ABOUT THE JIL

Published by the MLA in both electronic and print versions, the JIL is the recognized professional source for announcements of full-time faculty positions available in the fields of English and foreign languages in North American colleges and universities. In 2008–09 the JIL carried more than 2,100 ads from over 1,250 departments and 700 institutions in all fifty states, the District of Columbia, and the provinces of Canada.

Departments that are members of the Association of Departments of English (ADE) and the Association of Departments of Foreign Languages (ADFL) receive subscriptions to the online and the print JIL. Job seekers in member departments, whether they are students enrolled in MA and PhD programs or faculty members, have access to the JIL in its print and online versions at no cost to themselves. Potential job applicants can consult the print version that their departments receive and access ads on the Web using the electronic version.

The online JIL is an electronic database that job seekers can search by field or language, by geographic region, by key words or phrases in a job description (e.g., “women’s studies,” “Romanticism,” or “drama”), and by rank. Graduate students and faculty members in ADE- and ADFL-member departments are allowed free access to the JIL through the ADE (www.ade.org) and ADFL (www.adfl.org) Web sites. Access requires a user name and password. MLA members in ADE- and ADFL-member departments can also log in to search the JIL at the MLA Web site with their MLA-member user name and password. Those who do not belong to an ADE- or ADFL-member department may access the JIL online by becoming affiliate members of either the ADE (to search the English edition) or the ADFL (to search the foreign language edition).

The print JIL is sent to ADE- and ADFL-member departments by first-class mail four times a year: October, December, February, and April. In addition to providing job seekers with information about available positions, the print JIL provides departments with a documentary record of their job searches. Departments that hire foreign nationals may wish to retain copies of the print JIL to meet the tear-sheet requirements of the US Immigration regulations.

Listings primarily announce full-time academic job openings in postsecondary departments of English and foreign languages. The job openings range in rank from instructor to full professor and include faculty positions, administrative posts, vacancies abroad, and some opportunities for non-academic employment. About two-thirds are openings at the rank of assistant professor.

Inquiries should be directed to Roy Chustek, Editor, Job Information List, MLA, 26 Broadway, 3rd floor, New York, NY 10004 (646 576-5133; rchustek@mla.org).

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

This issue contains 92 notices for positions in English and 121 notices for positions in languages other than English. The notices for positions in languages other than English are in the following areas: Arabic, 5; Chinese, 7; French, 15; German, 10; Hebrew, 2; Italian, 2; Japanese, 2; Portuguese, 2; Russian, 1; Spanish, 38; department chair, 5; linguistics and ESL, 6; multiple competencies, 7.

Guide for Using the Job Information List

English departmental job listings are arranged in alphabetical order by state and contain information on definite or possible vacancies and notices from departments that expect no vacancies but would nevertheless like to keep résumés on file. Listings from Canadian and overseas institutions and postdoctoral listings have been separated out from the main body of the issue and placed under the appropriate heading.

Foreign language departmental job listings are arranged in alphabetical order by language and contain information on definite or possible vacancies and notices from departments that expect no vacancies but would nevertheless like to keep vitae on file. Listings for positions in administration, linguistics and ESL, and multiple competencies and postdoctoral listings have been separated from the main body of the issue and placed under the appropriate heading.

General Advice for Candidates

Be sure that your dossier (transcript, letters of recommendation, and other material) is ready to be sent out by your placement bureau to any department that requests it. Prepare and duplicate a one-page vita sheet to enclose with any letters of application or inquiry. In your letter of application, it is probably wise to express a willingness to be interviewed at the department's convenience. Professional meetings provide a convenient opportunity for such interviews.

While it is important to begin to search for a position immediately, you should be aware that hiring goes on all year. Surveys indicate that only about half of all English and foreign language departments have begun recruiting by the end of December and that the majority of departments do not complete the recruiting process until spring, in some cases until summer.

Bear in mind that the candidate who has not limited his or her search for a new position to a particular geographical area or kind of institution is most likely to find a position. Do not discount the small colleges where one often has the opportunity to teach a wide selection of courses to students of varied backgrounds.

Notice on Tenure Policies

The Modern Language Association recommends that department administrators and their representatives inform candidates before or during the interview about prospects for tenure in the specific position under consideration and about the tenure policies and practices in their departments and institutions. If the information is not offered, candidates are urged to inquire about these policies.

