INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

Information on vacancies for the December issue was provided by departments of foreign language, comparative literature, and linguistics in US and Canadian colleges and universities, as well as some number of overseas institutions and nonacademic enterprises.

Guide for Using the Job Information List

US and Canadian Departments

The main body of the List, arranged in alphabetical order by state, contains information on definite or possible vacancies, comments on notices published in past issues (e.g., that a previously announced position has been filled), and notices from departments that expect no vacancies but would nevertheless like to keep résumés on file.

Read through this section item by item to see which departments would welcome your letter of application or inquiry at this time. Send letters only to departments expressing an interest in a person with your qualifications. If a notice states that no vacancies are expected but that the department would like to maintain a file of prospective candidates, you must decide in each case whether it is worthwhile to write.

Multiple Competencies

Notices in which the language field is open, as well as notices of single positions calling for expertise in more than one language (e.g., associated professor of Spanish or German).

Comparative Literature and Linguistics and ESL Sections

Notices in these fields have been separated out from the main body of the issue and placed under the appropriate heading, with occasional cross-referencing to items in the main body of the List that might also be of interest. Candidates should read through the main body carefully, however, since the cross-referencing is not exhaustive.

General Advice for Candidates

Be sure that your dossier (transcript, letters of recommendation, and other material) is ready to be sent out by your placement bureau to any department that requests it. Prepare and duplicate a one-page vita sheet to enclose with any letters of application or inquiry. In your letter of application, it is probably wise to express a willingness to be interviewed at the department's convenience. Professional meetings provide a convenient opportunity for such interviews (see MLA convention information on pp. iii–iv).

While it is important to begin to search for a position immediately, you should be aware that hiring goes on all year. Surveys indicate that only about half of all English and foreign language departments have begun recruiting by the end of December and that the majority of departments do not complete the recruiting process until spring, in some cases until summer.

Bear in mind that the candidate who has not limited his or her search for a new position to a particular geographical area or kind of institution is most likely to find a position. Do not discount the small colleges where one often has the opportunity to teach a wide selection of courses to students of varied backgrounds.

Notice on Tenure Policies

The Modern Language Association recommends that department administrators and their representatives inform candidates before or during the interview about prospects for tenure in the specific position under consideration and about the tenure policies and practices in their departments and institutions. If the information is not offered, candidates are urged to inquire about these policies.

Acknowledgment of Applications

Acting on a recommendation from the MLA Delegate Assembly, the MLA Executive Council has adopted a policy calling for departments to acknowledge all applications for announced positions.

MLA Policy on the Reimbursement of Job Seekers

The following policies were recommended by the Delegate Assembly in December 1999 and approved by the MLA Executive Council in February 2000.

It is MLA policy that

- departments that require that job applicants send their application materials by express carrier reimburse those applicants for the cost of such shipment; and
- departments that require multiple copies of writing samples and other application materials from job applicants reimburse applicants for the cost of duplicating their writing samples and other materials; and
- departments that require books will return them to the applicant; and
- departments that invite job applicants for on-campus interviews reimburse those applicants who accept such invitations for the costs of travel and accommodations incurred when visiting the campus for interviews.

MLA ANNUAL CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Modern Language Association will be held in Boston, 3–6 January 2013. The Job Information Center will be located in the American Ballroom, 4th floor, Westin Copley Place, for both English and foreign languages. Job candidates, departmental administrators, and representatives who wish to use the facilities of the Job Information Center must be registered for the convention. The following services will be provided:

