden Library houses almost 3 million bound volumes and is a member of the prestigious Association of Research Libraries. The department has 34 tenure-track faculty, 416 undergraduate majors, and 60 M. A. and Ph. D. students. The graduate program offers tracks in literary history, creative writing, and composition and rhetoric with a concentrated effort to braid those three strands together in course work and colloquia.

The department prides itself on its congeniality and the collegial interaction of faculty involved in each of the department's major tracks; 18 new faculty have joined the department in the past six years and a similar hiring pattern is anticipated in the next few years. Outstanding teaching has long been a prominent feature of the department: 13 of its members have been honored with awards for their teaching by the college and the university. We currently have three active Distinguished Professors, and our faculty have won Guggenheim, Rockefeller, Wallace and senior and junior NEH awards as well as Fulbright Lectureships. We publish four journals: The Ohio Review (a nationally recognized literary journal), The Milton Quarterly (a leading contributor to Milton Studies), Quarter after Eight (a widely distributed journal of contemporary writing published by our graduate students), and Sphere (the undergraduate literary journal). The program in creative writing sponsors an annual Spring Literary Festival, which brings award-winning novelists, poets, and essayists to campus each spring for an intensive celebration of the written and spoken word. The successful applicant must have a teaching and scholarly record which would warrant an appointment as full professor; should demonstrate a commitment to promoting and encouraging undergraduate and graduate instruction and scholarly activity; and should present evidence of leadership and administrative potential including organizational, personnel, budgetary, and planning skills. A strong sense of humor and a commitment to shared governance are additional assets. Salary is commensurate with qualifications. The position will begin July 1, 2001. To apply, submit a letter of application, including a brief statement of philosophy and goals of academic leadership, a detailed C. V. (including a complete bibliography), three letters of recommendation (specifically addressing qualifications for this position), and the names, addresses, e-mail addresses, and telephone numbers of four additional colleagues the search committee might contact should we want to pursue your candidacy. Send all materials and inquiries to: Linda Zionkowski, Search Committee Co-Chair, Department of English, Ellis Hall, Ohio University, Athens, OH 45701 [e-mail zionkows@ohio.edu]. For more information regarding the university, college, and department, visit Ohio University's website at <http://www.ohio.edu>. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2000. We plan to conduct preliminary interviews shortly after Thanksgiving. Women and other minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. The University of Chicago Society of Fellows

The University of Chicago Society of Fellows is now accepting applications for several four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professors in the Humanities Collegiate Division. The Fellows are members of the College Faculty whose primary responsibility is to teach in the general education program. In most years, Fellows teach two seminars (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. Each Fellow also has the opportunity to design an independent course and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical in their third year of residence. The Fellowships are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph. D. degree no later than May 31, 2000. The annual salary for 2001-2002 will be $37,000.

Applicants should submit: 1) a cover letter containing name, address and phone number of applicant, email address, title of dissertation and the discipline in which the Ph. D. will be awarded; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) three letters of recommendation; 4) a writing sample, preferably some portion of the doctoral dissertation, not to exceed 50 pages in length; 5) a two-page statement describing your methods and goals in teaching a text in a general education course. Examples might be Plato's Apology or Symposium, Ovid's Metamorphoses, Shakespeare's Tempest, Wolff's A Room of One's Own, and Wright's Native Son; and 6) a self-addressed, stamped post card that will be mailed back to indicate that all materials for the application have been received.

Application deadline is December 15, 2000. For more information, please visit our website at <http://college.uchicago.edu/harperschmidt/>.

Application materials should be sent to The University of Chicago Society of Fellows Search, 1116 East 59th Street, Chicago, IL 60637. An Affirmative Action Equal Opportunity Employer.

manic Languages & Literatures, History, Mathematics, Philosophy, Political Science, Romance Languages & Literatures, and Sociology