Acknowledgment of Applications

Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

MLA Policy on the Reimbursement of Job Seekers

The following policies were recommended by the Delegate Assembly in December 1999 and approved by the MLA Executive Council in February 2000.

It is MLA policy that:

- Departments that require that job applicants send their application materials by express carrier reimburse those applicants for the cost of such shipment; and
- Departments that require multiple copies of writing samples and other application materials from job applicants reimburse applicants for the cost of duplicating their writing samples and other materials; and
- Departments that require books will return them to the applicant; and
- Departments that invite job applicants for on-campus interviews reimburse those applicants who accept such invitations for the costs of travel and accommodations incurred when visiting the campus for interviews.

LIST OF ADMINISTRATIONS CENSURED

BY THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

*Note: The following list and accompanying explanatory note are reprinted from Academe by permission of the American Association of University Professors and in accordance with the action of the MLA Delegate Assembly.*

Investigations by the American Association of University Professors of the administrations of the institutions listed below show that, as evidenced by a past violation, they are not observing the generally recognized principles of academic freedom and tenure endorsed by this Association, the Association of American Colleges and Universities, and more than 150 other professional and educational organizations. The 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure may be found in the May-June 1990 issue of Academe.

This list is published for the purpose of informing Association members, the profession at large, and the public that unsatisfactory conditions of academic freedom and tenure have been found to prevail at these institutions. Names are placed on or removed from this censure list by vote of the Association's Annual Meeting.

Placing the name of an institution on this list does not mean that censure is visited either upon the whole of the institution or upon the faculty, but specifically upon its present administration. The term "administration" includes the administrative officers and the governing board of the institution. This censure does not affect the eligibility of nonmembers for membership in the Association, nor does it affect the individual rights of members at the institution in question.

Members of the Association have often considered it to be their duty, in order to indicate their support of the principles violated, to refrain from accepting appointment to an institution so long as it remains on the censure list. Since circumstances differ widely from case to case, the Association does not assert that such an unqualified obligation exists for its members; it does urge that, before accepting appointments, they seek information on present conditions of academic freedom and tenure from the Association's Washington office and prospective departmental colleagues. The Association leaves it to the discretion of the individual, possessed of the facts, to make the proper decision.

The censured administrations, with dates of censuring, are listed below. Reports were published as indicated by the Bulletin or Academe citations in parentheses following each listing. Reference should also be made to "Developments Relating to Censure by the Association" and to the "Report of Committee A," each of which appears annually in Academe.

Honors Program Faculty-Writing and Rhetoric

<http://www.biola.edu>

Responsibilities:

*Teaching an established great books curriculum to undergraduate honors students. The teaching load is eight courses per year. Four of these involve Socratic classroom discussions of the core curriculum across the disciplines, while the remaining four comprise writing instruction in a variety of formats (see below).

*Offering supplemental writing and rhetoric instruction to over 300 undergraduate honors students, both in the form of group workshops and individual tutorials. The writing instruction primarily involves helping students develop elegant, closely argued essays in dialogue with the great books curriculum. Individual tutorials for advanced students should further develop their writing in broader arenas, including research papers, fiction, poetry, creative non-fiction, and speeches.

*Oversee the evaluation of student writing by hiring and supervising editors.

*Mentoring students in their general education, college life, and spiritual development.

*Maintaining a profile of scholarly publishing and communication.

Qualifications:

Candidate must hold PhD or terminal equivalent in any field that is central to the humanities, e.g. Modern Languages, English, Comparative Literature, History, Political Science, or Philosophy and New Testament. The successful candidate must also give evidence of having sustained a lively academic interest in a variety of fields beyond that specialty, a desire to pursue further intellectual development in a range of disciplines, a love of liberal arts education, a sophisticated approach to integrating Christian truth claims with all university disciplines, and an ability to think fast in seminar discussion, and an enthusiasm for collaborating with other faculty to nurture student-led writing projects.

Profile:

Biola is an evangelical protestant university in which faculty endorse the University Doctrinal Statement, adhere to the Standard of Conduct, and are committed to integration of faith and learning. Biola is committed to diversity and seeks faculty who can contribute to multicultural understandings. Biola serves a student body of over 5,500 undergraduate and graduate students and is accredited by WASC. Torrey Honors Institute delivers thirty units of liberal arts general education and thirty units of Bible and theology to honors students. See <http://www.biola.edu/academics/torrey/> for details.