1. MLA Convention Location Information. Information about interview locations at the annual convention can now be submitted online in advance of and during the convention, so interviewers no longer have to come to the Job Information Center in person unless they are interviewing there. The information is used by MLA staff members at the Job Information Center to help individual job seekers who have scheduled interviews find the location of their interviews; it is not made available online, and job seekers are not permitted to browse interview location information in any form. Interviewers can log in with their department ID and two-letter JIL submission password at www.mla.org/jil_dept and provide any of the following information to help scheduled interviewees locate the interview and, if necessary, contact the interview team: location of interviews (either the interview area at the Job Information Center or a hotel, including room number), name of interviewer(s), and cell phone number of interviewer(s). Interviewers who do not submit their information online must come to the Job Information Center to provide the information. Interviewers using the interview area at the Job Information Center must come to the interview area in person to have a table assigned. The sign-in desk will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. on 3 January, from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on 4 and 5 January, and from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on 6 January.
2. Interview Area. For the convenience of departmental representatives and candidates, there will be an interview area for English and foreign languages within the Job Information Center. Interviewers who wish to use this area should schedule their own interviews either by letter before the convention or by leaving messages at the message center. Table assignments in the interview area, which will be open from 8:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. on 3 January, from 8:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. on 4 and 5 January, and from 8:00 a.m. until 12:00 noon on 6 January, will be given to departmental representatives on a first-come, first-served basis. MLA staff members will be on duty in the area to assist interviewers and candidates.
3. Counseling Service. The Job Information Center counseling service affords job seekers the opportunity to discuss individual employment problems with experienced department administrators. Although counselors cannot help candidates obtain interviews, they can and will offer objective, concrete advice on such matters as the appropriate content and presentation of vitae and letters of application, the kinds of institutions to which candidates might most profitably apply, and realistic approaches to job interviews. Counselors will be on hand at the center to speak with interested candidates starting at 8:45 a.m. on 4 and 5 January. Appointments can be arranged through the staff member on duty in the interview area of the job center.
4. Vacancy Notices. A list of job openings received too late to be included in the December Job Information List will be posted on bulletin boards in the Job Information Center. Departmental representatives who have last-minute vacancies should submit detailed descriptions of these to an MLA staff member in the center, who will see that they are posted on the boards. Such notices may also appear in the February Job Information List so that candidates who do not attend the convention will have an opportunity to apply.

Although every effort will be made to assist candidates and interviewers in the Job Information Center, it should be noted that the MLA does not have the facilities for introducing candidates and interviewers who have not corresponded before the convention.

There is very little open interviewing at the convention. Job candidates who do not have prearranged interviews should not plan to attend for the sole purpose of seeking employment.

LIST OF ADMINISTRATIONS CENSURED BY THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

*Note: The following list and accompanying explanatory note are reprinted from Academe by permission of the American Association of University Professors and in accordance with the action of the MLA Delegate Assembly.*

Investigations by the American Association of University Professors of the administrations of the institutions listed below show that, as evidenced by a past violation, they are not observing the generally recognized principles of academic freedom and tenure endorsed by this Association, the Association of American Colleges and Universities, and more than 150 other professional and educational organizations. The 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure may be found in the May-June 1990 issue of Academe.

This list is published for the purpose of informing Association members, the profession at large, and the public that unsatisfactory conditions of academic freedom and tenure have been found to prevail at these institutions. Names are placed on or removed from this censure list by vote of the Association's Annual Meeting.

Placing the name of an institution on this list does not mean that censure is visited either upon the whole of the institution or upon the faculty, but specifically upon its present administration. The term "administration" includes the administrative officers and the governing board of the institution. This censure does not affect the eligibility of nonmembers for membership in the Association, nor does it affect the individual rights of members at the institution in question.

Members of the Association have often considered it to be their duty, in order to indicate their support of the principles violated, to refrain from accepting appointment to an institution so long as it remains on the censure list. Since circumstances differ widely from case to case, the Association does not assert that such an unqualified obligation exists for its members; it does urge that, before accepting appointments, they seek information on present conditions of academic freedom and tenure from the Association's Washington office and prospective departmental colleagues. The Association leaves it to the discretion of the individual, possessed of the facts, to make the proper decision.

The censured administrations, with dates of censuring, are listed below. Reports were published as indicated by the Bulletin or Academe citations in parentheses following each listing. Reference should also be made to "Developments Relating to Censure by the Association" and to the "Report of Committee A," each of which appears annually in Academe.

