COMPUTER SOFTWARE FOR JOB CANDIDATES AND HIRING DEPARTMENTS

Two programs available. APPLY, which monitors applications (for jobs, grants, contests...), for the applicant. It stores the relevant data and merges it with text files which you create. It allows editing for fine changes. It orders dossiers and prints your letters, resumes, and envelopes. APPLY reviews any past experience you may have had with the person/institution before you try again. HIRE, a program which monitors applications (for jobs, grants, contests....), for the employer or granting institution. It stores the relevant data and merges it with text files which you create. It allows editing for fine changes. It writes acknowledgments, alerts when supporting documents have not arrived, and write rejections. It lets you code applicants and clone special lists, for printouts to your committee or for private reference. It prints your letters and envelopes. HIRE does the busy work. It lets you respond professionally to everyone and frees time for you to identify the best applicants. Both programs require MS-DOS version 2.1 or higher and will run on IBM compatibles; both programs offered as shareware: those who actually use the programs after testing them, should contribute $10. Otherwise, nothing. People may copy freely. For details, write Prof. Louie Crew, Director, Writing Program, Department of English, Chinese University, Shatin, N.T., Hong Kong. Programs may be downloaded via PC-SIG, FOG, Public (Software) Library, or other electronic bulletin boards.
