ACCESSING THE ELECTRONIC JIL

An online version of the Job Information List is now available for searching by JIL subscribers as well as by job seekers in ADE- and ADFL-member departments. A user name and password are required to search the database. To find your user name and password, follow these directions:

If you are an individual subscriber: If you already have a user name and password, use them. If you do not, locate the address label on the back cover of your Job Information List. Your current online user name is the number located in the upper right-hand side of the address label. Your password is your zip code or the first five letters of your country (capitalized) if you live outside the United States. This user name and password will give you initial access to the electronic JIL. The online JIL can be found at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org); follow the Job Information link to the JIL page, where you will find information on how to search the JIL. You have the option to change your user name and password whenever you choose by going to the JIL page, clicking on either of the "Search" buttons, giving your current user name and password at the prompt, and then clicking the "Subscriber Information" button at the top of the search form and following the instructions for changing your user name and password.

If you are a job seeker in an ADE- or ADFL-member department: Graduate students and faculty members in departments that are current paid members of ADE or ADFL have access to the online JIL as a benefit of their department's ADE or ADFL membership. You must access the JIL through the ADE or ADFL home pages (www.adefl.org; www.adfl.org). Information on how to access the online JIL on this basis is available from your department chair.

SUBSCRIPTION INFORMATION

The print version of the Job Information List is published four times during the academic year—in October, December, February, and April. Listings are solicited from two- and four-year colleges and universities for all issues. The cost of a subscription is $35.00 in the United States and Canada and $47.00 elsewhere. The List is sent by first-class mail to subscribers in the United States and Canada and by airmail to all other areas; delivery should be shortly after the publication dates listed below. Please note, however, that these are projected dates only and are subject to change without notice.

Further inquiries should be directed to Roy Chustek, Editor, Job Information List, MLA, 10 Astor Place, New York, NY 10003 (212 614-6321; roy.chustek@mla.org).

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

Information on vacancies for the October issue was provided by departments of foreign language, comparative literature, and linguistics in US and Canadian colleges and universities, as well as some number of overseas institutions and nonacademic enterprises. The current issue includes descriptions of approximately 650 definite or possible vacancies. These are broken down by language as follows: French, 100 definite, 2 possible; Spanish, 265 definite, 18 possible; German, 61 definite, 2 possible; Italian, 23 definite; Slavic, 16 definite; multiple language fields, 32 definite; and linguistics, comparative literature, and other language fields, 134 definite, 12 possible.

Guide for Using the Job Information List

The main body of the List, arranged in alphabetical order by language, contains information on definite or possible vacancies, comments on notices published in past issues (e.g., that a previously announced position has been filled), and notices from departments that expect no vacancies but would nevertheless like to keep résumés on file.

Read through this section item by item to see which departments would welcome your letter of application or inquiry at this time. Send letters only to departments expressing an interest in a person with your qualifications. If a notice states that no vacancies are expected but that the department would like to maintain a file of prospective candidates, you must decide in each case whether it is worthwhile to write.

Multiple Language Listings

Notices in which the language field is open, as well as notices of single positions calling for expertise in more than one language (e.g., associate professor of Spanish and German).

Comparative Literature, Linguistics and ESL, and Other Sections

Notices in these fields have been separated out from the main body of the issue and placed under the appropriate heading.

Departments Reporting No Vacancies

A list of departments reporting no vacancies can be found on the Job List page at the MLA's World Wide Web site (www.mla.org). The departments on this list are indicating that they have no openings for the remainder of 1999–2000 or for 2000–2001. Do not waste your time and the department's time by writing; if an opening should occur unexpectedly, the department will report this in the next List. The only "no-vacancy" departments to which you should write are those in the main body of this issue where the notice has stated that letters or credentials will be kept on file.

General Advice for Candidates

Be sure that your dossier (transcript, letters of recommendation, and other material) is ready to be sent out by your placement bureau to any department that requests it. Prepare and duplicate a one-page vita sheet to enclose with any letters of application or inquiry. In your letter of application, it is probably wise to express a willingness to be interviewed at the department's convenience. Professional meetings provide a convenient opportunity for such interviews (see list below).

While it is important to begin to search for a position immediately, you should be aware that hiring goes on all year. Surveys indicate that only about half of all English and foreign language departments have begun recruiting by the end of December and that the majority of departments do not complete the recruiting process until spring, in some cases until summer.

Bear in mind that the candidate who has not limited his or her search for a new position to a particular geographical area or kind of institution is most likely to find a position. Do not discount the small colleges where one often has the opportunity to teach a wide selection of courses to students of varied backgrounds.

Notice on Tenure Policies

The Modern Language Association recommends that department administrators and their representatives inform candidates before or during the interview about prospects for tenure in the specific position under consideration and about the tenure policies and practices in their departments and institutions. If the information is not offered, candidates are urged to inquire about these policies.