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/16930>

Assistant Professor of American Sign Language and Interpreting Studies The Department of Classical and Modern Languages at the University of Louisville is seeking a dedicated professional to teach courses in Interpreting Studies and all levels of American Sign Language. This tenure-track position will begin fall 2013 at the assistant professor rank. Qualifications: native or near-native proficiency in American Sign Language, ASLTA certification, and a doctorate in American Sign Language, ASL Studies, ASL Linguistics, Interpreting, Deaf Education, or a closely related field. Applicants with a master's degree and ongoing graduate work toward a doctorate will also be considered. An ASL Interpreting certificate (e.g. CDI, NIC, or RID) is highly desirable. Applicants must have experience in working with the Deaf Community and be willing to work collaboratively with administrators, colleagues, and students as the department continues to develop its BS program in American Sign Language Interpreting Studies. Teaching excellence and scholarly promise are essential. The successful candidate may also be asked to assume an administrative role. Dossiers received by November 15, 2012 will be given full consideration, but review of applications will continue until position has been filled. Initial interviews will be conducted by phone in early December. Please apply online at and upload your CV at the University of Louisville Human Resources website www.louisville.edu/jobs. You will need to select Job #28403. In addition, please send a cover letter, a hard copy of your CV, evidence of teaching excellence, and an official graduate transcript to: Prof. Regina Roebuck, Chair, ASLIS Search, Department of Classical and Modern Languages, University of Louisville, Louisville, KY 40292. Please also have three letters of recommendation sent to Prof. Roebuck.

If you require assistance or accommodation with our online application process, you may schedule an appointment at (502) 852-6542 with Employment Services at the Human Resources office, located at 1980 Arthur Street, Louisville, KY 40208. The University of Louisville is a nationally recognized research university located in the largest Metropolitan area of Kentucky. If you are an individual with a disability and need reasonable accommodations to participate in the hiring process, please contact the Employment Office at (502) 852-6538. Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/17602>

Department of Modern and Classical Languages and Literatures (MCLL) at Christopher Newport University invites applications for full-time faculty position, tenure-track, in French at rank of Assistant Professor starting August 19, 2013. The Department is central to the University's curriculum and mission, and it prides itself on its collegiality and cross-disciplinary outreach. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and guiding undergraduate research. We are seeking teacher-scholars whose primary area of specialization is firmly grounded in the 19th century; the ability to work in both literature and other French media in the 19th century is highly desired. The faculty member's primary responsibilities will include offering elementary through advanced undergraduate courses in French as well as courses taught in English on literature and culture for the University's Liberal Learning Core Curriculum. All tenure-track faculty members are expected to maintain an active research agenda. Native or near-native fluency in French required. Earned Ph.D. in French or related field (in hand by August 19, 2013) preferred. ABDs will be considered for rank of Instructor. Nominal teaching load is 3-3.

Located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University will soon seek to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2012 freshman class of approximately 1,375 students was selected from over 7,000 applicants with a middle 50% SAT range: 1100-1240 (Critical Reading and Math). Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. CNU faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace.

The Department of German Studies invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in German, to begin in September 2013. Salary will be competitive and consistent with level of experience. The successful candidate will be expected to teach six courses per year at all levels of German language and culture while contributing to the vitality of a small but growing German program in the context of the liberal arts. Ph.D. in German (or evidence of imminent completion) required, as well as native or near-native abilities in both German and English. We are seeking well-rounded candidates with training in Second Language Acquisition and experience in content-based instruction and undergraduate curriculum development. Candidates possessing experience with innovative course and program design and who are able to apply current trends in SLA to the further development of our dynamic German program are highly desirable. The successful candidate will have the ability to teach a broad range of courses covering language, literature, visual media and the cultures of German-speaking countries. The person who holds this position will also be expected to advise students and supervise senior projects.

Candidates are expected to have strong interest in undergraduate teaching, a commitment to the liberal arts, and a desire to contribute to the College's interdisciplinary Shared Passages general education curriculum which consists of first year, sophomore and senior seminars.