Applications are invited for CHARLES PHELPS TAFT POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS intended to afford scholars who have demonstrated unusual ability for creative research the opportunity to enhance their education through additional study and research. Each applicant must have been awarded the Ph. D. in the past five years, i. e., for a 2001-2002 Fellowship, not before May 1, 1996, or have completed all the requirements for the degree by September 1st of the year in which the Fellowship begins. The application must include a carefully developed plan of research at the postdoctoral level, a complete, up-to-date vita, three letters of reference, and the name of a faculty member, if known, at the University of Cincinnati with whom the applicant would like to study. Each application will be judged on the basis of ability as evidenced by demonstrated scholarship and letters of reference and on the compatibility of research interest with Graduate Faculty members on the University of Cincinnati campus. Applicants from all ten Taft departments will compete equally for the fellowships. The letters of reference should address the merits of the proposed plan of research, its significance to the field, and its prospects for publication/performance upon completion. Each CHARLES PHELPS TAFT POSTDOCTORAL FELLOW will be expected to devote full time to research during the tenure of the fellowship. The award carries an annual stipend of $30,000. Additional benefits include $500 to defer moving expenses, $1,000 for research-related expenses, and health insurance coverage for the Fellow and dependent(s). Subject to Department instructional needs, the Fellow may be appointed to teach one course for one quarter only in his/her Department. Teaching assignments and compensation with a minimum of $3,000 are to be negotiated between the Fellow and the host Department, subject to the approval of the Taft Postdoctoral Fellowship Committee. The recipient may not accept other compensation or supplementation from employment or from another scholarship or fellowship during the tenure of the Fellowship. Reimbursement of documented research expenses from a grant or other source may be permitted if approved by the Taft Committee. Each applicant for the CHARLES PHELPS TAFT POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP must send the above information to the Taft Postdoctoral Fellowships, at the University of Cincinnati, P. O. Box 210369, Cincinnati, OH 45221-0369 before January 15, 2001. It is the responsibility of the candidates to insure that their files are complete, including the letters of recommendation, by this deadline. Incomplete applications, or applications postmarked after January 15th will not be considered for this Fellowship.

two Postdoctoral Fellows

Every year Washington University seeks two scholars to be in residence in the African and Afro-American Studies Program for one year (renewal for a second year is possible based on academic progress) as post-doctoral fellows. The scholars will be provided with office space and computer equipment to do their work. They will be given a reduced teaching load (one course per semester instead of the normal full-time load of two). Fellows are asked to teach courses related to their scholarly specialty, especially as it relates to African and/or African American Studies. Fellows are expected to contribute to the intellectual life of the university by giving two public lectures during their stay as well as interact with faculty and students. Symposia on topics of special interest to the fellow can be arranged. Intellectual and cultural interaction with the larger St. Louis community is encouraged. This fellowship is designed to prepare postdoctoral fellows for advancement in their careers by providing them opportunities to develop their research and teaching. Applications are considered using a broad set of criteria, with special consideration given to the contribution the candidate makes to the diversity of the faculty. Stipends for the year are $34,000 with up to $2,000 for research and travel related to research and a $1,000 moving allowance. Applications should include a letter of interest which describes the applicant's proposed research and scholarly interest. Applicants should also submit a curriculum vitae; official graduate transcript; detailed statement of proposed research (up to 5 pages); and one sample publication or one dissertation chapter. Applicants should also ask three individuals to write letters of recommendation on their behalf. One of the letters should be from the dissertation advisor. Washington University especially encourages applications from women, members of ethnic minority groups, and disabled individuals. Applicants must be eligible to study and teach in the United States and must have received a doctorate within three years of the start of the appointment. Individuals who have previously held a regular tenure-track appointment are not eligible. Applications should be sent to: Search Committee, African & Afro-American Studies, Washington University, Campus Box 1109, One Brookings Drive, St. Louis, MO 63130-4899. The search committee will continue to review applications until the position is filled, but priority will be given to applications received by January 15, 2001. Further inquiries regarding the fellowship should be made to 314/935-5690 or by e-mail to afas@artsci.wustl.edu. Washington University is an AA/EOE.

The Department of English at the University of San Francisco invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Writing at the Assistant Professor level, anticipated to begin in the Fall 2001.

The Writing Emphasis, a track in the English major, focuses on theories of writing and language. This is not an Expository Writing/Composition position. Primary teaching includes courses in textual and rhetorical analysis and conceptual aspects of publishing. We are particularly interested in applicants with innovative ideas for structuring a writing emphasis around these theoretical concerns. Secondary expertise desirable, especially in modern American poetry, ethnic American literature, and drama.

Qualifications: University teaching experience and an earned doctorate by Fall 2001; evidence of a strong commitment to teaching; publications or strong promise of publication; and an understanding of and commitment to support the mission of the University are required.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, brief description of research plans, copies of recent publications, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching ability including copies of teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation to: Writing Search Committee, c/o Carolyn Brown, Chair, Department of English, University of San Francisco, 2130 Fulton Street, San Francisco, CA 94117-1080.

Applications must be received by December 1, 2000 in order to ensure full consideration. The University of San Francisco is a private, Catholic and Jesuit institution and particularly welcomes candidates who will positively contribute to such an environment. USF is an Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action Employer, and will provide reasonable accommodations to individuals with disabilities upon request. We particularly encourage minority and women applicants for all positions.