Acknowledgment of Applications

Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

ADVICE TO SEARCH COMMITTEE MEMBERS AND JOB SEEKERS ON FACULTY RECRUITMENT AND HIRING

Prepared by the MLA Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities

I. General Principles

1. Everyone in the profession benefits when job searches go well. Timely, open communication can ensure an atmosphere of collegiality between departments and candidates, even when the job market is tight or institutional circumstances are uncertain. Departments help to create such an atmosphere when they recognize how vulnerable candidates may feel during a job search; candidates help when they recognize that departments may be affected by institutional policies largely beyond their control. Problems arising during a job search may lead to impressions that damage individuals or institutions; however, professional conduct by all parties involved in a job search may prevent such problems and can only be beneficial to all.

2. All job candidates should be treated equitably. Throughout any search for new faculty members, departments should adhere to nondiscrimination and affirmative action guidelines, taking particular care not to discriminate on the basis of race, ethnic or national origin, religion, disability, age, gender, or sexual orientation. The principles of confidentiality should be respected by all parties.

II. Advertising and Initial Screening

1. Advertisements for an opening should be as specific as possible about the availability of the opening (definite, likely, or possible), the type of appointment (tenure-track or non-tenure-track), minimum degree requirements, field(s) of expertise, minimum teaching experience, and any other requirements or criteria.

2. Applicants should be allowed ample time to respond to advertisements of openings, and deadlines for applications should be specified whenever possible. Normally, applications should be accepted for at least twenty-one days after the announced publication date for a given issue of the Job Information List (about 15 October, 15 November, 15 February, and 15 April). Care should be taken to inform applicants of the department's projected timetable for making decisions about interviews at the MLA convention, and applicants should be kept informed of their status following the initial screening.

3. Applications submitted in response to announcements should be acknowledged promptly and courteously in writing (if possible, within two weeks), and care should be taken to inform applicants of their status following the initial screening. Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions either by letter or by self-addressed postcards provided by applicants.

III. Preparing Applications

1. The candidate should prepare a dossier, including a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcript(s), and letters of recommendation, by the end of September, before the October issue of the Job Information List. It is the candidate's responsibility to make sure that all requested materials are supplied.

2. For the purpose of initial screening, a letter of application and dossier should normally suffice. To save all parties time and money, the committee recommends that departments request writing samples and other material only after a preliminary list of candidates has been chosen.

IV. Setting Up MLA Interviews

1. Candidates should realize that the department advertising in the Job Information List normally expects candidates to attend the MLA convention for screening interviews. Candidates who do not attend the convention may therefore be at a disadvantage. In such cases a telephone interview may be an appropriate alternative. Departments and candidates should realize that convention attendance is generally the most efficient and least expensive way to conduct interviews. Departments should make every effort to be represented at the convention by at least one member of the search committee.

2. Departments need to be able to reach candidates quickly between 1 and 24 December. Candidates who travel in December should supply departments with complete itineraries including telephone numbers. Because of the expenses related to convention attendance, departments should notify all candidates, including those not invited for interviews, of their status as early as possible.

3. Candidates applying from outside North America should have a contact in the United States to receive mail and messages. Since few departments have resources to bring candidates to on-campus interviews from outside North America, candidates who reside abroad should determine arrangements for any on-campus interviews during MLA convention interviews.

4. To be sure that candidates can get the information they need to keep interview appointments at the convention, a department chair or search committee chair should stop by the job center soon after checking into a hotel, fill out the appropriate forms, and then check the “Who’s Where” listing for accuracy.

5. Departments need to be sure candidates know where the interview is taking place. The Job Information Center is set up to provide this information. If you plan to use the convention interview area, you need to sign in with the Job Information Center and hand in your schedule. If you are interviewing in a hotel room, remember that the hotel switchboard personnel are not authorized to disclose room numbers. You can register your room number and a list of interviewees with the Job Information Center, so that your room number will be given out only to the candidates with whom your department has set up appointments. Departments scheduled to begin interviewing on the first afternoon of the convention may need to arrive the day before, to avoid missing appointments because of travel delays or delays in checking into hotels.

6. Departments and candidates should plan realistically and adhere closely to schedules. When arranging interviews, candidates should leave as much time as possible between appointments, keeping in mind that they may have to deal with crowded elevators, slow meal service, or delayed shuttle buses. Departments should remember that interviews that run late may prevent candidates from keeping other appointments and that one instance of lateness can multiply into a whole series of missed or delayed interviews.

7. Whether held on or off campus, in person or by telephone, interviews should be conducted in a professional manner, permitting candidates adequate opportunity to explain and demonstrate their qualifications. Candidates and departments should review “Dos and Don’ts for Interviews,” by Herbert Lederer, revised in 1995 by CAF-PRR and reprinted each October in the Job Information List.

8. Interviewers should make every effort to accommodate candidates with disabilities.

V. Interviewing on Campus

1. Departments inviting candidates for on-campus interviews should pay candidates’ expenses, following standard institutional policies for travel reimbursement. Candidates should be told approximately how many others are being invited for on-campus interviews.

2. On-campus interviews represent a large investment of time and money for departments; therefore, candidates should not accept on-campus interviews if they are not seriously interested in the position. Before traveling to a campus, candidates should thoroughly research the department’s faculty and programs. Candidates should find out what salary range and teaching load have been established for the position and should decide in advance what their own minimum requirements are. It is important that candidates also determine in advance whether their decisions may be influenced by special circumstances that should be communicated to the chair.