Kalamazoo College is a highly selective nationally known liberal arts college offering an integrated undergraduate experience that weaves a traditional liberal arts curriculum into educational experiences in both domestic and international settings. The campus is located midway between Chicago and Detroit in Kalamazoo, Michigan, a metropolitan community of 225,000 which supports four college and university campuses along with numerous civic arts and cultural associations. Thirty-five miles from Lake Michigan, the area offers many opportunities for outdoor activities.

Completed applications received by November 1, 2012, will receive full consideration, with later applications reviewed as needed until the position is filled. Applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a detailed statement of teaching philosophy and goals, a detailed statement on scholarship, and undergraduate and graduate transcripts (unofficial is acceptable). Candidates should submit electronic applications in PDF format to <https://www.kzoo.edu/german/search>. Three letters of recommendation (in PDF form) should be sent to GermanSearch@kzoo.edu with a subject line `lastname_firstname`.

The Department of French, Francophone & Italian Studies at the College of Charleston invites applications for the position of department chair at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor to begin 1 July 2013.

Founded in 1770, the College of Charleston is the thirteenth-oldest institution of higher education in the United States. Located in the historic downtown district, the College of Charleston is a public liberal arts and sciences institution with approximately 10,000 undergraduate students. The Department of French, Francophone & Italian Studies teaches more than 2300 students annually, including 56 majors in French, 92 minors in French, 14 minors in Italian, and 27 minors in Italian Studies. Through its commitment to rigorous language education, participation in a broad range of interdisciplinary programs, and numerous study abroad and co-curricular activities, the Department supports the College's newest school, the School of Languages, Cultures and World Affairs.

We seek a dynamic leader with demonstrated excellence in administration, scholarship and teaching with a Ph.D. in French, Italian, or Comparative Literature (with a specialization in French and/or Italian). The successful candidate will possess outstanding communication and organizational skills and demonstrate a clear vision for curricular and faculty development. This candidate will also be a dedicated teacher-scholar with evidence of excellence in undergraduate instruction and a vibrant program of research.

Primary administrative duties include developing and advancing departmental and program goals and objectives, formulating curricular and staffing plans, representing the department to external and internal constituencies, conducting annual performance evaluations, and overseeing the department budget. As a faculty member, the candidate will be expected to work with students and to foster faculty research and professional development. The normal teaching load for a department chair is 3 courses per year.

To apply, send curriculum vitae and letter of application addressing relevant administrative experience, vision for the future of the department, its programs, and the School of Languages, Cultures and World Affairs, and a description of research agenda, as well as the names of three references whom we may contact, to Dr. Nancy Nenno, Chair of Search Committee, at NennoN@CofC.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2012, and continue until the position is filled. Additional information regarding the Department and the College may be found at <http://cofc.edu>. Spanish Language & Latin American Literature Faculty

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/17068>

This is a full time faculty position starting in the 2013/14 academic year. Review date and application process revised 9/27/12.

The Evergreen State College in Olympia, Washington seeks a faculty member broadly trained in contemporary Latin American literature, with specialization in Mexico and Central America. We seek candidates who are interested in team teaching with colleagues in thematically-based interdisciplinary studies programs, often with complementary emphasis on Spain and Latin America. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching at all levels.

Applicants should be able to teach literature in its historical and social contexts and must be prepared to teach Spanish language at all levels. Desirable secondary areas of expertise include one or more of the following: Chicano/a and Latino/a Studies, history, film studies, feminist and gender studies, and community-based learning.

Evergreen organizes its curriculum through interdisciplinary studies (rather than through departments and courses), so the ideal candidate would show the potential for working across disciplines with faculty colleagues. At Evergreen, faculty on teaching teams work closely with students and enjoy a high degree of freedom to determine the subject matter, pace, emphasis, classroom strategies and modes of evaluation. Qualified applicants will teach in their area of expertise, and collaborate across disciplines to connect theory with practice. In addition to teaching, faculty are expected to advise and mentor students and participate in Evergreen's system of shared governance. Through their participation in shared governance, faculty play a significant role in most aspects of how the college is run.