Application Process:

Position begins Fall 2011, open until filled. Please send an application letter and curriculum vita in an electronic pdf format addressed to the Vice Provost for Undergraduate Education via shirley.sims@biola.edu.

Mailing address: Vice Provost for Undergraduate Education, Biola University, 13800 Biola Avenue, La Mirada, CA 90639. Phone-562.777.4016.

Mellon Visiting Assistant Professorship, Environmental History/Literature

The departments of History and English are pleased to announce a two-year Visiting Assistant Professorship supported by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. We are looking for new or recent Ph.D.s in History, English, or related disciplines such as American Studies, for an appointment from July 1, 2011 to June 30, 2013, in the department of History or English, as appropriate. We prefer a focus on California, the North American West and Pacific, or borderlands, and a strong interdisciplinary background with possible interests in human/nature interactions, geography, environmental justice or politics.

The Mellon Visiting Assistant Professor will participate in the Mellon Research Initiative in Environments and Societies, directed by Professor Louis Warren and based in the UC Davis Humanities Institute. This position will lie within either the Department of History or the Department of English dependent on the successful candidate's background. Duties include teaching three courses per year and serving as organizer in the development of a colloquium and graduate seminar in environmental history, literature, and justice, based in the Environmental Humanities program of the Davis Humanities Institute. (<http://environmentalhumanities.ucdavis.edu/>)

The Mellon Visiting Assistant Professor will receive a stipend of $50,000 annually plus medical insurance, research funds, and moving expenses. The campus at Davis has an excellent library as well as efficient interlibrary loan services. The Mellon Visiting

Assistant Professor will join a vibrant community of scholars and teachers in the humanities and humanistic social sciences.

UC Davis, twenty minutes from Sacramento, is an hour and a half drive from San Francisco and a two hour-drive from Lake Tahoe.

Review of applications will begin March 28, 2011 and continue until the position is filled. To apply, please send a letter of interest, CV, and three letters of recommendation under the label "Mellon Search" to Professor Louis Warren, Department of History, One Shields Ave., UC Davis, Davis, CA 95616. Applicants must have received the Ph.D. after August 31, 2008, and must have finished all requirements for the Ph.D. by June 1, 2011. The University of California is an equal opportunity employer. Director – MFA in Creative Writing

<http://https://jobs.ut.edu>

The Department of English and Writing in the College of Arts and Letters at The University of Tampa seeks a creative, innovative individual with significant professional accomplishment to serve as the founding Director of a new low-residency MFA in Creative Writing. This is a 12-month administrative position with teaching responsibilities, to begin June 1, 2011.

Qualifications. The successful candidate will have a record of effective teaching as well as distinguished publishing credentials in at least one major genre of those planned initially for the program—poetry, fiction, or creative nonfiction. The ideal candidate will also have an appropriate terminal degree (MFA or Ph.D.), a record of successful administrative experience and, preferably, familiarity with or experience in a low-residency MFA Creative Writing program. We seek an enthusiastic individual with excellent communication skills, whose commitment will become contagious, building a strong community and collegiality within the new program.

Responsibilities. The Director will develop and implement a residency schedule of workshops, craft seminars, and panel discussions for candidates and faculty commencing in January 2012. With support from the Office of Graduate and Continuing Studies and the MFA advisory team, the Director will plan and host students and faculty for two 10-day residencies annually, provide administrative oversight for all aspects of distance learning, and respond to student, faculty, and administrative concerns, as needed.

In keeping with the AWP Director's Handbook, the Director will pursue adherence to the Association's "Hallmarks" for a successful graduate program by agreeing to "nurture a culture of creativity, vitality, intellectual rigor, artistic discipline, and collegiality." The MFA Creative Writing Director will be supported by an advisory team including the Associate Dean of the Office of Graduate and Continuing Studies, the Chair of the Department of English and Writing, the Director of the University of Tampa Press, and a member of the UT English/Writing Department qualified to teach in the program. The MFA will benefit from the resources and experiences of the oldest undergraduate Writing major in the state at an institution that is also home to Tampa Review, the oldest literary journal in Florida, situated at a private downtown university ranked 26th among Tier 1 Regional Universities in the 2011 rankings by US News & World Report.