3. A department that invites a candidate to interview on its campus has an obligation to (a) arrange the logistics of the candidate’s stay (local transportation, lodging—including disability accommodations, meals); (b) set up interviews with faculty members and administrators; (c) provide a tour of the campus and its facilities; (d) provide adequate information about the department, the university, and the community; (e) plan social activities for the candidate; and (f) inform the candidate of the procedures and timetable for reimbursement.

4. Members of departments and search committees should not discuss other candidates with a visiting candidate.

VI. Negotiating an Offer

1. To minimize misunderstanding and anxiety during negotiations about offers, departments should establish ground rules in advance and let candidates know what these are before any offers are made. Departments should communicate with candidates regularly and openly about the status of the search process. All parties should be aware that, especially in times of fiscal uncertainty, circumstances beyond the institution’s control may delay or disrupt the hiring process.

2. No candidate should be required before 22 January to give a final answer to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. After 22 January, candidates should normally be allowed two weeks to give a final answer to a formal offer.

CHECKLIST FOR JOB SEEKERS

The MLA Committee on Careers offers this checklist as an aid for first-time job seekers and as a guide for graduate departments about ways they can facilitate the placement of their graduates. As an association, the MLA has a vital interest in establishing procedures and practices that make the job search as effective and professional as possible.

Prepreparation

- ☐ Have you completed your dissertation? If not, do you have a realistic schedule for completing it?
- ☐ Have you defined the kind(s) of institution(s) where you would like to teach?
- ☐ Have you informed yourself about the job market? Have you consulted, for example, the Job Information List, the Chronicle of Higher Education, and the ADE Bulletin or ADFL Bulletin about the job situation?
- ☐ Have you spoken to recently hired faculty members about their experiences in the job market?
- ☐ Have you been realistic in defining the kinds of specialized courses you are qualified to teach? Have you articulated what you have to offer as a scholar and a teacher? What are the limits of the jobs for which you really qualify?
- ☐ Have you spoken to one or more of the following persons about the job search: your department placement officer, your department graduate adviser, your dissertation adviser, your department placement committee, other faculty members who know you well and who have shown interest in your work?
- ☐ Have you requested from your department or placement office standardized forms for your letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you requested letters from three to five faculty members who feel positively about you and who know your course work, dissertation, and teaching?
- ☐ Have you given your referees sufficient information about your record and at least several weeks to prepare their letters of recommendation?
- ☐ Have you estimated the costs of the job search? Although costs will vary, it is reasonable to expect to spend at least $700 for travel, lodging, food, and incidentals when attending the MLA convention. Remember too that you will have duplicating and postage expenses, fees charged by the placement office for sending your dossier, long-distance phone charges, and expenses for purchase or rental of a telephone answering machine to receive calls before and after the convention. Although you should expect to be reimbursed for travel to on-campus interviews, you will probably have to pay airfare in advance. It is a good idea to establish credit and acquire a credit card if possible. When you are called for an on-campus interview, be sure to ask whether your expenses will be reimbursed.

- ☐ Have you requested a mock interview? If your department does not regularly schedule mock interviews for job candidates, have you discussed with several faculty members the kinds of questions you can expect to be asked and issues to be discussed?
- ☐ Have you considered requesting disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

The MLA Convention

- ☐ Have you planned your interview schedule for the MLA convention, making sure that you have allowed enough time to get from one hotel to another?
- ☐ Do you have the information you need about the school and the department to which you have applied (e.g., course offerings, college and university requirements, faculty members)?
- ☐ Have you reviewed the list of “dos and don’ts” for interviewees?

The On-Campus Interview

- ☐ Have you determined beforehand the schedule of your visit and the meetings you will be asked to take part in? Have you asked the department to add things to your itinerary (e.g., a tour of the library, a meeting with students) that were not originally scheduled?
- ☐ Have you inquired in advance of your trip whether you will be reimbursed for expenses you incur for the on-campus interview? Have you done careful research beforehand about the faculty and curriculum of the school you will be visiting?
- ☐ Will you be required to make a formal presentation to faculty and/or students while on campus? If so, have you carefully prepared this presentation? Are you prepared to discuss your dissertation in detail?
- ☐ Have you received all the information you will need in order to make a decision if offered a job—information about salary, fringe benefits, moving expenses, tenure policies, any other terms of the contract, and the amount of time you will have to consider the offer?
- ☐ Have you informed the department of any disability-related accommodations to facilitate your interview?

After an Offer Is Made

- ❑ Are you well informed about the general financial health of the college or university, its enrollment trends, its support for the humanities, the distribution of majors, and the faculty members in your discipline?
- ❑ Are you clear about what your own teaching responsibilities will be? Do you know what your course load and approximate class sizes will be?
- ❑ Do your research interests have a clear place in the department? Have you asked about support for your research, including the availability of grants, sabbatical and released time?
- ❑ Do you know the criteria and procedures for tenure and promotion?
- ❑ Do you have an informed opinion about the advantages and disadvantages of living in the city or town where the college or university is located? Have you asked, for example, about housing, the cost of living, cultural and social opportunities, local politics, and public schools?
- ❑ You should not be required to respond before 22 January to an offer of a position without tenure for the following academic year. If you receive an offer between 22 January and the middle of the summer, you should be allowed two weeks to make a decision. But once you have definitely made up your mind about an offer, you should accept or reject it immediately: keep in mind that other candidates will be affected by your decision.

