

Contents

Introduction	1
Bonnie Nelson and Catherine Burroughs

Part I: Historical Contexts

Working in the Theater: Women Playwrights, 1660–1750	15
Jane Milling
Regendering the Restoration Stage: Women and Theater, 1660–1720	29
George E. Haggerty
Women Spectators, Playwrights, and Performers and the Restoration Stage	44
Jacqueline Pearson
Women and Playwriting, 1750–1800	58
Catherine Burroughs

Part II: Individual Playwrights

Aphra Behn in the Contemporary Theater	71
Nancy Copeland
Mary Pix, the London Middle Class, and Progressive Whig Ideology	81
Elizabeth Kubek
Embodying Centlivre's Comic Vision: A Bold Stroke and The Wonder in the Classroom	93
Misty G. Anderson
Performance and Philosophy in the Work of Catharine Trotter Cockburn	110
Roxanne Kent-Drury
The Other Elizabeth Griffith	120
Betty Rizzo

Frances Sheridan: A Case Study for Mid-Eighteenth-Century Comedy Cami D. Agan	136
Hannah More's Reformation of Romantic Theater Patricia Demers	147
Hannah Cowley, Gender Identity, and A Bold Stroke for a Husband Betsy Bolton	161
To Write with Authority: Elizabeth Inchbald's Prefaces to The British Theatre Nora Nachumi	174
Joanna Baillie and the Theme of Trial Victoria Myers	187

Part III: The Playwright-Novelist

Frances Brooke's The Excursion and Eighteenth-Century Women's Theater Michelle Ruggaber Dougherty	203
"The Stage Not Answering My Expectations": The Case of Eliza Haywood Catherine Ingrassia	213
Teaching Evelina as a Dramatic Text Francesca Saggini	223
Class, Gender, and Inheritance in Burney's A Busy Day and The Woman-Hater Gillian Skinner	237
Elizabeth Inchbald's Revolutionary Writings Anna Lott	247

Part IV: Comparative Approaches

Gender, Race, and Party Politics in the Tragedies of Behn, Pix, and Manley Pilar Cuder-Domínguez	263
---	-----

Disguise, Fantasy, and Misrecognition in The Belle's Stratagem and Fantomina Tassie Gwilliam	275
Comparing Early and Late Plays Kathleen Leicht	285
She Stoops to Stratagem: A Comparative Approach to Eighteenth-Century Comedy Emily Hodgson Anderson	293
 Part V: Classroom Strategies <hr/>
Using Production to Teach Women Playwrights Marie E. McAllister	305
Cultural Studies in the Classroom: Behn's The Rover Laura J. Rosenthal	315
Performance Theory: Attending to the Monkey Wrench in Centlivre's The Busie Body Ellen MacKay	325
Pre- and Postrealist Dramaturgy: Women Writers, Silence, Speech, and Trauma Thomas C. Crochunis	336
Contexts for Teaching Margaret Cavendish's Bell in Campo Vimala C. Pasupathi	348
To Whom Does the New World Belong? Teaching Behn's The Widow Ranter Cynthia Richards	356
Teaching Behn's The Rover Anita Pacheco	364
Centlivre and the Stage Sodomite Melinda C. Finberg	373
On Using Thelma and Louise to Teach Centlivre's The Wonder Jones DeRitter	382
Teaching Burney's The Witlings Marjean D. Purinton	390

Scarcity and Surplus: Teaching Inchbald's Every One Has His Fault Daniel O'Quinn	398
Imagining a Course: Teaching Women Dramatists Jean I. Marsden	409
Notes on Contributors	419
Works Cited	425
Index	459