This is a 12-month administrative position with teaching responsibilities. Teaching responsibilities may vary as the program develops. Initially, the position includes a teaching load of approximately three courses a year, at least one of them in the MFA program.

Salary for the Director will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For full consideration, candidates should apply by March 14, 2011.

Review of applicants will commence immediately and continue until the position is filled.

For details and to apply on line go to: <https://jobs.ut.edu>

Applicants should be prepared to attach a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, a sample of your creative writing and a one-page statement about scholarship interests.

In addition, applicants will be requested to enter name and email address for three (3) reference providers.

The University of Tampa is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. [R]

Director of Digital Humanities Institute

Texas A&M University continues to seek dynamic scholars with an established record in digital humanities research and academic leadership to participate—as Director and Associate Director—in establishing an interdisciplinary Institute for Digital Humanities, Media, and Culture. The Institute has been designated one of six Texas A&M Landmark Research Areas (and thus is the recipient of substantial start-up funding). The new appointments will be tenured in the Department of English, Department of Performance Studies, or another academic department within the College of Liberal Arts. The Institute for Digital Humanities, Media, and Culture supports interdisciplinary scholarly and creative work that broadly explores the relationship between computing technologies and culture. The appointees' responsibilities include initiating and developing internal research program and facilities (including a new digital humanities laboratory), actively engaging external partners (including other research programs, educational institutions, and leaders in the technology industries, and securing supplemental funding from such external agencies as NEH, Mellon, ACLS, and NEA). The successful applicants will have an outstanding scholarly record in digital humanities, including substantial experience in interdisciplinary, collaborative research and in obtaining and administering grant funding.

The proposal which led to the funding of the Institute can be read at <http://www.english.tamu.edu/pers/fac/may/DHwhitepaper.pdf>.

Texas A&M University already supports a variety of high-profile and emerging projects involving digital humanities and offers a Digital Humanities Certificate (<http://dh.tamu.edu/certificate>). The new appointees will help to develop these existing strengths into a top-echelon, interdisciplinary Digital Humanities Institute and program.

Minorities and women are strongly encouraged to apply. Texas A&M is an AA/EEO employer, is deeply committed to diversity, and responds to the needs of dual-career couples.

The review of applications (including a curriculum vitae and at least six letters of reference) is in process. The committee plans to invite finalists for campus visits early in the Spring semester. We hope to have the new Director in place by summer 2011.

Applications, letters of reference, and inquiries should be addressed to:

Florida Southern College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in Spanish beginning in fall 2011. The college seeks a student-centered professor who is committed to traditional and non-traditional language instruction. The college has recently established a self-instructional language program (SILP) in critical languages and become a member of the National Association of Self-Instructional Language Programs (NASILP). The college, therefore, is particularly interested in candidates who have experience in this mode of language instruction, administrative ability, and a willingness to assist in providing leadership of this program. The Ph.D., a background in Latin American and/or peninsular literature, and skill in engaged-learning and instructional technology are necessary. Qualification to teach a second language is desirable. The 3/3 course load involves general education and advanced courses; load reassign to give leadership to the SILP is a strong possibility. A faculty member must be an exceptional teacher who motivates students to take an active role in their own learning and an advisor/mentor who assists students in interpreting the significance of their education. Faculty members are college-wide citizens, participating and serving as leaders in committee work and other activities supporting the teaching-learning community. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Frostburg State University, Department of Foreign Languages and Literature seeks applications for a full-time, tenure-track Instructor/Assistant Professor of Spanish to begin Fall 2011. Position includes USM benefits package.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach four undergraduate classes per semester; contribute to the development of the Spanish curriculum; sustain professional development; advise students; and perform service for the department, the University and the community.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. or ABD in Spanish with specialization in Foreign Language Methodology, Linguistics, Literature, or a closely related field. Candidates are expected to demonstrate excellence in teaching Spanish at the college level, the ability to teach Spanish courses from introductory to advanced classes, and familiarity with current methodologies to teach foreign languages.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: The ability and interest in teaching Spanish for the Professions; specialization in or the ability to teach foreign language methodology. Experience and competence with the use of multimedia technology a plus.