Things to Remember If You Don't Get an Offer

- ❑ The hiring season is not over in January; only the first wave has passed by then.
- ❑ While many offers are made in January, an offer in February does not necessarily mean that you are a second choice. It may mean that the department has had to wait a month to reconvene its search committee or receive final approval for funding.
- ❑ You may be on the market too early. The department may not have been convinced that you will actually finish your dissertation by the time specified.
- ❑ You may have pinned your hopes on too narrow a selection of schools.
- ❑ You can still inquire about your status at places where you have interviewed. You may still be on their lists.
- ❑ New jobs open up after the MLA convention. Keep reading the Job Information List through the summer supplement and consult the advertisements in the Chronicle of Higher Education and other professional publications.
- ❑ There will be another job market next year. Start preparing for it now. The current search will have given you valuable experience.

DOS AND DON'TS

FOR MLA CONVENTION INTERVIEWS

by Herbert Lederer, University of Connecticut with revisions by Committee on Academic Freedom and Professional Rights and Responsibilities, 1995.

The job interview is an event that has caused sufficient anxiety for both interviewer and interviewee to prompt a number of publications dealing with the topic. In recent years, concern about discrimination in the hiring process has led to a heightened awareness of the possibility of discriminatory intent in the questions asked by interviewers. In order to facilitate the conduct of interviews arranged through the MLA Job Information Service, guidelines have been developed for both interviewers and job candidates.

The Interviewer

Do

Schedule interviews at reasonable times and allow for adequate time
Leave time between interviews for notes
Read all the information your department has requested in advance
Ensure freedom from interruption
Introduce other department members present
Establish and maintain a pleasant atmosphere
Be polite and courteous
Try to put candidate at ease
Be aware of your own biases
Ask specific questions
Elicit all relevant information
Maintain eye contact
Ask appropriate questions; explore areas such as education, experience, special interests or skills, familiarity with textbooks, teaching methods, professional organizations, future expectations
Discuss candidate's attitude toward teaching and research in language and literature
Elicit candidate's interest in specific job
Provide candidate with clear picture of job
Explain operation of school and department
Describe working conditions (course load, other duties, salary, fringes, etc.)
Allow time for candidate's questions
Listen attentively
Ask follow-up questions for clarification or further detail
Inform candidate of probable time of decision
Ask candidate's permission to take notes
Be on time
Follow the Americans with Disabilities Act guidelines in meeting requests for accommodations

Don't

Interview more than one candidate at a time
Conduct major portion of interview during a meal
Ask questions about age, marital status, children, religion, medical or disability status, sexual orientation, or national origin
Display boredom
Doodle
Produce stress intentionally
Argue with candidate
Appear hostile to candidate
Be patronizing
Ask for information already in dossier
Ask leading questions
Ask yes-no questions if they can be avoided
Get off on tangents
Do all the talking
Describe job in negative terms
Oversell position
Downgrade other institutions or candidates
Tape-record or videotape
Require candidates to come to campus at their own expense
Make job offer until all interviews are concluded
Assume that the candidate's home institution makes him/her unsuitable for you

The Candidate

Do

Review job specifications
Inform yourself thoroughly about department and institution
Prepare questions you want to ask (about, for example, teaching load, class size, number of majors, range of courses you will teach, library resources, etc.)
Analyze your own strengths and weaknesses
Request of your department some practice interviewing
Familiarize yourself with widely used texts
If possible, allow yourself an hour between interviews
Be prepared to discuss approaches to languages and literature teaching
Think about courses you would like to teach
Be aware of nervousness
Come on time and follow all the usual protocols of politeness
Be polite and courteous
Watch body language (your own and interviewer's)
Project interest and enthusiasm, speak up clearly, listen attentively, and avoid using terms such as "you know," "like," etc.
Keep eye contact with interviewer
Be prepared for aggressive questions
Answer openly, directly, and honestly
Be specific both in answers and in your own questions
Inform institution if you receive and/or accept an offer elsewhere
Try to demonstrate your language ability
Bring out your strong points
Talk about special features in your background, skills, experience, interests, and goals
Summarize your qualifications for the job
Find out when decisions will be made
Write follow-up thank-you letter
Be aware that it is your right to request specific accommodations to make the interview accessible

Don't

Be laconic or loquacious
Be either apologetic or arrogant
Appear opinionated or contentious
Argue with interviewer
Let yourself be intimidated
Volunteer negative information
Downgrade other candidates, jobs, or institutions
Get off the track or ramble
Overstay your welcome
Ask about salary in a convention interview

LIST OF ADMINISTRATIONS CENSURED

BY THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

Note: The following list and accompanying explanatory note are reprinted from Academe by permission of the American Association of University Professors and in accordance with the action of the MLA Delegate Assembly.