Review of complete applications begins January 9, 2013 and will continue until finalist are chosen.

Please review our website for the complete job announcement and application process. [R]

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/16903>

The University of Illinois at Chicago seeks an administrator/scholar who can provide energetic and visionary leadership to serve as Director of the School of Literatures, Cultural Studies and Linguistics. The School is housed in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and the director reports to the dean of the College. The School (<http://www.uic.edu/las/lcsl/>) serves as the administrative body over the following departments: Classics and Mediterranean Studies, French and Francophone Studies, Germanic Studies, Hispanic and Italian Studies, Linguistics/ TESOL, and Slavic and Baltic Languages and Literatures. This School also houses several undergraduate minor programs, including Moving Image Arts, International Studies, and Jewish Studies, as well as the Language and Culture Learning Center. The School is staffed by approximately 40 tenure-line faculty members, and a similar number of lecturers. It serves nearly 6,000 students annually through its Basic Language Program and has approximately 700 majors and minors as well as 130 graduate students. The Directorship is a nine-month, full-time position involving administration, teaching, and continuing scholarship. The director serves as the chief executive officer of the School and centrally oversees all personnel, curricular, financial, and administrative functions of the departments within it. Additionally, the director is charged with fostering interdisciplinary research and teaching among the units of the School in literary, cultural, and linguistics theories and practices, and instruction in those areas as well as in the many languages covered. UIC is a leading urban public research I university with 17,000 undergraduates, 8,000 graduate students, and 2,500 professional students, located in the heart of Chicago.

Minimum Qualifications:

To be eligible for the position an applicant must qualify for the rank of full professor in one of the School's departments at the time of the appointment and have substantial administrative experience. The successful candidate should possess an outstanding record of achievement in research and teaching, as well as demonstrable administrative skills.

Application Procedure:

To apply for this position, please complete and submit an online application, which will include the names and e-mail addresses of four references, letter of application outlining applicant's qualifications relevant for this position, and full curriculum vitae at <https://jobs.uic.edu/job-board/job-details?jobID=25040&job=director-professor-school-of-literatures-cultural-studies-linguistics>. Click on the Job Board and then on the job link. For fullest consideration applicants must apply no later than November 9, 2012.

Inquiries should be directed to Marya Schechtman, Associate Dean, (DirectorSearch@las.uic.edu).

The desired appointment date is August 16, 2013. Salary is competitive based on qualifications.

Applications from women and minorities are particularly encouraged.

Assistant Professor in Migration Studies

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/18278>

The Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures (DWLLC) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor working on cultural exchange and displacement within a comparative context of migration. Applicants in literary and cultural studies or linguistics will be considered to contribute to existing departmental needs and to a new curriculum focused on global cultural processes.

The DWLLC at Iowa groups departments with a focus on the literary, linguistic, and cultural studies in world languages. The person hired for this position will be appointed to one of the departments within the DWLLC and must have native or near-native fluency in English and one or more languages appropriate to the appointing department along with the ability and willingness to teach at all levels in that language or languages (including Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Hindi, Italian, Korean, Portuguese, Russian, or Spanish) . Ability and interest in interdisciplinary team-teaching are required, along with a Ph.D. defended by August 21, 2013 and evidence of a strong research agenda.

Desirable areas of research include migration in relationship to diasporic studies, translation, media and culture, language contact, ethnicity, or gender.

The DWLLC is initiating new curricula related to global cultural and linguistic exchange and flows. The person hired for this position will be asked to participate with new and established faculty in the design and delivery of such curricula, including the development of an introductory-level interdisciplinary course in English on world cultures.

Candidates should send letter of interest, including teaching interests and experiences as well as research plans, and a curriculum vitae to the Search Committee online at <http://jobs.uiowa.edu> and must submit three e-mail addresses of recommenders online to the same link. Refer to requisition number 61633. Review of applications will begin on December 3rd and continue until the position is filled. Interviews may be conducted by telephone or teleconference.