Frostburg State University is located in the Appalachian highlands (elevation 2,000 feet) of western Maryland. Of its diverse student body of more than 5,300, approximately 2,100 reside on campus in 11 traditional halls and one apartment-style community. The main campus covers 260 acres within the town limits of Frostburg (population 7,500). The University also offers courses at the University System of Maryland at Hagerstown, on the Catonsville Campus of the Community College of Baltimore County and at Arundel Mills Regional Higher Education Center, as well as online.

FSU prides itself on being a dynamic, learning-centered organization that emphasizes teaching, but with opportunities for professional development and research. Students regularly build strong connections with faculty and staff members that often last beyond graduation.

The local region is rich in both history and outdoor activities. Students can visit nearby recreational areas—Rocky Gap, New Germany, and Deep Creek Lake State Parks—which offer camping, boating, swimming, hiking, and skiing. For more information, visit <http://www.frostburg.edu/about.cfm>.

To apply, email a letter of interest, resume, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three professional references by March 29, 2011 to humanresources@frostburg.edu. Include "Instructor/Assistant Professor of Spanish (Position #11-010415)" in the subject line.

Frostburg State University welcomes and encourages women and minorities to apply and seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce. FSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Appropriate auxiliary aids and services for qualified individuals with disability will be provided upon request. Please notify us in advance. WWW.FROSTBURG.EDU [R]

Assistant Professor of Spanish/Teacher Education 14430
<http://icjobs.org>

Ithaca College's Departments of Modern Languages and Literatures and Education invite applications for a full-time assistant professorship in Spanish/Teacher Education to begin August 16, 2011. The position involves teaching all levels of Spanish language, literature, and culture, and coordinating and teaching in the College's undergraduate and graduate programs in teacher education.

The position is either tenure-eligible or non-tenure eligible, depending on the applicant's academic credentials. A terminal degree in Spanish, Education, or a related field is strongly preferred and required for a tenure-eligible position; masters-level candidates will be considered for a continuing non-tenure eligible position.

Successful candidates will demonstrate an ability to teach in ways that value the varied learning needs and interests of a culturally diverse student population, and that reflect a commitment to encouraging the success of all students. We seek candidates who have relevant experience and/or a record of professional engagement with groups and communities underrepresented in the academy, a deep commitment to diversity, equity, and innovative practice in education, and who possess a well-informed vision for high quality teacher education. Candidates from underrepresented groups whose exclusion from the academy has been longstanding are strongly encouraged to apply.

Qualifications: Doctoral degree preferred, master's degree required; experience teaching Spanish language, literature, language and culture at the college level; experience teaching at the secondary level or working with K-12 school-aged youth; experience with pre-service or in-service teacher education; a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate education; and native or near-native fluency in Spanish and English.

Interested candidates should apply on-line at www.icjobs.org, and attach a cover letter and vita/resume. Under separate cover, mail three letters of recommendation, transcripts, and recent teaching evaluations to: Dr. Richardson, Chair, Spanish Search, Department of Modern Languages/Literatures, Ithaca College, Muller Center, Ithaca, NY, 14850-7285. Questions about on-line application may be directed to the Office of HR (607) 274-8000. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Ithaca College is committed to building a diverse academic community and encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply. Experience that contributes to the diversity of the college is appreciated.

St. Lawrence University invites applications for a one-year, visiting position in creative non-fiction and minority American literatures. The successful candidate will teach both levels of our introductory and advanced creative non-fiction writing courses, and will also be expected to offer a literature survey in the candidate's area of specialty. Ability to offer coursework in early American literature is also desirable. Normal teaching load is three courses per semester. Preference will be given to candidates with Ph.D. and teaching experience. We encourage applications from candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic, theoretical, and national perspectives to bear on their writing and teaching. The successful candidate will join a department with a commitment to excellence in teaching, and to a program founded upon the essential relationship between creative expression and the study of literature.

Please send a letter of application, a c.v., and sample syllabi for two relevant courses to Dr. Sidney Sondergard, c/o Creative Non-Fiction/Americanist Search Committee, Department of English, St. Lawrence University, Canton, NY 13617. Review of Applications begins on March 10, 2011, and will continue until the position is filled.