Investigations by the American Association of University Professors of the administrations of the institutions listed below show that, as evidenced by a past violation, they are not observing the generally recognized principles of academic freedom and tenure endorsed by this Association, the Association of American Colleges and Universities, and more than 150 other professional and educational organizations. The 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure may be found in the May-June 1990 issue of Academe.

This list is published for the purpose of informing Association members, the profession at large, and the public that unsatisfactory conditions of academic freedom and tenure have been found to prevail at these institutions. Names are placed on or removed from this censure list by vote of the Association's Annual Meeting.

Placing the name of an institution on this list does not mean that censure is visited either upon the whole of the institution or upon the faculty, but specifically upon its present administration. The term "administration" includes the administrative officers and the governing board of the institution. This censure does not affect the eligibility of nonmembers for membership in the Association, nor does it affect the individual rights of members at the institution in question.

Members of the Association have often considered it to be their duty, in order to indicate their support of the principles violated, to refrain from accepting appointment to an institution so long as it remains on the censure list. Since circumstances differ widely from case to case, the Association does not assert that such an unqualified obligation exists for its members; it does urge that, before accepting appointments, they seek information on present conditions of academic freedom and tenure from the Association's Washington office and prospective departmental colleagues. The Association leaves it to the discretion of the individual, possessed of the facts, to make the proper decision.

The censured administrations, with dates of censuring, are listed below. Reports were published as indicated by the Bulletin or Academe citations in parentheses following each listing. Reference should also be made to "Developments Relating to Censure by the Association" and to the "Report of Committee A," each of which appears annually in Academe.

MLA STATEMENT ON THE USE OF PART-TIME AND FULL-TIME ADJUNCT FACULTY

The following statement on the use of part-time and full-time adjunct faculty members was developed by an ad hoc committee of the Association of Departments of English and adopted by the MLA Executive Council in February 1994.

The expansion of the adjunct ranks in language and literature departments over the past two decades threatens the integrity of the profession and instructional programs. The practice of hiring numerous adjunct faculty members year after year to teach courses required of large numbers of undergraduates undermines professional and educational standards and academic freedom. Although adjunct appointments can add significant dimensions to curricula and some individuals prefer to accept only adjunct appointments because of other commitments, few adjunct appointments are made for educationally sound reasons. Indeed, the primary motivation for most of these appointments is to reduce the cost of instruction.

Adjunct faculty members fall into two groups: part-time instructors and non-tenure-track full-time instructors. The first group includes both instructors who are clearly temporary members of a department and instructors who teach from year to year and become virtually permanent. Members of the second group have full teaching loads but, as non-tenure-track faculty members, lack the institutional commitment given to their tenure-track colleagues. Graduate students are distinct from both groups.

The conditions under which most adjunct teachers are employed define them as nonprofessionals. Often they are hired quickly, as last-minute replacements. They receive little recognition or respect for their contributions to their departments; almost always they are paid inequitably and receive no fringe benefits.

Excessive reliance on an adjunct faculty can damage individual faculty members, students, institutions, and the profession. For the sake of an institution's economic welfare, adjunct faculty members are often denied the security that adequate salary, health insurance, and professional status can provide. The institution, in turn, suffers through the creation of a two-tiered system in which faculty members have different responsibilities and expectations.

In the light of these concerns, the MLA urges college and university administrators to make new and concerted efforts to eliminate excessive and irresponsible adjunct faculty appointments, to improve employment conditions for essential adjunct faculty members, and to recognize the professional status and important contributions of such teachers.

The MLA offers the following guidelines for the employment of faculty members.

Guidelines

1. Each department should establish an appropriate limit on the number of adjunct faculty members in relation to the number of tenured or tenure-track faculty members and of graduate students serving as apprentice teachers. The norm in a department should be the tenured or tenure-track position. As tenured faculty members retire, they should be replaced by tenure-track faculty members. Departments that routinely assign a large part of undergraduate instruction to adjunct faculty members should reconsider their staffing practices.

2. All adjunct faculty members should be treated as professionals. Each department should develop a set of guidelines for adjunct faculty employment. These guidelines may vary from institution to institution but should address the following concerns:

- a. Adjunct faculty members should be hired, reviewed, and given teaching assignments according to processes comparable to those established for the tenured or tenure-track faculty members.
- b. They should be given mailboxes, office space, and clerical support.
- c. They should receive adequate introduction to their teaching assignments, departments, and institutions.
- d. They should be paid equitable prorated salaries and should receive basic benefits such as health insurance.
- e. They should be eligible for incentives that foster professional development, including merit raises and funds for research and travel.
- f. As appropriate, they should participate in determining departmental and institutional policies.

Assistant Professor, French — Francophone Studies

<http://www.stlawu.edu>

St. Lawrence University seeks a versatile teacher-scholar for a tenure-track position in French. The primary area of specialization should be the literature and culture of Quebec, but a good background in other parts of the Francophone world (Africa, the Maghreb, the Caribbean) is expected as well. Duties of the position will include offering advanced courses in Francophone Studies, teaching all levels of French language courses, promoting the study of French on campus, and, in rotation with other members of the French section, directing the University's Program in France, and teaching in the First-Year Program at some time during the pre-tenure period. The FYP is a team-taught, interdisciplinary program that, as part of the general education curriculum for all first-year students at St. Lawrence, seeks to develop skills in critical thinking, writing and research.