The Division of World Languages, Literatures and Cultures and the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences are strongly committed to gender and ethnic diversity; the strategic plans of the University, College, Division and Department reflect this commitment. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University is an Equal Opportunity Employer/Affirmative Action Employer. [R]

A.W. Mellon Postdoctoral Fellow in the Humanities

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/17598>

Carnegie Mellon University, with the generous support of the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, is pleased to accept applications for two A.W. Mellon Postdoctoral Fellowships in the Humanities for the 2013–14 and 2014–15 academic years. These fellowships are designed to foster the academic careers of scholars who have recently received their Ph.D. degrees by permitting them to pursue their research while gaining mentored experience as teachers and members of the academic department (English, History, Modern Languages, Philosophy) in which they will be housed.

The Department of Modern Languages seeks a candidate in one of the following areas: second language acquisition, cultural dimensions of language acquisition, sociolinguistics, literary and cultural studies, preferably with an interdisciplinary concern with language or linguistics. Candidates should have native or near-native proficiency in one or more of the languages offered in the Department (Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, Spanish).

Fellows will teach two courses in their home department(s) in each year of their residency. They will have the opportunity to teach in their existing areas of expertise to prepare themselves for a competitive academic job market. Fellows will be encouraged to take part in the many cross-departmental colloquia, conferences, or seminars through the university's Humanities Center, the Center for the Arts in Society, and the undergraduate Humanities Scholars Program.

A 2013–2015 Fellow will receive an annual stipend of $50,000 plus benefits, and an annual research allowance of $2,500, and three summer months salary for the two-year fellowship.

Application and selection process: Applicants for the 2013–2015 fellowships must have completed a Ph.D. no earlier than January 1, 2011. Candidates who do not yet hold a Ph.D. but expect to by June 30, 2013 should supply a letter from their home institution corroborating such a schedule.

Applications for the 2013–2015 fellowships must be received by November 1, 2012. Incomplete dossiers will not be reviewed. Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, personal statement (of no longer than 2000 words) outlining their complete research (including dissertation), work in progress, professional goals and plans for publication, proposed major field(s) of teaching, and the Carnegie Mellon department in which you would want to be based.

Fellowship applications will be reviewed by the relevant departments. Strong applicants will be contacted and asked to provide three letters of recommendation and a writing sample.

Should you have questions, please direct them to hssdean@andrew.cmu.edu

Applications must be submitted online at Carnegie Mellon University's careers page:

Postdoctoral Fellowship

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/16454>

Applicants for 2013–14 fellowships must have received the Ph.D. after May 2010. Applicants without the Ph.D. must demonstrate that they will receive the Ph.D. in or before August 2013. Applications must be completed by November 15, 2012.

Fellowships will be awarded to support projects that share the Center's commitment to interdisciplinarity and internationalism. The Center welcomes applications from all fields within the humanities and the allied social sciences. Despite the great diversity among humanities disciplines, they are joined in their commitment to the spirit of informed and independent interpretation—for individuals and groups—as a process crucial to making judgments about the relationship between facts and values. The Mahindra Humanities Center has taken on the role of exploring this important ethical and epistemological dimension of the humanities.

Fellows will be joined at the Center by postdoctoral fellows from Germany, who will be coming as part of a collaboration between the Mahindra Humanities Center and the Volkswagen Foundation. Fellows are expected to be in residence at Harvard for the term of the fellowship.

Fellows will receive stipends of $60,000, individual medical insurance, moving assistance of $1,500, and additional research support of $2,500.

Marilyn Yarbrough Dissertation/Teaching Fellowship

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/17635>

Kenyon College announces a competition for the Marilyn Yarbrough Dissertation/Teaching Fellowship. This fellowship is designed to increase the presence of members of underrepresented groups (e.g., ethnic minorities; women in fields that attract mostly men, or men in fields that attract mostly women; and persons who are first-generation college attendees) as faculty in the liberal arts environment. Those eligible to apply include individuals who are enrolled in a research-based Ph.D. program; who aspire to a teaching and research career; and who have not yet earned a doctoral degree at any time and in any field.