St. Lawrence University, chartered in 1856, is an independent, private, coeducational institution of higher learning in New York State. Director of Digital Humanities Institute 14338

Texas A&M University continues to seek dynamic scholars with an established record in digital humanities research and academic leadership to participate—as Director and Associate Director—in establishing an interdisciplinary Institute for Digital Humanities, Media, and Culture. The Institute has been designated one of six Texas A&M Landmark Research Areas (and thus is the recipient of substantial start-up funding). The new appointments will be tenured in the Department of English, Department of Performance Studies, or another academic department within the College of Liberal Arts. The Institute for Digital Humanities, Media, and Culture supports interdisciplinary scholarly and creative work that broadly explores the relationship between computing technologies and culture. The appointees' responsibilities include initiating and developing internal research program and facilities (including a new digital humanities laboratory), actively engaging external partners (including other research programs, educational institutions, and leaders in the technology industries, and securing supplemental funding from such external agencies as NEH, Mellon, ACLS, and NEA). The successful applicants will have an outstanding scholarly record in digital humanities, including substantial experience in interdisciplinary, collaborative research and in obtaining and administering grant funding.

The proposal which led to the funding of the Institute can be read at <http://www-english.tamu.edu/pers/fac/may/DHwhitepaper.pdf>.

Texas A&M University already supports a variety of high-profile and emerging projects involving digital humanities and offers a Digital Humanities Certificate (<http://dh.tamu.edu/certificate>). The new appointees will help to develop these existing strengths into a top-echelon, interdisciplinary Digital Humanities Institute and program.

Minorities and women are strongly encouraged to apply. Texas A&M is an AA/EEO employer, is deeply committed to diversity, and responds to the needs of dual-career couples.

The review of applications (including a curriculum vitae and at least six letters of reference) is in process. The committee plans to invite finalists for campus visits early in the Spring semester. We hope to have the new Director in place by summer 2011.

Applications, letters of reference, and inquiries should be addressed to:

Film and Digital Media Studies, Assistant Professor 14478

<http://www.louisville.edu/jobs>

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Louisville seeks an Assistant Professor (term) with a specialty in Film and Digital Media Studies. This is a one-year appointment, renewable as many as four times, to begin Fall 2011. The appointee will teach four courses per year, most or all of them in the Humanities Program. They will include Introduction to Film Studies, Survey of Film and Culture, and other courses in film, television, and/or other digital media. S/he will also participate in the development of curriculum and possible degree programs in Film and Digital Media, and in the activities of the Commonwealth Center for Humanities and Society. However, the expectation is that a substantial portion of his or her time (around 40%) will be allotted to scholarly research and publication. We seek candidates with a PhD and a record of excellence in teaching and with clear potential for significant scholarly achievement. Submit application letter, vita, at least three recommendation letters, a writing sample, and a proposal for your "dream course"—the undergraduate course you would most like to teach. Submissions must be made electronically to Jennifer.stephens@louisville.edu. Additionally, the University requires that all candidates apply online at www.louisville.edu/jobs, Job ID 26820. Application deadline is March 31. For more information contact Jennifer Stephens, Program Coordinator, at jennifer.stephens@louisville.edu or 502-852-8977. The University of Louisville is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity, Americans with Disabilities Employer, committed to diversity and in that spirit, seeks applications from a broad variety of candidates.

Postdoctoral Fellow 14455

<http://web.utk.edu/~marco/>

The Marco Institute for Medieval and Renaissance Studies at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville invites applications for the 2011–2012 Jimmy and Dee Haslam Postdoctoral Fellowship, a one-year fellowship to be held August 1, 2011 to July 31, 2012 and renewable for one year. The Haslam Fellowship is open to untenured scholars in any field of medieval or Renaissance studies whose work falls in the period 300–1700 C.E. The Institute hopes to attract a scholar of outstanding potential with an innovative research plan, who will participate fully in the intellectual life of the Marco community. During the course of the year, the Fellow will teach one upper division undergraduate class and one graduate seminar in his or her field of expertise. The Fellow may teach both courses in a single semester if her or his research plan warrants that arrangement, and will be eligible to apply for travel funding through the Institute. Salary is $40,000 and includes full benefits. Applications, including curriculum vitae, a detailed research plan (2 single-spaced pages), and two letters of reference, should be sent to Prof. Heather Hirschfeld, Riggsby Director, Marco Institute for Medieval and Renaissance Studies, University of Tennessee, Dunford Hall, sixth floor, 915 Volunteer Blvd., Knoxville, TN 37996-4065 by April 1, 2011. More information is available at <http://web.utk.edu/~marco/>. The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, or covered veteran status.