The successful candidate will have a PhD in French or Comparative Literature, teaching experience through the full range of the French language, and familiarity with contemporary theoretical discourses, especially post-colonial studies. Interested candidates should send a letter of application with curriculum vitae and references to Roy Caldwell, Chair, French Search Committee, Department of Modern Languages and Literatures, St. Lawrence University, Canton NY 13617. The committee will begin to review applications November 15, and expects to interview the most qualified applicants at the MLA Convention in Chicago.

St. Lawrence University is an independent, private, non-denominational university firmly committed to undergraduate liberal arts education and cross-cultural opportunities. Located halfway between the high peaks of the Adirondack Mountains and the national capital of Canada in Ottawa, the University provides unparalleled access to outdoor recreation and international social and cultural opportunities. The University offers a unique learning environment with 160 faculty providing 31 majors, 30 minors, and numerous interdepartmental programs, including a nationally recognized First Year Program. The Department of German and Russian at Davidson College, a highly-selective, small liberal arts college near Charlotte, North Carolina, is seeking to make a tenure-track appointment for an Assistant Professor of Russian for the academic year 2000-01 (PhD in hand or expected by 31 July 1999). We are looking for someone who can, as the single Russianist in the department, develop a strong undergraduate program in Russian, in a department which emphasizes the complex relationship among language, literature, and culture. We are looking for a colleague who is a demonstrated gifted language teacher and who will be able to offer other courses which complement the College's liberal arts curriculum. We are especially interested in someone who might successfully counter the national trends of declining enrollments in Russian and also develop opportunities for our students to study abroad. Applications, which should consist only of a letter of inquiry and a complete CV, should be sent to Scott Denham, Chair, Department of German and Russian, Davidson College, Davidson, NC 28036-1917. They must be postmarked no later than 6 November 1999. Davidson College is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes applicants who would add to the diversity of its faculty. Latin American Studies Program Director

The Latin American Studies Program at the University of Illinois at Chicago invites applications and nominations for a Director, who will be jointly appointed in a social science or humanities department in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The starting date is negotiable, but in any case will be no later than August 21, 2000. The Program has a dual focus on Latin America and Latinos in the U.S. A candidate should be eligible for appointment as a full professor and have a strong record in research and teaching, demonstrated leadership and organizational skills, the ability and desire to work in a multi-cultural, multi-racial environment, and a commitment to interdisciplinary program building in research and teaching. Founded in 1973, the Latin American Studies Program offers an undergraduate major and minor and has recently introduced a graduate concentration in Latino/Latin American Studies. In addition, the Program has a full-time director and nine faculty members, some of whom hold joint appointments in other units. Further appointments are anticipated. Located in the heart of Chicago, a city with a burgeoning Latino population drawn from diverse national origins, UIC is a Research I university serving 16,000 undergraduates and 8,000 graduate and professional students. Latinos make up approximately 15 percent of undergraduate students and a small but growing percentage of graduate students. Chicago offers exciting opportunities for research on Latinos and on Latin America from its Latino communities, rich in history, culture, and artistic life, to its museums, libraries, archival collections, and numerous universities. Review of applications began on April 1, 1999 and is continuing. <http://www.lcc.gatech.edu>

Georgia Tech's School of Literature, Communication, and Culture (LCC) is engaged in rethinking the role of humanities education within the context of an increasingly global and technological culture. LCC offers a master's degree in Information Design and Technology, a bachelor's degree in Science, Technology, and Culture, and a minor in Performance Studies, and it also co-sponsors a minor in Women, Science, and Technology. In addition, LCC provides humanities and communication courses for all Georgia Tech undergraduates. LCC's Center for New Media Education and Research supports theoretical and applied research in new media and offers continuing education in multimedia and web design. More information about LCC and its programs is available at [<http://www.lcc.gatech.edu>]. In keeping with our current programs and with the possible development of a Ph.D. program, we seek to fill two (2) tenure-track positions at the rank of Assistant Professor. Applicants should share LCC's cultural studies approach to science, technology, and new media by working at the intersection of two or more of the following: post-colonialism; non-western science and technology; race and gender studies; eighteenth-century studies; science fiction; performance studies; communication and media studies. Applicants with experience in electronic pedagogy and/or new media production are particularly welcome. Women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply. Send letter and CV to Professor Michele Shauf, School of Literature, Communication, and Culture, Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, GA 30332 0165. <http://www.public.iastate.edu/~womenstu/wsprogram.html>