Kenyon College, located on an idyllic campus in the beautiful village of Gambier (50 miles NE of Columbus), enrolls approximately 1650 students and is ranked in the top tier of national liberal arts colleges. Kenyon prides itself on its reputation as an excellent teaching environment enriched by small classes, close contact with highly motivated and engaged students and an excellent faculty of dedicated teacher scholars.

For more specific information regarding this fellowship and for application instructions please visit: <http://www.kenyon.edu/x58530.xml>. To learn more about Kenyon, visit: www.kenyon.edu.

Review of applications will begin December 15, 2012 and continue until the position is filled.

Kenyon College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. It is the College's policy to evaluate qualified applicants without regard to age, ancestry, disability, national or ethnic origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, political belief or activity, or status as a veteran. Postdoctoral Fellowship in Book History and Digital Humanities

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/18204>

Salary: 35,000 CAD, plus research allowance

Term of Appointment: 1 August 2013–31 July 2014

The Interacting with Print Research Group at McGill University and the University of Montreal is seeking a postdoctoral fellow with interests in developing digital humanities methodologies for studying the print culture of eighteenth- and nineteenth-century Europe. Candidates may specialize in history, art history, literature or a related discipline, and should have their doctorate in hand by the start date. The ideal candidate has experience in both information design and computer programming; expertise in data visualization, text mining, and designing digital tools is especially desirable. A working knowledge of French is an asset.

Interacting with Print researches how print media interact with other media within a larger communicative ecology. One of our primary concerns is how digital interfaces will reorient an extant print-cultural heritage. The postdoctoral fellow will be an integral member of the team, developing his or her own research and working with team members to develop their projects.

Review of applications will begin on 19 November 2012 and continue until the position is filled.

Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/18195>

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2013–14. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to do research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center.

Candidates should have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. This is not a post-doctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

- The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);
- The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;
- The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates should submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition number #1200390.

All materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 5, 2012. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Decisions are expected to be announced by March 18, 2013. [R]

USC Provost's Postdoctoral Scholars in the Humanities

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/17639>

The Provost's Postdoctoral Scholars Program in the Humanities builds on other signature USC programs that champion the importance of the humanities for USC's academic community. These programs include Visions & Voices, faculty research grants for Advancing Scholarship in the Humanities and Social Sciences, and expanded support for outstanding humanities Ph.D. students through Provost's Ph.D. Fellowships.

These appointments are for two years, and begin in August of the academic year to which candidates are appointed. Provost's scholars will teach three courses over four semesters, with one semester free for full-time research. They are expected to reside in the Los Angeles area during the academic year and to participate in the scholarly life of the host department and the university through seminars and other scholarly activities. The salary for Provost's Postdoctoral Scholars is $50,000 per year plus fringe benefits, with a research and travel account of $6,000 per year.

Apply to this position at <https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/16525>

The University of Wisconsin–Madison Mellon Postdoctoral Program invites recent PhDs to apply for its three two-year postdoctoral fellowships. The theme for 2013–15 applicants is “Democracy.”

We invite scholars to reflect upon democracy as a focus of historical, philosophical, literary, cultural, or aesthetic analysis. We seek projects that consider democracy from within the humanities and that understand democracy as concept, practice, or mode with bearing on politics, law, and society, as well as literature, language, and the arts. Democracy—whether conceived as the legitimation of power or its exercise, as “the reign of the limitless desire of individuals in modern mass society” or the opening of politics and society to a plurality of voices—is at once contested and coveted. Democracy is implicated in nationalism and cosmopolitanism, war and peace, justice and reconciliation, and freedom and enslavement, that is, who is included in or left out of the social contract and civic life.

Complete information about the fellowship, the competition theme, qualifications, and application requirements is available at our website. All application materials, including reference letters, must be submitted by November 20, 2012 to receive full consideration.
