AHA and MLA

The American Historical Association is holding its annual meeting in Chicago from 3 to 6 January. To promote greater collaboration and communication among humanities scholars, the MLA and the AHA have agreed to recognize and honor each other’s conference badges. Use the AHA filter in the online Program and app for sessions being held at both conventions.

About Convention Locations

Convention sessions and the registration and welcome centers are in the Hyatt Regency Chicago (Hyatt Regency) and the Sheraton Grand Chicago (Sheraton Grand). The exhibit hall is in the Hyatt Regency, and the MLA Career Center is in the Fairmont Chicago.

Delegate Assembly Agenda

At this year’s meeting, the Delegate Assembly will consider regular staff and committee reports on association activities, the scheduled annual increase of 2.5% in the dues amount for every membership category, a recommendation for a change in the fee structure for paid life membership, the final report from the Ad Hoc Committee on Advocacy Policies and Procedures, and proposed constitutional amendments. Also on the assembly’s agenda is an hour-long open discussion of power differentials in graduate education. Information on these agenda items can be accessed at the MLA Web site (www.mla.org/DA-Agenda-2019).

The assembly meeting will begin at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, 5 January, in Grand Ballroom EF in the Hyatt Regency (Ballroom level, East Tower). Members may address the assembly on any of the issues on the assembly’s agenda. Because the assembly meeting is open-ended, latecomers will have a chance to join in important discussions of association policies.

The open hearing and the assembly meeting are open only to MLA members and accredited journalists. Please remember to wear your badge.

2020 Presidential Theme
Simon Gikandi, the 2019–20 president of the MLA, has chosen Being Human as the presidential theme for the 2020 MLA Annual Convention in Seattle.

The theme invites members to reflect on the role of literature and language in defining the nature of the human in the face of what appears to be its diminishment and to provoke debates on the role of the humanities in a changing world. What has been the role of the creative imagination in marking out the social spaces of what we call humanity? How has literature been called upon to bear witnesses to both the possibility and limits of the human in the modern world? How has the human condition been thought and written about in diverse historical periods and geographic spaces? Can literature and its criticism continue to inspire the desire for human freedom in an age of intolerance? What is the role of a diverse community of writers and readers in the thinking of the world and our relation to it?

Members are encouraged to think about these questions from the greatest range of perspectives possible—ethics and ethnicity, linguistics and literary history, environmental studies, gender and sexuality studies, queer theory, criticism, writing, composition studies, pedagogy, public culture, and civic engagement. In addition to the main theme, panels can be imagined in a number of clusters and subthemes: defining the human, literature and human rights, citizenship and belonging, technology and the new media, encounters in the classroom and workplace, and the public sphere.