The Women's Studies Program at Iowa State University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor. The appointment will be made jointly with one of four departments, including Foreign Languages. We seek a candidate with experience in teaching core women's studies courses, including Introduction to Women's Studies and Feminist Theories, and whose research and teaching in Women's Studies are grounded in feminist scholarship that focuses on issues of diversity among women, specifically the intersection of race/ethnicity, nationality, class and sexuality. Areas of specialization sought in Foreign Languages are Chinese, French, German, Russian or Spanish. Any research area that is compatible with the candidate's language/literature expertise and Women's Studies is desired; especially desirable is a research program in areas such as immigrant and/or exile studies, colonialism and/or postcolonialism, Francophone or Latin American literatures and cultures. Women's Studies at Iowa State is a collaborative, interdisciplinary program with a major and a minor, and 40 affiliate faculty. It has a strong commitment to interdisciplinary teaching and research, and promotes feminist scholarship on national and international levels, while fostering undergraduate and graduate students' engagement in active learning and critical thinking. Qualifications are a Ph.D. in appropriate field at time of appointment, outstanding teaching and a strong record or promise of scholarly productivity. Review of applications will begin 10/30/99 and will continue until position is filled. Send cover letter, C.V., graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching philosophy/research interests, a sample of scholarly work, and names, phone numbers and e-mail addresses of three references to: Jill Bystydzinski, Director of Women's Studies, 349 Carrie Chapman Catt Hall, Iowa State University, Ames, IA, 50011. Kenyon College Dissertation Fellow

Kenyon College Dissertation/Teaching Fellowship for Minority Scholars One of the challenges confronting small liberal arts colleges in the United States at the closing of the twentieth century is how to increase the relatively small number of minority faculty teaching at such institutions. Creating a diverse and representative group of teachers benefits students, faculty, and administrators alike, by enriching the nature of the education experience for all. We recognize, though, that young scholars who are members of underrepresented groups frequently choose to pursue their careers as teachers and scholars at research universities rather than at small liberal arts colleges. In order to encourage such scholars to consider college rather than university teaching, Kenyon College offers the Kenyon College Dissertation/Teaching Fellowship for Minority Scholars. The program aims at minority scholars in the final stages of their doctoral work who need only to finish the dissertation to complete requirements for the Ph.D. We hope the experience of living and working for a year at Kenyon will encourage these fellows to consider this or some other liberal arts college as a place to begin their careers as teachers and scholars. Kenyon will provide a stipend of $30,000, plus health benefits, housing, and a small moving allowance. The College will also provide an allowance to cover travel to conferences or for consultation with the dissertation director. Kenyon will assist the Fellow in finding college housing. The Fellow will be provided an office, a networked computer, and secretarial support services. Faculty colleagues at Kenyon recognize and embrace the opportunity to welcome and mentor new faculty members. The Kenyon Fellow is expected to write the dissertation and to teach one course each semester, usually in the Fellow's general research areas. Fellows are also expected to offer a College lecture or Departmental seminar on the dissertation topic each term. Kenyon College assumes that the Fellow will participate in the intellectual life of his/her home department, as well as in the broader cultural life of the College. Our primary expectation, however, and the main focus of this fellowship is the completion of the dissertation. Eligibility to apply for the Kenyon College Dissertation Fellowship for Minority Scholars is limited to: Citizens or nationals of the United States at the time of application. Members of the following minority groups: Alaskan Natives (Eskimo or Aleut), Native American Indians, Black/African Americans, Mexican Americans/Chicano, Native Pacific Islanders (Polynesian or Micronesian), Puerto Ricans. Individuals who are enrolled in a research-based PhD program in one of the following fields: African/African, American Studies, Anthropology, Art History, Asian Studies, Biology, Economics, English, History, Humanities, International Studies, Modern Languages and Literature, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Religion, Sociology, and Women's and Gender Studies. Individuals who aspire to a teaching and research career. Persons who have not yet earned a doctoral degree at any time and in any field. Please send a letter of application, vita, and three letters of references (including the dissertation advisor) to the Office of the Associate Provost, Kenyon College, Gambier, OH 43022. The Search Committee will begin consideration of the dossiers on December 1, 1999. Kenyon College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and in particular, encourages the applications of women and minority candidates.

Visiting Resident Fellow

<http://www.sunysb.edu/humanities>

Applications are invited for two (2) Visiting Humanities Institute Fellowships in the 2000-2001 academic year, one for each semester. Founded in 1987, the HISB has three main missions: to stimulate new modes of interdisciplinary research within the humanities and social sciences; to build bridges between the human sciences and the medical, technical and natural sciences; and to reach out to the local community through public lectures and film series. HISB sponsors Resident Fellows and Two-day Distinguished Visiting Lecturers, organizes symposia and conferences, and works with community groups on programs of broader interest. Scholars with interdisciplinary research projects in theoretical, historical or philosophical aspects in humanities disciplines are invited to apply. During 2000-2001, HISB will be focusing on issues surrounding Culture and Globalization, and Utopia and Technology. Individuals engaged in interdisciplinary research in these areas are particularly encouraged to apply. HISB feels the Fellowship will appeal to sabbaticants interested in working in a stimulating intellectual environment. Each Fellowship carries a stipend of $15,000.00. Some travel and housing expenses may be covered. HISB will provide office space, university affiliation, library privileges and other office resources. Fellows are expected to work in residence at the HISB for the duration of the award, reside in the Stony Brook area, teach a graduate course in his/her area of expertise, deliver a public presentation and an one-day advanced seminar. Applicants must hold a doctorate or the equivalent in experience, research and publications. International applications are encouraged. Visa documents, if required, are the responsibility of the applicant. There is no application form. <http://artsci.wustl.edu/~afas>

Post-Doctoral Fellowship for African-American Scholars. Every year Washington University seeks two African American scholars to be in residence here for one year (with possibility of a one year renewal) as post-doctoral fellows. The scholars will be provided with office space and computer equipment to do their work. They will be given a reduced teaching load (one-course per semester instead of the normal full-time load of two). Fellows are asked to teach courses related to their scholarly specialty. They are expected to contribute to the intellectual life of the university by giving two public lectures during their stay as well as interact with faculty and students. Symposia on topics of special interest to the fellow can be arranged. Intellectual and cultural interaction with the larger St. Louis community is encouraged. We seek African-Americans who specialize in either the African or African American aspect of their field and who are no more than three years beyond the completion of the Ph.D. The applicant must have successfully completed a thesis defense by July 1, 2000. The fellowship stipend is $34,000 with a $2,000 travel fund to be used by Fellows to attend academic conferences. Applications should include a letter of interest, three letters of reference, and a vita to Search Committee, African & Afro-American Studies, Washington University, CB 1109, 1 Brookings Drive, St. Louis, MO 63130-4899. The search committee will continue to review applications until the position is filled, but priority will be given to applications received by January 15, 2000.

The School of Literature, Communication, and Culture (LCC) in the Ivan Allen College—the college of humanities and social sciences at the Georgia Institute of Technology—is engaged in rethinking the role of humanities education in an increasingly technological, multicultural environment. LCC offers a master's degree in Information Design and Technology; a bachelor's degree in Science, Technology, and Culture; a minor in Performance Studies, and also co sponsors an interdisciplinary minor in Women, Science, and Technology. In addition, the School provides humanities and communication courses for all undergraduates. LCC's Center for New Media Education and Research supports theoretical and applied research in new media and offers continuing and executive education through its certificate programs in multimedia development and web design. In keeping both with our current programs and with the projected development of a Ph.D. program, we seek a full or advanced associate Professor with a national reputation and administrative experience, preferably in interdisciplinary programs, who shares LCC's enthusiastic commitment to interdisciplinary work at the theoretical and applied levels, as well as to the incorporation of digital technology into humanities education. The Chair, who reports directly to the Dean of the College, bears responsibility for budgetary management, personnel decisions, and development. In addition, he or she oversees curricular processes and represents LCC both within Georgia Tech and in the wider academic community. Women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply. We will begin screening applications on December 1 and continue until the position is filled. Please visit our website [<http://www.lcc.gatech.edu>] to learn more about LCC and its programs. Rom & Classical Langs, Old Horticulture Bldg East Lansing MI 48824

Chair position

<http://www.romclang.msu.edu>

Michigan State University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Department of Romance and Classical Languages. The Chair position is a twelve-month, tenured, administrative appointment beginning July 1, 2000. The Department seeks a leader who will work with the faculty and the dean of the college to maintain and advance quality undergraduate and graduate programs, design and carry out plans for curriculum development and long-range staffing, foster interdisciplinary relationships with other units, and expand participation in Study Abroad. The Department: The Department of Romance and Classical Languages, one of ten department or schools in the College of Arts and Letters, offers MA and PhD degrees in French and Spanish, undergraduate majors in French, Latin and Spanish, a concentration in Greek in the Ancient Studies Program, and courses in Italian and Portuguese. There are currently 30 full-time faculty, 45 graduate assistants and 240 undergraduate majors or double majors. The Department offers programs in France, Italy and Spain, and collaborates in a growing number of multidisciplinary and outreach programs in other countries, including Mexico and Canada. Departmental faculty also participate in university interdisciplinary programs, as well as in outreach and service activities which fulfill MSU's land-grant mission.

Qualifications: (1) a doctorate in one or more of the Romance and Classical Languages, with a specialization in Classics, Comparative Literature, Cultural Studies, Linguistics or Literature; (2) credentials warranting appointment as professor in the Department, to include evidence of excellent teaching and sustained scholarly activity in the context of a personal research program; (3) administrative experience appropriate to preparation for leadership of a large, complex department; and (4) demonstrated communication and interpersonal skills. In this regard, knowledge of more than one of the languages taught in the Department is highly desirable.

Job Description: The Chair will represent the Department in its official business at the college and university levels, and implement university policies that affect it. Primary responsibilities will include maintenance and enhancement of the quality of departmental instruction, research and service; personnel recommendations; salary adjustments; supervision of staff; planning and management of the departmental budget; and development activity with alumni, donors and external funding agencies. The Chair will actively promote the professional development of all members of the faculty and of the graduate students, and will oversee the implementation of departmental initiatives endorsed by the faculty. Within the limitations imposed by these duties, the Chair is also expected to maintain his or her research agenda and contribute to the teaching mission of the unit.

Application/Nomination Procedures: A complete application will consist of a cover letter that outlines the qualifications and experience pertinent to the job description, a curriculum vitae, and the names and telephone numbers of three references, who will be contacted at a later stage in the application process. Send all materials to Prof. Patricia Lunn, Chair, Search Committee, Department of Romance and Classical Languages, Michigan State University, East Lansing, MI
